"Tips For Tough Times" May Help Consumers With Layaway Purchases

Furniture, clothing, even a set of drums -- all of it can and has been purchased on layaway plans by Marylanders who later nearly lost either their money or the merchandise they wanted because they didn't know their rights under Maryland's Layaway Sales Act, according to the latest issue of "Tips for Tough Times," published by the Consumer Protection Division in the office of Attorney General J. Joseph Curran, Jr.

Layaway purchases can be of growing importance to consumers during difficult times, when then are trying to avoid buying things with credit cards and instead turn to layaways for appliances, clothing and holiday gifts," Curran said.

The consumers whose cases are cited in the current "Tips for Tough Times" all got refunds when they complained to Curran's office. They include a Landover woman who paid in full for a furniture layaway but never got the furniture because the store claimed the goods weren't in stock; a Baltimore man who paid $600 towards purchase of a set of drums but almost lost his money when he became unemployed and had to stop making payments; and a Baltimore woman who found that the clothes she thought were reserved for her on layaway were no longer available.

"When consumers know their rights under the law, they can be spared a lot of grief and perhaps get what they originally tried to buy," Curran said.

Under a layaway agreement, a consumer agrees to buy goods by making a down payment and follow-up payments, Curran explained. The merchant agrees to hold the goods or identical goods for the consumer until all the payments are made. The merchant must give the consumer a receipt each time a payment is made and sell the goods at the price set in the layaway agreement, even if the price later goes up, according to "Tips for Tough Times."

Maryland's Layaway Sales Act requires a merchant to give the consumer a written layaway agreement, spelling out the consumer's rights and obligations when buying an item on layaway. If the seller fails to comply with the law, the consumer can cancel the agreement and get a full refund, the Attorney General said.

Consumers have the right to cancel a layaway agreement within seven days of signing it and receive a full refund of all the money they have already paid. If a consumer cancels a layaway agreement after eight days or more, or doesn't make a payment within 15 days of a due date, the merchant may keep only 10% of the full price of the item, or the money the consumer already has paid, whichever is less, Curran said.

Curran's office is distributing "Tips for Tough Times" throughout the state via a communications network made up of more than 200 local employers, agencies, labor unions, churches, community associations and service groups.

Companies or agencies interested in receiving a copy of "Tips for Tough Times" with their name on it should contact the Consumer Protection Division in Baltimore at (410) 224-1655

A GIFT OF HOLIDAY READING

If someone on your gift list is a fan of author Anne Rice and her best-selling series. The Vampire Chronicles, you may be able to give the perfect gift: the latest in the series (which began with Interview with the Vampire in 1976) has recently been released by Alfred A. Knopf Publishers

The Tale of the Body Thief is the Vampire Lestat's most ago nizing adventure to date, although his greatest wish has come true -- he is human again Living within mortal skin, however, is not as wonderful as he remembers. In fact, the entire experience becomes an ongoing lesson of self-examination and self-preservation. He comes to believe that nothing could be more horrible than being a mortal. At one point he says, "Only the dead know how terrible it is to be alive.

Lestat must fight enemies unlike those he has ever encountered while he is trapped inside the human frame. He must deal with things which were of no concern to him before, such as a debilitating flu virus, loss of his supernatural hearing, sight and strength, and the possibility of AIDS. He quickly comes to regret his vulnerability and sets about trying to track down his preternatural body and the thief that is living

So, make your favorite vampire enthusiast a happy person this holiday, give him or her a gift that is sure to be appreciated and enjoyed

Toy Buying Tips

Getting a plaything for your offspring can seem more like child's play if you heed a few hints from experts on child development. A well-chosen toy, they say, has certain aspects that make it more valuable to a child's growth:

A child can power the toy with his or her own ideas and imagination;

The toy is open-ended and may be used in several

The toy engages the child's interest beyond a lew moments;

The toy can grow with the child through more than one developmental stage;

The toy is fun, safe, durable and attractive.

Toy designers at Discovery Toys turn out all their products with these points in mind and make lasting items with "play value." Good examples are their construction toys, which they suggest, you choose based on whether the toy matches your child's interests and abilities; is appropriate for your child's age; and passes your child's durability needs.

Children three to five love the texture and colors

Oakland Man To Serve Six Mos. For Sex Offense

A 21-year-old Oakland man was sentenced to one year, six months suspended, in the Garrett County Jail by Garrett County Circuit Court dudge Fred A Thayer Brian E. Sliger was found guilty in September jury trial of a fourth degree sex offense charge, which was merged with the charge of assault and battery. He was sentenced to the jail term last week

Sliger was charged with the offenses following incidents during May and lune of this year in which he apparently sexually fondled a 10-year-old female. He was also originally charged with third degree sex offense, but was found not guilty of that charge by the jury. The defendant will also be on two years of supervised probation following his release from jail, according to the report He was given 48 days credit for time already served

In a separate sex offense case, State's Attorney James Sherbin chose not to prosecute charges against lwen T. Ravenscroft, 32, Mtn Lake Park. Ravenscroft had been charged with child abuse, second degree sex offense, third degree sex offense, perverted sex practice, and fourth degree sex offense following an alleged incident involving a 4-year-old boy

According to Sherbin, the defendant maintained his innocence and asked for a polygraph test shortly after being charged with the offenses. Ravenscroft passed the voluntary polygraph test with high marks, according to Sherbin. This information with other issues led to the OPERATION SMOKE D.O.G. -- Representatives of the Maryland State Fire Marshal's office met with administrators from the Garrett County Health Department on Monday to present smoke detectors for community use as part of "Operation Smoke D.O.G." (Smoke Detectors on Guard). The presentation was made at the Health Department by Chief Deputy Fire Marshal Robert H. Shimer. Pictured left to right are: Chuck Overton, Rotary Club president; Dr. Rex D. Archer, Garrett County health officer; Carol Bass, WIC coordinator; Shimer; Phil Rook, first assistant chief of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department; Brenda Butscher, chairperson of the Garrett County Commissioners; and James Martin, deputy fire marshal. As part of "Operation Smoke D.O.G.," 75 battery-powered smoke detectors and brochures concerning home fire safety detectors were awarded for distribution to those citizens in need throughout the county. Plans are being made to distribute the detectors through the Women, Infants & Children (WIC) program. Also, the Oakland Rotary Club will be assisting in the distribution program. "We appreciate the opportunity to participate in this worthwhile project. Smoke detectors are very important. Working smoke detectors cut the risk of dying in home fires by nearly 50 percent," Shimer said. For further information regarding this project, persons may contact the Health Department at 334-8116.

Good people just can't at back and do nothing when people are starving

These were the words of First Lady Mrs Barbara Bush this past week when she was asked about Operation Restore Hope being led by United States forces in Somalia, Africa We agree with her philosophy

For once there seems to be no accusations of ulterior motives for this US intervention During Operation Desert Storm there were plenty of people clamoring that President Bush invaded Kuwait not to aid the citizens of that nation, but because of our interest in oil. Granted, oil and potentially serious economic consequences played a major role in that decision, but we also believe that the president's humanitarian concern was genuine

In the case of Somalia, we have absolutely nothing to gain from this third world nation, neither from an economic standpoint nor a military one

Others like to accuse presidents of doing such things for political reasons. However, in this case we have a lame duck president who stands to gain nothing politically, except perhaps admiration for his courage, determination, and commitment to continue his job as president until January 20. It would have been quite easy for President Bush to ignore the problem in Somalia and simply let his successor make the tough decisions

There are certainly a number of things we Americans could and should be ashamed of throughout our 200-plus years of existence as a nation. However, we should also take great pride in our world leadership role of attempting to bring relief to the suffering in many parts of the world. We take so much for granted in this great nation of ours, but that attitude is quickly shattered, or should be, when we observe the masses of starving, dying children in other lands. It is indeed part of our responsibility as human beings to do what we can to aid and assist our distressed brothers and sisters, wherever they may reside in the world.

I read vour editorial in the Thursday, Nov 26, 1992 edition of The Republican entitled "Thanks, Huskies

As I read it. I took it to heart, because I was part of the team this past season This season meant very much to me and all the players Despite our three loses, we had a terrific year! As I listened, and continue to listen, to the statements f people around the com-munity I sometimes become upset I hear people saying what a horrible coach Tom Vent is and it makes me mad Most of these individuals have nothing to do with the football program. Withey know is what they ar from other people or what they see at the football games I deal with Coach Vent every day and I feel he is a great coach.

that he may not be our coach again next year, I was angry The position he has is not an easy one and he does a great job at it I have one more year of football and I hope Tom Vent is the coach for my last year If he happens to leave after next year, I feel bad for the young football players who may not have the opportunity to experience his coaching

I wish people would realize what a difficult job a head coach has Just dealing with 40 or more teenagers s hard enough, let alone trying to teach them some thing I hope that Coach Vent is our football coach for the next year and for many years to come. And to Coach Vent, thank you very much for a wonderful

"OPERATION SANTA CLAUS" IS NOW IN FULLSWING by Dr. David Bolinger

The theme of Rotary International for the year, "Real Happiness is Helping Others" cannot be better exemplified than by participating in the area Rotary clubs' "Operation Santa Claus." with the recent set-up of "giving trees" in all areas of the county by the Friendsville, Grantsville, and Oakland Rotary clubs, many people may help to make a happier and brighter Christmas for some 150 needy families in the county.

The Friendsville Rotary Club is sponsoring "giving trees" located at the First United National Bank & Trust in Friendsville, Fratz Tru-Value Hardware and the IGA in Accident. The Grantsville Rotary Club is sponsoring "Giving Trees" at Yoder's Country Market, First United Na tional Bank & Trust in Grantsville, Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, and the Grantsville Foodland, Gift and food tags on those trees are for families in that area.

Food that is collected at the giving trees in the various food markets will be combined with the bulk food items purchased by the Oakland Rotary Club. In addition to the markets listed for Friendsville and Grantsville, participating food merchants in the Oakland area are Browning's Foodland, Mtn. Lake Park IGA and Oakland SuperValu Other giving trees in the Oakland area can be found at the American Legion Post 71, Arrowhead Grocery and Deli, Bausch and Lomb, First Federal Savings and Loan, First United National Bank & Trust - Main Office, Garrett County Health Department, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Garrett National Bank, J.C. Penney Catalog Store, Ruth Enlow Library, Toy Chest, Treasure Island, V&S Variety Store and Will O' the Wisp.

These trees will help provide much needed clothing items such as winter coats, boots, shoes, hatsgloves, underwear. and toys, as well as blankets and special gifts for the elderly

To share the happiness of the Christmas season with others through this countywide project, individuals are urged to go to one of the many locations listed above with a Christmas giving tree, remove one or more of the tags from the tree, purchase the item or items according to instructions on the tag, attach the tag to the gift and return it to the tree. All gifts must be returned to the trees no later than December 16 to ensure delivery with the food baskets that will be distributed by the three Rotary clubs on Saturday, December 19

Instructions for monetary contributions will be found at each tree. Those who wish to do so may mail their contributions to Rotary Christmas Project, P.O. Box 741, Oakland, MD 21550

To the Editor The sights, sounds, and smells of Christmas were in abundance Friday, Dec. 4 and Saturday, Dec. 5, as the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross launched its first attempt at a Christmas Tour of Homes. The tour was a grand success and will be repeated the first weekend of December next year The homes were breath taking and the people who toured them were very enthusiastic and apprecia tive to view them expressed their thanks to the homeowners

The tour was over a year in the planning these events are always a lot more work than they appear to be, but when it all comes together it is so rewarding The homeowners worked for months getting everything

The Red Cross has been approached by several homeowners that would like to place their homes on the 1993 tour. I will be visiting these homes this summer and try to choose the homes that will be most interesting to the people of Garrett County.

After some discussion, the board voted to accept all reductions except the first one, which is the $125,000 of the fund balance. Board President Carol Clark asked if that money could be left alone for several months, since the budget cut is for this fiscal year and the actual money does not have to be removed for some time. Her idea was to leave it in the bank until nearer the year's end so that it may gain interest. The board voted to explore that idea further and it will be discussed at next month's meeting

Ryscavage said that if the cut had been larger, more money would have been taken from the Southern High School locker room project. He said a new boiler system is needed immediately at Northern High School. and he wanted that project to remain intact.

The Meaning of "NO"

The number one killer of teens and young adults in the United States is alcohol-related high way crashes. A young American dies about every three hours in an alcohol-related vehicular crash. That's almost nine teens per day -- the starting line-up of a baseball team.

The Office of the Inspector General found that two-thirds of teenagers who drink -- almost 7 million youth -- buy their own alcohol. One of the report's conclusions is that on the one hand parents and the public at large remain indifferent when it comes to underage drinking. On the other hand. youth are vulnerable to a barrage of messages from many directions encouraging them to drink

A generation has grown up surrounded by slogans -- on buttons, bumper stickers, billboards, and milk cartons, in radio and television spots -- urging them to "Just Say No." Primarily, they've been admonished to "Just Say No to Drugs "Among many youth who stay in school, use of the so-called illicit drugs had declined, a very good thing for everyone's health and safety But "no" doesn't seem to mean what it used to when it comes to alcohol. This is especially important when it comes to drinking and driving

While we've been telling our children to just say no to some drugs, we've also been telling them (and everyone else) not to drink and drive. But here's where the word "no" begins taking on shadings and variations and ambiguities In spite of the law, many adults tolerate, even condone, adolescent drinking with the misguided rationalization, at least they're not on drugs."

Particularly for young people, it may be easy to translate anti-drinking driving themes into meaning that drinking, even heavy drinking, is okay as long as you don't drive Youth, alcohol and driving is a recipe for tragedy wherever it occurs It's time we made use of their awareness of antidrinking and driving messages.

Parents, educators, community leaders, and law en forcement all need to deliver firm, clear messages about compliance with the national 21 minimum drinking age. Communities need to decide what they can do to make clear that "no" means "NO" -- in no uncertain terms, -- when it comes to underage alcohol use

THE MIND WANDERS

A Wish For Peace by Pam Ashby

Last Friday as I was preparing to go home and spend a nice weekend with my family. I received a disturbing phone call in the newsroom from an trate man. I knew this was going to be a doozie because: 1) the man didn't have the nerve to identify himself, and 2) he began with conversation in an accusatory tone with "How's come your newspaper never gives Northern Athletics front page coverage?

Well, after I placed my teeth back in my mouth and my eyes back into their proper sockets, 1 told him I was real tired of those kinds of unfounded allegations. And although he was obviously not listening to me. I further explained that, unlike him, we had no animosity toward any region of the county. But he just kept yammering at me and telling me how hard the Huskies had worked. (Tell me something I don't already know, mister!)

I even tried to explain to this anonymous guy that my sister and I both actually hailed from the northern end of the county and we're half of the news staff, I stated that my younger brother and sister had graduated from Northern (both participated in sports). My words fell on deaf ears and the yammering continued. So I hung up on him because I figured it was an exercise in futility. I then resolved that I

First, I did my homework and after perusing the last five editions of The Republican, I determined that anonymous man must have recently emerged from a cave or was looking at some other newspaper when he said the Huskies weren't on the front page. Judge for yourself, please. Here are the Nov. 5 edition: Huskies lose but are given top billing would attempt to educate "anonymous man."

because of their super record on page 10, which is the front page of the sports section. Southern Rams also lost. They are on page 11 Nov. 11 edition: Huskies Day is proclaimed by the Board Garrett County Commissioners and the picture and cutline are on the important top right of page 1 of the newspaper. And rightly so. The Huskies are headed for the play-offs, but lose another game; they dominate the first and second pages of the sports section. The Rams win; they are on page 12. Nov. 19 edition: What's this? The Huskies are on the front page again and so is the Northern award-winning band. The Huskies also dominate page 11 in sports.

Nov. 26 edition: Entire page 12 devoted to Huskies even in the face of defeat. They've had a great year and the entire county should be praising them, but we heard through the grapevine that some people from Northern are trashing Tom Vent, head coach, because the team didn't capture the state title. Editor Don Sincell responds with a glowing editorial and thanks the Huskies for a job well done in aptly representing our county.

Dec. 3 edition: Football season is long over, but the Huskies received national attention in U.S.A. Today. We report that and include another feature story on the Huskies with an unprecedented six photos of the team.

The facts speak for themselves. The bottom line is that we at The Republican are extremely proud of the Huskies and their tremendous efforts to win a state title My second goal is a call for peace between certain citizens of Garrett County who perpetuate the fact that Oakland was made the county seat back in 1872 when Garrett County was formed passed officially by the state legislature in 1874). Grantsville tried to secede from the county but finally gave up. Is this what's causing the problem some 120 years later? If so, get over it. Most enlightened people realize the positive qualities of all areas of this great county -- from Bloomington to Finzel, from Friendsville to Red House, from Grantsville to Oakland, from Kitzmiller to Sang Run, from Avilton to Mtn. Lake Park, from Bittinger to Crellin, from Deer Park to the Elbow. Each has a unique history; each is part of the whole -- Garrett County

My wish is for final peace between all those sections of the county. Garrett County is known for its ability to rise to the occasion in the face of adversity and yet petty jealousies still exist and cutting, hurting remarks continue to fly from one end to the other. It's time to put those negative feelings aside. Maybe this season of giving and caring would be a good time for us all to start realizing the good qualities in every man, no matter where he calls "home." I wish you peace especially, anonymous man, for your shortsightedness must make you so unhappy.

TRIVIA CHALLENGE UNDERWAY - The WKHJ-Radio and Unos Restaurant and Bar Trivia Challenge is well underway in Garrett County, with several teams already having won mone various charities. The contest began over a month ago with threeperson teams vying for points by answering trivia questions once a day for a week if a team wins one week, it moves on to ete a second week, and if that team wins again, it is tabled until the quarter finals which will be held in the near future. The defeated teams have been given $25 for their chosen charities as well as kinch for three at Unos. New teams may still join in the game, according to Cathy Clocker. WKHJ organizer of the event Although most teams represent a business, any three-person team may compete. The team should choose its charity contacting Mrs. Clocker to join. Some of the teams that have already competed include the Lunch Bunch from Addictions Services playing for the Garrett County Literacy Council, the Scrappers from B&S Scrap, playing for Appalachian Crossroads; the Drillers from the Dental Health Group, playing for the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation; the Dipsticks from Fisher

Auto Parks, playing for Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad; the Scoop Sisters from The Republican newspaper, playing for Santa Claus Lou Stouffer; and the Tornados from TDEC, playing for Big Brothers. Big Sisters Other teams include the Garrett County Clerk's Office playing for Garrett Community College basketball program; the Bankers from First United Bank playing for Hospice; and Jackson Equipment playing for the area's 4-H program The Tornados and the Scoop Sisters teams have moved on to the quarter finals. In the photo above, seated left to right. are Nate Motz and Olive Corliss (Lunch Bunch), Dale McNair and Roger Gower (Scrappers); Sue Evans (Dipsticks), and Brenda Crabfree (Drillers). Standing in the same order are Pam Ashby. Mary McEwen, and Sherry Frantz (Scoop Sisters): Diane Knotts.
Betsy Marple, and Roy Dawson (Tornados): Jamie Gustovich. general manager of Unos; Fred Herath (Lunch Bunch); Mark Gower (Scrappers); Dan Koch and Bill Yant (Drillers). The players may win as much as $1,000 for their chosen charily and a party for 25 at Unos. The contest can be heard every weekday morning at 8:55 and 9:55 on WKHJ-Radio

French Café Bakery

The smell of freshly- to freshly-baked bread and baked bread and the tantalizing taste of muffins and croissants can now be enjoyed locally at the French Cafe Bakery on Deep Creek Lake. Located on Route 219 next to the Trading Post, the French Cafe Bakery is owned and operated by Fred and Christiane Bergheim who have had a home on the lake and vacationed here for four years before making the permanent move to Garrett County from Northern Virginia last August.

The Bergheime have three children, two teenagere who help at the bakery on weekende, con Fabrice, a 16-year-old football player at Southern High School, 14-year-old daughter Lydia, student at Southern Middle School, and baby Bryan, who attends Cherry Glade Mennonite Day Care Center.

The couple does all their own baking, nothing new for Mrs. Bergheim who is French. The family is used

Huskies Whip Mountaineers Before Being Edged By Wildcats

School varsity boys opened their baskerball wasin with a 57-46 win over host Beall last Friday night in Frosthurg, but were then tripped up by Westmar Tuesday night, 62-57, on the Huskies

After falling behind the Beall Mountaineers 18-9 late in the first quarter, junior guard Rob Speicher sparked a second-quarter surge for the Huskies and Northern led 30-27 at halftime Speicher netted 10 of his points in that period and helped take time off the clock with controlled ball handling

The Huskies stretched their lead to 41-33 by the end of the third quarter despite the fact that Speicher did not score at all in that period and their 6-6 starting center, Brian Kamp. fouled out of the game just 53 seconds into the quarter Picking up the slack in that

We played well defensively again, but we didn't take care of the ball and we missed our foul shots," Gibson said.

Wilson led the Lakers and all scorers by netting 28 points, while Whitehead finished with 10. Rease recorded 22 points to lead Nassau, while Letlow scored 17, Ryan Fennelly contrib-uted 11, and Eric Baggett added 10

The Lakers put it all together against Potomac State on Tuesday and held the 8-2 Catamounts to their lowest single-game point production of the season, while out-rebounding them, 50-31. The win broke the Catamounts' five-game win streak

The Lakers were on top 37-28 at halftime and the closest Potomac State ever got was six points with about 10 minutes left in the game Dave McKenzie, the leading scorer for the Catamounts, was held to 14 points and had to sit out much of the second half because of foul trouble

Wes Tubbs paced Garrett with 17 points, Ed Gerald finished with 15 to go with his game-high 14 rebounds. Whitehead contributed 12 points, and Kenny Gross added 11. Whitehead also handed out seven assists.

Also reaching double figures for Potomac State were Damian Zellous, Craig Kearney, and Marcus Gaines with 12 points apiece. Gains also had five blocked shots

The local historical publication The Glades Star in 1957 urged that the deteriorating log school house located at the intersection of New Germany and Chestnut Ridge Roads, be preserved "as a museum and memorial for the citizens of Garrett County who gave their energy and skill and showed their rugged individualism in construction what they then thought was quite modern, to meet the needs of their time."

In 1960, Ross Durst wrote in the same publication that If an attempt is to be made to preserve it, it must be done soon." Alas, nothing whatsoever was done, soon or late For another quarter-century the school continued to rot and sag, a victim of almost two centuries of wear and weather

Then, in 1986, an application was submitted to Maryland Historical Trust, nominating the school to the Maryland Historical Register. In response, the trust said the building was ineligible because of major structural prob-

Soon afterwards, the county commissioners expressed concern that a sponsor be found for the historic structure, and in 1987, Penn Alps, Inc., began seeking the school's owners, Cora Broadwater and Dorothy Saum, hoping to acquire the property. In Aug. 1988, the school was donated to Penn Alps, which quickly had the building appraised by an architectural historian of its potential for restoration. With a highly favorable appraisal in hand, Maryland Historical Trust consented to a loan that made restoration possible. In October 1989, the job was underway and by the summer of 1992, the project was complete; not only in terms of reconstruction, but also in furnishing with antiques appropriate to the original period of use, so as to re-instill the spirit of the mid-to-late 1800s.

From the first day it was publicly proposed that the log building be salvaged and renovated, to the day the restored school was open to the public, 35 years had passed. But with the remodeling finished, nowadays a visitor needs only to step inside the school ... to pass from the 20th century back into the 19th.

Financial aid frozen in September in anticipation of additional budget cuts has been released, the chairman of the Maryland Higher Education Commission announced last week.

J. Henry Butta said that $1.2 million in financial aid for Maryland students going to college out-of-state will be reinstated, as will $650,000 for a new part-time grant program.

Action by the General Assembly last month to reduce state spending made it unnecessary to cut financial aid programs

Approximately 1,100 students were affected when General State Scholarship payments to out-of-state schools were suspended They attend colleges and universities m Delaware, the District of Columbia, Connecticut Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, and Vermont, all of which have reciprocal agreements with Mary-

An estimated 1,500 students will benefit from the reinstated part-time grant program. It was created by the Scholarship Reform Act of 1991 and funded for the first time in the FY '93 budget. Part-time grants, which are awarded by individual institutions, range from $100 to $500 per semester.

The Commission voted to award General State Scholarship grants only to students going to College in Maryland in FY '94, however, and to continue the policy until the state's financial condition improves.

Group Proposes New Model For Teacher Education

New teachers would earn an undergraduate degree in arts and sciences, then enroll in a 15-month professional development program, under a new model for teacher education proposed last week by a task force of the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

Upon completion of the professional program, a paid internship emphasizing peda-gogy and classroom experience, students would receive a master's degree and certification to teach in Maryland.

This new concept for teacher education was pro-posed by the Teacher Education Task Force created last year by the Commission. The task force recommended that sive public hearings on its recommendations and invite the education community to help refine the proposal.

This collaborative process should include all interested and affected sectors of education in the state," said Constance Stuart, chair of the task force, "so that it attracts the best ideas for developing this model into a successful and innovative teacher preparation program for the realities of today's and tomorrow's classrooms

The task force recommended phasing out the undergraduate degree in education and instead requiring new teachers to earn a bachelor's degree with a specific major in liberal arts or sciences

Stuart described the liberal arts/sciences degree as the "preferred" preparation for the Professional Development Year but said that other students would not be precluded from the program as long as they passed the required exam to enter the Professional Development Pro-

Stuart said that the proposed changes go hand-inhand with efforts to reform primary and secondary education in Maryland.

The task force was asked to recommend ways to ensure that the undergraduate of teachers provided a comprehensive and substantive foundation in the liberal arts and sciences, including appropriate general education subjects, an academic major and related minors.

Stuart is a member of the Commission. The balance of the task force was made up of educators, legislators, and private citizens.

State Ed. Depts. Seeks Partnerships For GT Centers

The State Department of Education is seeking part-nerships of colleges, local school systems, and other public and private organizations to operate summer centers for gifted and talented students in 1993.

The department has issued a request for proposals to operate residential and non-residential gifted and talented centers in mathematics, science, technology, social studies, communication, and the arts. The proposals seek an expanded role for partnerships or colleges, local school systems, nonprofit organizations, education foundations, government agencies, and businesses.

The centers will operate between June 27, 1993, and Aug. 20, 1993, for approximately 1,400 students entering grades 4-12. Centers may be residential or non-residential. The deadline for submitting proposals to the State Department of Education is Jan. 6, 1993, with the awarding of grants due Jan. 22.

The request for proposals also includes an option to operate staff development programs for Maryland teachers of gifted and talented students. Both the student centers and the optional teacher training programs will support the Schools for Success and the Maryland School Performance Program.

The summer centers will provide advanced studies and enrichment experiences for highly able learners selected for the program. The center programs will be based on the state's learning outcomes in the different subject areas and on guidelines for higher order thinking skills and ef fective strategies for gifted learners.

Proposals are to contain an overview of the proposed instructional programs, their relation to learning outcomes, students to be served, staff ing administration, evening and recreational programs, and plans for serving under served minority students and students with disabilities

Inquiries about the re quest for proposals should be submitted to Dr. Toni

"C'mon guys, it's Charlie, your leader. Let's step on it! It's a long march to Miami. What's the holdup?" "Well, Charlie, we really aren't so sure about moving. Yeah, the weather would be great, but you're a birdbran!

"It's cold here, but don't we fit in? We're warm, and our flat feet were made for ice. On the beach, people will laugh at us, strutting around in tuxedes . . . and these feet aren't made for the sand. Think about it! God made us the way we are. Let's just stay out. O.K. Charlie?"

O.K., you win, Joe. I'm not a birdbrain. We'll stay put." The apostle Paul advised the Philippians, "Not that I complain of want; for I have learned, in whatever state I un, to be content" (Phil. 44:11-12). As you worship, remember the traditional hyum, "Brighten the Corner Where You Are." God's contenument is in your corner.

BIBLE

STOP PRAYING? December 13, 1992

Background Scripture: Luke 1:1-15 Devotional Reading:

Luke 1:67-79. There are some who pray much in the same way that they mail order merchandise from Sears or Spiegels. For them, prayer is like a shopping list of needs that God is obligated to fulfill. At the other extreme are those who believe that prayer is useless, an exercise in futility In between those two polarities is where you and I probably find ourselves: not so arrogant that we believe God cannot and will not refuse our request, nor so skeptical as to believe that it examplishes nothing.

The problem with many of us is pretty much what it was with Zechariah, the Jewish priest who became the father of John the Baptist. Wedon't know how long Zechariah and Eliza-beth prayed for a son, but as Luke says "both were advanced in years," we can assume that for quite a few decades they had prayed fervently and nothing happened.

NO ANSWER?

Have you ever prayed for something day afterday, month after month, year after year, but without anything you could interpret as an answer? I have. For at least three decades, I have prayed daily for the healing of a loved one's troubled soul. If there has been any result of my prayer, I have not noticed. In fact, quite to the contrary. It is not a selfish or unusual request. I know that God wants that person whole as much and even more than I do. Is it beyond the power of God? No. Maybe I'm not praying rightly or perhaps I am not worthy for God to answer this prayer? No. I don't think that is it either. God doesn't answer prayer because we are worthy and only humans worry about prayer being the 'right way." In fact, in Luke 1 we find that Zechariah and Elizabeth" both righteous before God.

walking in all the command ments and ordinances of the Lord blameless. But they had no child..." (1:6,7).
So it does not follow that God will answer the prayers of his "good" children and turn a deaf ear to those who are "bad." Human transactions and rela tionships may work that way, but not with God. Answered prayer is always a matter of grace: not because we are good, but in spite of the fact that we are not. Goodness may be rewarded, but a reward is never guaranteed. So, for me, prayer is always a mystery. Just when I think I know how best to pray, just when I think I have it all figured out, I am brought face to face with the realization that I don't know as much as I think

> YOUR PRAYER IS HEARD!

Zechariah's experience in the temple is always a spiritual tonic for me. When I wonder whether the God of the universe could possibly be hearing my prayers, I read the angel's assurance to both Zechariah and all of us, "Do not be afraid...for your prayer is heard..." (1:13). All of us need to be reassured that our prayers are heard and regarded by God, that in praying we are not speaking empty words to ourselves. Zechariah was assured, not only that his prayer was heard, but that his wife would bear a child that was to be a special servant of God.

So, should all barren couples believe that they are guaran-teed that someday there will be a child born to them? No, that is a guarantee that prayer cannot and will not make. What is guaranteed is that God has heard the prayer and will do something about it. The purpose of our prayer will be ful-filled, but the letter of the prayer may not be. We will get our heart's desire, but it may not be in the form we have asked for. We are not God and therefore we do not always know what we really need

So, although I have not yet penetrated the mystery prayer and seen the results of my years of praying one special request, I will continue to pray, assured that God does hear my prayer and cares enough for me answer that prayer, even though I may not see or under stand the answer when it comes When shall I stop praying?

COVER STORY

Caccialanza likes being a 'cow in the landscape'

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

Two years ago, when Lorenzo Caccialanza first appeared on "Knots Landing" (airing Thursdays on CBS), his role was expected to last two episodes. So, as a sort of inside joke, his character was named in honor of "Knots Landing" makeup artist Nick Schillace But the chemistry between Caccialanza, a striking 6-foot-5-inch actor whose casually impudent manner is frequently laugh-out-loud funny, and Michelle Phillips, with whom he was then paired, was so strong that Caccialanza's two episodes increased to four. then six, and eventually he joined the show for the re-mainder of the 1990-91 season

From the beginning, it was kind of overwhelming," says Caccialanza. "I remember going to New York after only two episodes had aired, and people in the street were yelling my name. As long as they yelled 'Nick,' that was OK, but when they said, 'Caccialanza' that really surprised me It takes a long time just to go through my last name, let alone pro-

But last season, he disappeared. What happened?

What happened there?" says Caccialanza. "I don't know. I have no idea, so I don't even want to speculate on it

And since Anne (Phillips) presently is occupied elsewhere. Nick has been marking time with Anne's nemesis, Claudia (Kathleen Noone)

Caccialanza, a native of Ita-, speaks excellent English but has a heavy accent "One of the reasons why I was able to have certain success so quickeven though I want to think I'm as good as De Niro is probably the fact that I did sound different." he says. "I did move differently. I did have a different body lan-guage And differences are an eye-catcher When everything is like everything else, our eyes are kind of glazed. And suddenly something happens in the landscape that's differ-ent. It's like. Whoa What is 'A cow 'Oh. a cow Well. I was the cow in the landscape.

Caccialanza laughs. "What a great metaphor." he says

One thing the amiable Caccialanza is unwilling to discuss is Jane Fonda, whom he dated before she and Ted Turner became serious. "I've had two or three big magazines tell me. If you don't talk about this, we're not going to talk about you.' And I said, 'Perfect. I don't want to talk about it

Lorenzo Caccialanza and Kalhlean Noona portray Nick and Claudia in "Knots Landing." The nighttime soap of romance and intrigue aire Thursdays on CBS

SOAP SCOOP

Dorian Lord is back in the picture on 'OLTL'

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

Lash' According to ABC. there are a few final details to be worked out, but it's most likely that daytime su-perstar Robin Strasser is coming back to her old role of legendary meanie Dorian Lord on "One Life to Live."

This is a real shock to the daytime community, which assumed that Strasser would be taking over the "Guiding

Robin Strasser

Light" role of vixen supreme Alexandra Spaulding, most recently vacated by Beverlee McKinsey. Strasser had been spotted more than once re cently at "GL" 's Manhattan

As Dorian, Strasser would replace her successor in the role. Elaine Princi. At first. much softer Princi couldn't get past the shadow of her overpowering predecessor, but later her own talents were most impressively brought out by the new produc tion-writing team of Linda Gottlieb and Michael Malone

Strasser won two Daytime Emmys for her performance

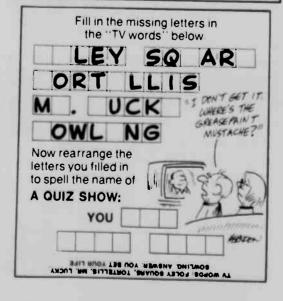

as Dorian, a role she played from 1979-87. Thereafter, Strasser headed to Hollywood. where she did quite well. She had regular roles on "Coach" and "Knots Landing." made guest appearances in series such as "Murphy Brown" and "2000 Malibu Road." had parts in miniseries such as "Glitter" and "Lady Boss." and starred in the memorable "Baby M." Strasser defined the role of the daytime vixen supreme when she played the original Rachel Davis on "Another World" from 1967-71. Her only daytime role that was not an outright success was one that began as a heroine - Dr. Chris dren ' (1976-79). As Dorian Strasser was divinely nasty but she also so finely painted the character's undercurrents of insecurity and neurosis that the otherwise-disagreeable Dorian became emotionally accessible to the audience

While other soap villainesses often veer into camp (such as Joan Collins' Alexis on "Dy nasty"), Strasser's characters have been saved by their very human base of vulnerability Her Dorian was so highstrung, at times it would appear she was just about to snap' She was the perfect nem-esis for "OLTL" 's goddess of good, her stepdaughter Viki Buchanan, played by Erika Slezak, who is herself an actress every bit as formidable as Strasser.

A huge welcome back to an actress whose work goes beyond just portraying a soapopera icon of evil' As Strasser has proved amply during her 20 years in soaps, daytime acting can be art

This week, there is probably no truer title than "America's at the Mall." which airs Thursday, Dec. 17, on PBS. (Check local listings.) It documents the growth of what may be suburban America's reigning symbol, from the late-'50s, when emigre architect Victor Gruen first conceived of turning the storefronts of a shopping strip inward, to the recent opening of the world's largest mall The Mall of America (pictured) in Bloomington, Minn

Mark Morris "The Hard Nut" is "The Nutcracker" with a different spin The costumes are 60s-modern. and the genders of the dancers don't necessarily match the genders of their roles. But Tchaikovsky's glorious music has been retained, and the story is unusually accessible Barry Alterman (I) and Peter Wing Healey (r) play the king and queen. It airs on PBS's "Great Performances" Wednesday, Dec. 16. (Check local listings.)

Fifth Graders Spend Unique Weekend At Camp A recent weekend in late

November marked a special learning experience for 25 fifth graders from Accident Elementary School who participated in an outdoor education program at Camp Hickory, planned and supervised by students at Garrett Community College and Frostburg State University and their instructors, Ann Wellham and Barbara

Major topics covered during the weekend included ecosystems and communities, maps and compass, environmental awareness, survival, and geography, with performing arts activities of a nature band and dramatic skits in which students acted out stories they had written in

According to GCC professor Ann Wellham, the weekend marked the first opportunity to combine the principles of Project Wild with Project Learning Tree for Garrett County students. Commenting on this program, Ms. Wellham stated, "This was our first opportunity to coordinate these topics with the curriculum being taught at Accident Elementary School. We were able to accomplish this goal quite easily because Outdoor Ed emphasizes the interdisciplinary approach. The weekend provided direct hands-on experience for our student to utilize Project Wild, Project Learning Tree, and other outdoor ed principles. I am very pleased with outcome, and I sincerely believe that GCC's students, as well as the fifth graders involved, benefitted tremendously," she said.

Project Wild, a joint project of the Western Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies and the Western Regional Environment Education Council, is an interdisciplinary environmental and conservation education program that emphasizes wildlife. Its goal is to assist learners of any age in developing awareness, knowledge, skills, and commitment to result in informal decisions, responsible behavior, and constructive actions concerning wildlife and the environ-

Project Learning Tree is a program of the Western Regional Environmental Education Council and the American Forest Foundation administered by the American Forest Council. It is based on seven key principles: environment awareness, diversity of forest roles, cultural contexts, societal perspectives, management and interdependence of natural resources, life support systems, and

About her students' involvement in the weekend, Ms. Surgent said, "I believe that the teaching experience at Hickory Environmental Center is, without a doubt, the best educational experience to which our F.S.U. Outdoor students can be exposed. I hope it is equally educational for the 5th grade students."The 29 counselors who attended the program represented students who are majoring in four different academic programs: Recreation, Adventure Sports, Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology, and Physical Education.

Fifth graders who participated were Amy Thompson, Audrey Friend, Tommy Thorne, Brandon Wilkens, Eddie Frazee, Christopher Diggs, Kelley Fratz, Kelley Winter, Samuel Schmidt, Paul Beitzel, John King Jr., James Hook, PJ Workman Robert Hook, Susie Broadwater, Morgan Rodeheaver, Heather Ault, Katelin Roberts, Amanda Wood, Danielle Harman, Lauren Bonar, Laramie Slawson, Kristy Beitzel, Leslie Swearman, and Laurie Lewis.

GCC students who served counselors were: Dene Wood, Jeff Stemple, Sonya Guthrie, Denny Talbert, Rob Wittington, Debbie Snyder, Tammy Bittinger, Nick Nicklow, Mark Phillips, Heather Shepherd, Tracey Feather, and Brandon

FSU student-counselors were: Laura Becker, Rich Briden, Kenny Culbertson, Corey Derfler, Adam Farb-

State Superintendent ments and to improve every school in Maryland," Dr. Nancy Grasmick announced this week that the State Department of Education has earned the U.S. Department of Education's "A+ for Breaking the Mold" award in recognition of the Maryland School Performance Assessment Program, an innovative program to measure school performance and raise student achievement

This award is a tribute the many educators in Maryland who are working to develop these new assess.

Grasmick said in announcing the award.

The State Department of Education has been developing the new assessments - a fundamental departure from multiple choice tests -- over the past two years as part of its school improvement program. The assessments involve student in group and individual tasks that measure their higher level thinking skills, including the application of interdisciplinary knowledge and skills to real life problems.

Each school day the U.S. Department of Education recognizes innovative schools and education programs that "break the mold" of traditional practice, involve communities in improvement efforts, and work toward achievement of the six national education goals. Maryland's school assessments are designed to measure students' higher-order thinking skills and, at the same time, promote instruction that develops those skills. The assessments are therefore central to the state's efforts to reach the goals, which

call for competency in challenging subject matter

The assessment program will be the topic of the America 2000 conference call today between Robert Gabrya, assistant state superintendent for school performance, and Assistant U.S. Secretary of Education Bruno Manno Also participating in the call will be Jackie Lazarewicz, principal of Clemens Crossing Elementary School in Howard County.

"Schools are changing," U.S. Secretary of Education Lamar Alexander said in announcing the award. "All over the country, in communities where business as usual just isn't enough, there are break-the-mold schools that are teaching to high standards, cutting through bureaucratic red tape." DCLRecreation

Charity Drives

The staff at the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area Office has instituted two charity drives for this Christmas holiday season.

As in the 1991 Christmas season, the DNR employees will conduct a collection of toys, wrapping, bows, etc. to benefit the House of Hope in Oakland. Donations may be dropped off at the Recreation Area Office, located at Deep Creek Lake State Park The Recreation Area will also be participating in a statewide Forest and Park Service food drive during all park programs conducted this holiday season. "Admission" to the programs is a non-perishable canned good or a small cash donation that would be forwarded by the service to local needy families. Separate food donations may also be made at the Recreation Area's Administrative Office. For further information may contact the Deep Creek at (301) 387-5563

Children Need Social Security Number By Age 1

Taxpayers filing federal income tax returns need social security numbers for any claimed dependent age 1 or older, reminds Thomas W Armbruster, Social Security manager in Cumberland

With the cooperation of state officials and hospital employees, many infants have Social Security numbers be fore they leave the hospitals Armbruster said. "That's because in most states, in cluding Maryland, the Social Security number application process is tied into the Birth Registry system "Parents of children who don't have numbers should contact their local Social Security office and ask for an application for a Social Security card. Along with the completed application, they'll need to provide evidence of the child's age. identity, and U.S citizenship or lawful alien status

An official birth certificate is acceptable evidence of both age and citizenship for a person born in the U.S., Armbruster said For a for-

by Bernice Kepple

The world has opened up to citizens of countries that were formerly a part of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and some of those citizens are taking any opportunity to travel to parts of the world they once only dreamed of visiting

It was just such an op-portunity that brought loan and Doina Cordumeanu, to Maryland from Romania The Cordumeanus, a mar ned couple who are both veterinarians in Romania, visited America as part of a veterinary exchange program between the two countries Based in Blacksburg, Va., at the Maryland/Virginia Veterinary School, the pair visited Garrett County several weeks ago and spent two days traveling with Dr David Rawe of Casselman Veterinary Services in Grantsville

A special stop for loan (John) and Doina was the Ray Miller farm in Pleasant Valley, because Miller had recently returned from a visit to their home country, Romania. Miller had spent two weeks there in October as part of a voluntary construction crew, which in that two weeks time erected a 38-foot by 116-foot dairy barn which will house 42 cows

The barn is part of a project by Christian Aid Ministry, an organization supported by Amish/Mennonites, Liberal Mennonites, and members of some other religious sects. The Romanian project includes the land and other buildings where the barn was built, and an orphanage, all purchased through donations. Long-range plans include the pasteurization and bottling of milk for the orphanage and surrounding communities, and the production of ice cream for market. Now residing on the farm in Romania is New Holland, Pa., dairy farmer Ben Lapp Lapp has experience pasteurizing, bottling and making ice cream from the milk he produces on his Pennsylvania farm, and has offered his expertise to get the Romanian project

The group Miller traveled with consisted of 13 volunteers, six from this area and seven from Lancaster, Pa. Also traveling from this area were Emanual and Edna Miller,

Eddie Miller, Fred Peter sheim, Edwin Bender, as well as Ray Miller Several other groups have been in Romania since then, including some from this area, and there will be more going since there is still work to be done

The cows to fill the barn in Romania will also come from this country, some will be purchased and some will be donated. These cows are scheduled to leave this country in April

Because of his recent trip to Romania, Miller was glad to visit with the Cordumeanus; to show them pictures from their homeland, and talk with them about people and places they quickly We must send most things to laboratory

Dr. Rawe related that some of the diseases the Romanian veterinarians treat are the same as those he treats, but our cows don't get some diseases theirs do. and theirs don't get some diseases ours do. They don't have pink eye over there, he exclaimed. When told what pink eye is and what it is caused by, they said, "Yes, we have studied it in our exotic disease course at the university."

Miller said he had met one veterinarian while in Romania who had also been in this country. He had been here specifically to learn about displaced abomasum ability to have the best tech nology and the ability to have good cows All of the cows and all the land was owned by the government at that time. Collective farms got treated differently only because of money State farms had college graduates and everything. but collective farms had workers who were not so smart because they did not have the advantage of an education she continued, "collective farms disappeared and people took their animals back. I think this may not be a good thing. Our people are not able to work the land in small pieces. We hope they will form associations (cooperatives) between themselves and have an agronomist. Many old have them to work with "After the revolution,"

Doina arrived in the United States in August and loan in September. They will be returning to Romania December 15 to be home in time to celebrate their son's birthday on December 25. While here, they have taken every advantage to view procedures not performed in their country.

Dr Rawe was surprised learn just how similar their education was to his. The differences, however, exist in the level of technology and the facilities which are not available to them in Romania.

The major differences between (veterinary prac-tice) in our countries," Doina, who speaks perfect English, says, "is technology. You have a lot of technology. I don't want to say we have no machines, but practice is very hard in Romania. We don't have the ability to make an analysis to replace cotton seed. One of their major feed sources are beets (cow beets), and Dr. Rawe said he doesn't know where they would even fit into feed rations in this country. In Romania, the beets are pulled by hand and put on piles, then the tops are cut off. The beet tops are fed separately while still fresh, and the beets are fed whole or chopped. "Our cows would choke on them if they tried to eat them whole, Dr. Rawe said. Continuing, he laughed, "Every once in has choked on an apple." Dr. Rawe asked the couple if, before the revolution, cows at state farms got better care than cows in the villages. Doina said that during that time there were two kinds of farms, state farms and collective farms She went on to explain that at the beginning of Communism, people in the villages were obliged to put all their animals and all their land

a while we get a cow that in the collective farms "At that time," Doina said, "yes, the state farm was the best because they had the ability to have all the best food and had the (twisted stomach), because people are left in villages they don't experience it and the young ones work in towns. These old people don't have the knowledge and ability to care for their

> The villagers must use everything they have to the utmost. They use steers or one horse to pull their small wagons Some even use a team of cows to pull a wagon to gather their beets and corn. Doina says she tries to discourage that. She doesn't like them using their cows, and says the cows have to produce milk and that is enough of a strain on them without pulling a wagon She continued to explain that the people only got a This was because many of the large land holders were foreigners, and to protect Romanians, the government didn't want them to be able to take all their land back, only a percentage, to protect the country

Miller said he was impressed while he was there when he saw people trying to harvest their beets or whatever they had "They were trying to take care of their things in the field," he said. "They don't just sit back and let it go. They are trying to take care of it. They don't have money for fertilizer and lime, still they give it their time, even if they don't have any money.

In Romania loan manages a state farm, developing feed rations as well as providing veterinary services. Doina is the state vetermarian for her area. Since the revolution, their goal is to open a private business. their own vet clinic. But Doina says, "for this, we must lose our jobs. I'm not able to do this in the after noon after my regular job

If she did quit her state job, she says the state would hire (appoint) another veterinarian. They, in their private practice then, would be in competition with the new state veterinarian. The people in the village, however, would then have a choice.

It is the law

Asked if they did start a private clinic, are the tools and equipment they use now their own, or does the state own them, Doina replied "I don't own them, but I want to say that I don't have them." Dr. Rawe explained that in his conversation with them, he learned that the state doesn't even provide them with the basics "A balling gun is something they don't have! They don't have tubes for IV, but have to suck it out of the bottle with a syringe." Hearing this, Doina nodded and said that she is familiar with such things, she saw them at college, but she doesn't Doina recognized the balling gun as something used to insert magnets. Dr. Rawe said "Overthere they tie their hay bales with wire like we did here years ago, and they have a lot of hardware problems. So many of the cows had hardware that even the magnets didn't help. They'd put a magnet into the cow and come up with a ball of wire as big as a grapefruit. It was just a loan and Doina said they try to do their best with what they have, but they do feel very limited in a lot of situations. "Try to save a calf with pneumonia without antibiotics," Doina said. That is very hard to deal with because you want to and you're able to, but you can't." To that, Dr. Rawe sighed and said, "and I get frustrated some days!"

The visit ended on a more positive note. loan and Doina visited with the Miller family and viewed a large number of photos taken by Miller when he was in Romania. "I took a lot of pictures while in Romania because I don't think I will be going back often," Miller said. They discussed the similarities in the land and the weather. The Cordumeanus said that their drive through Pleasant Valley reminded them of home, and Miller agreed that the hills and mountains are much the same in both areas. He said he thinks he would enjoy farming in Romania because of those similarities. Since Miller had been in their country just two weeks before their visit, the

The cows may be the same, but the equipment is not familiar to them Relow, Rey Miller and his son, Naaman (center left) show the visitors a balling gun (pill g any round on most farms in this country. In Romania, simple equipment like this is not available

Cordumeanus asked what the weather was like back home. Miller said they saw a few snow flurries while there, but Dr. Rawe reminded them that we'd had our first snow fall here during that time as well "We keep arguing over which country is coldest," he said.

Romania is on the same parallel as Montreal, Canada, north of us, and the New England states have approximately the same weather.

It was an enjoyable visit for everyone, and it ended with the hope that loan and Doina have gained some insight into life in another part of the world that will stay with them and lend itself to making their future more stable and productive.

Update On Corn Conditions

Mike Beck, Oakland Southern States, has received some Mycotoxin reports back on corn samples. Fortunately, none of the samples had high levels of aflatoxin to be much of a problem since its favor environment is corn that is stressed by drought. Although these first analysis reports were somewhat negative, feed moldy corn with caution.

Feed any corn with traces of mold first. Moldy corn gets moldier the longer it stays in storage. Blend moldy corn into good corn to dilute the toxic effects if they exist. You would need to have your corn checked for mycotoxin content in order to formulate the blend.

Swine and horses are the most sensitive to mycotoxin My advice is not to feed them moldy corn. If you're worried about mycotox in, take a sample to Oakland Southern States They will have it checked free of charge.

If I had to guess I would say that the quality of our corn silage and shelled corn is down this year. Corn silage will probably be lower in protein and higher in acid detergent fiber and neutral detergent fiber. This means the energy content is lower. I strongly recommend that you have a nutrient analysis.

Feeding High Moisture Corn To Milk Cows For many of you this will be your first experience of feeding high moisture corn. There is a difference from feeding dry corn. I am in the process of putting together detailed information on feeding high-moisture corn that will be available to you. Because high-moisture is harvested before maturity, it may contain less energy on a dry matter basis due to the lack of starch content. Protein content also may be more variable Ensiled high moisture corn will produce more acid compared to dry corn. Also greater breakdown of true protein will occur. The higher acid content may adversely affect dry matter intake, milk production and lower fat test. Feeding a buffer such as sodium bicarbonate may be necessary. This problem alone justifies nutrient testing.

In feeding milk cows it is important that you adjust the dry matter content compared to dry corn. This is necessary to provide the proper dry matter intake. This is done by dividing the desired corn dry matter intake by the dry matter content of the high moisture corn as a decimal. For example, if you were to feed 10 pounds of dry corn and the dry matter content of the high moisture corn was 65 percent. Divide 10 by .65 (10 divided by .65 = 15.4 pounds of high moisture corn to equal 10 pounds of dry corn.)

CONSERVATION COMPLIANCE

New Tillage Practices Can Mean New Insect Problems For Farmers

Farmers who cut back on tillage can expect to see changes in insect populations in their corn fields -some good and some bad, according to insect specialists in the Corn Belt.

Many farmers are reducing tillage to conserve soil. The 1990 Farm Bill requires farmers to limit erosion to acceptable levels in order to remain eligible for federal farm programs.

Earthworms Thrive Taking the good news first: earthworms, which can be very valuable in crop production, tend to thrive in no-till fields because the soil holds more moisture, and crop residues make a good food source.

Ed Berry, USDA entomologist in Ames, Iowa, says earthworms are especially important in no-till farm-ing because they loosen and aerate the soil.

Earthworms are a natural form of tillage," Berry

Studies have shown that earthworms in no-till fields cause rainfall to soak into the ground four times faster, he says. This means more water gets stored in the soil and less runs off. Cutworms, Wireworms

More Troublesome

Some damaging insects tend to become more troublesome in conservation-tilled corn. The University of Nebraska's insecticide recommendations warn that conservation tillage keeps the soil cooler. This makes corn seeds sprout and grow more slowly, so they're more vulnerable to early-season soil insects.

Rich Edwards, Purdue University insect specialist, points out that high-residue or weedy fields can make a good breeding ground for insects like cutworms, wireworms, white grubs, billbugs and stalk borers

Bush Administration Resolves Dispute Over Food Labels

A Cabinet-level dispute over new food-labeling rules was resolved last week by the Bush administration.

The president's action clears the way for more than 4,000 pages of Food and Drug Administration regulations to be published, and for labels on more than 257,000 food products to be printed.

The new labels will become mandatory in May 1994. They apply to nearly all processed foods; a similar set of labels will be used on meat and meat products, which the Agriculture Department regulates.

The food industry is now required to list the quantities of 14 nutrients present in a serving of food. It also sets strict definitions on the use of terms such as "light." Claims of health benefits from consuming a food are limited to eight instances.

The label regulations that will go into effect were proposed by FDA. Labels will list grams of fat, protein and other nutrients per serving, as well as what a serving contains relative to average he said.

daily requirements-based a 2,000-calorie diet. USDA had proposed a simpler format that recommended daily values for fat. cholesterol and calories within a range.

The new regulations will provide standard definitions governing the use of key words such as 'low fat,' 'high fiber" and "light."

The decision on labels went to President Bush because of a disagreement between FDA and USDA on the format.

Farm Bureau supports the increased use of nutritional information on food labels, and efforts to create uniformity to facilitate commerce, reduce confusion for consumers and allow costeffective compliance by producers and processors.

Richard Newpher, executive director of the American Farm Bureau Federation's Washington office, said the settlement of the issue was welcome news. 'However, we believe the label proposed by USDA would have been easier for consumers to understand,"

Continued from Page C-7 Jon Tollefson of Iowa State University explains that cutworms start out as moths, which fly north each spring from the Gulf of Mexico. Weeds or crop residues give the moths the shelter they need to lay eggs. When larvae hatch, growing weeds provide a food source until corn plants emerge from the ground. Changes in crop rotations -- one option for meeting conservation compliance requirements -- can also affect insect pressures.

For example, changing a corn-soybean rotation by adding more years of corn gives a farmer more crop residues to protect the ground against erosion. But entomologists widely agree that continuous corn leads to more problems with corn rootworm, the single most damaging insect pest in corn Adding sod to the rotation increases the chance for wireworm infestation when the field is rotated back into corn -- whether the field is plowed or notilled

> Treating Insect Problems

Larry Bledsoe, another Purdue insect specialist. says growers shouldn't let insects discourage them from reducing tillage. "Conservation tillage systems don't necessarily have more or less insect problems, just different ones," he says.

Berry points out that controlling weeds in and around no-till fields can make them less attractive to some insects. Soil insecticides are another line of defense. Because high-residue fields can have different insect problems, they may need different insecticides.

Clive Edwards of Ohio State University says that if earthworms are important, certain insecticides should be avoided. Find out what chemical class the product is from.

"The real criminals are the carbamate insecticides," he says. "Organophos-phates like Dyfonate are only mildly toxic to earthworms. And synthetic pyrethroids like Force are harm-

Beg Groenwold, technical product manager at ICI Americas, says the company has evaluated its soil insecticides with high-residue fields in mind.

"We found that one of them, Force, doesn't harm earthworms yet is highly effective on rootworms, cutworms, wireworms, whitegrubs and some of the other insects that cause trouble in no-till. So for no-till, Force would be our first recommendation," he says.

"The '92 season was dry, then very wet," he adds. Force performed extremely well under difficult, variable conditions where other insecticides have failed."

The 1987 Maryland Agriculture Census shows that Maryland joined a national trend in the decline of total farms, losing 8.7 percent from 1982 to 1987.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative Celebrates 75 Years Of Service To Dairy Farmers

Balloons, milk chocolate candy stamped with the familiar barn logo, and a sixtier birthday cake helped set the festive mood of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's 75th anniversary, which was celebrated during the cooperative's annual meeting November 19-20 at the Host Farm Resort in Lan-

Members and guests attending the meeting were greeted by a life-size motif of the cooperative's logo, which they walked through to enter the hotel lobby. Replicas of farm life surrounded the logo, paying tribute to the lifestyle of the cooperative's 3,500-plus dairy farmer members. The theme of the meeting, "75 Years of Service to Dairy Farmers," was referred to frequently as the cooperative's directors, management and staff reported on the services and programs provided for the cooperative's membership through the years. This was then, and is now, a truly cooperative organization," said general manager Dr. Paul E. Hand, reflecting on the coopera-tive's history. "Atlantic Dairy Cooperative continues in the truest sense as an organization of the members, by the members and for the members.'

This history of the cooperative was outlined in a 16-page booklet titled, "The Family Tree." The title of the booklet is a "metaphor that dairy farmers could easily relate to," president Robert B. McSparran said in his report to members. 'We are in the growth business. We sow seeds, we nurture crops, and we harvest the yield."

McSparran said the family tree concept helped illustrate the cooperative's "branching out" to set up working relationships with other groups. "We were the major force in establishing Dairy Council and starting nutrition education programs," he said, noting that the cooperative was also a leader in milk promotion and advertising. Other organizations with which Atlantic has strong ties are the Penn marva Dairymen's Federation, the Middle Atlantic Cooperative Milk Market ing Agency and the National Milk Producers Federation "All of these organizations. among others, belong on our family tree," McSparran said. "They all make valuable contributions to our business.

Local Students Complete Career Planning Classes

The New Horizons Program of Garrett Community College recently completed the third in a fall series of five-week, 10 session Career Planning classes taught by Mary Kirkland, Outreach Job Awareness specialist with the New Horizona Program. The class included learning about job hunt strategies, get-ting to know oneself, what self-esteem, means to a student returning to classes or to the work world, ways to build self esteem, what stress is and how to manage it, combining work with family obligetions, time and budget management, resums writing, and job interview tach-

Several interest tests were adminstered to students to determine their career interests, including the Career Assessment Inventory, the Holland Code Self Directed Search, and the GATB (General Aptitude Test Battery).

The next scheduled Career Planning class will begin Monday, January 4, at Garrett Community college, McHenry Campus. Anyone interested in enrolling in the Career Planning class should call New Horizons weekdays from 8.30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 387-6666, ext. 171, for complete information. The class is a great beginning for a support group and has proven beneficial for re-entry women to make career decisions and enter training in their areas of interest, stated a New Horizonsspokesman

The New Horizons Program is jointly funded by the Mary land State Department and Garrett Community College. Grant funds in the amount of $45,000 are made available to the program through Career and Technology Education, which is 89% of the total program budget, with Garrett Community College contributing an additional $5,000, which is 11% of the total budget heating bills. Last January you might have told yourself that you would take care of a few things around the house to conserve heat. Time went by too quickly though - here it is December again. Lucky enough, with it also comes another opportunity to apply heat conserving measures.

"Since heating accounts for approximately 48 percent of residential energy costs. it's more important than ever to increase your home's energy efficiency," says Dr. Lee Grant, a home maintenance specialist with the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service (MCES).

The heating system is a good place to start. Grant recommends that you:

*Keep your heating equipment well tuned with periodic maintenance by a professional. Oil furnaces should be serviced at least once a year. If you have oil heat, ask the service professional to see if the firing rate is correct.

· Insulate accessible heating ducts in unheated areas.

*Lower your thermostat to about 65 F during the day and 60 F at night. Lowering the average heating temperatures of every household in the United States seven degrees over a 24-hour period would save the equivalent of more than 570,000 barrels of oil a day. (The exception to this advice are the elderly or infirm, who may need to keep the heat above 65 F.)

Close off unoccupied rooms; shut the heat ventsor

Winter is here and with it (If you have a heat pump system, leave it alone; shutting vents could harm the pump.)

*Keep windowsnear your thermostat tightly closed. Otherwise, it will keep your furnace working even after the rest of the room has reached a comfortable temperature.

Keep draperies and shades open in sunny windows; close them on cloudy days and at night.

Dust or vacuum radiator surfaces frequently. Dust and grime impede the flow of heat. (Avoid painting radiators; the layers of paint act as insulation, preventing proper "radiation" of heat. If you must paint, use metallic or flat black paints; they transmit heat better than glossy paints.)

Once you're heating your home efficiently, make sure to keep the warm air inside and the winter's chill outside. The best way to do this, according to Grant, is to eliminate air leaks involving windows and doors.

Test windows and doors for airtightness. Hold a ribbon of tissue paper in front of the frames and sashea of your windows. If it moves, you need caulking and/or weatherstripping. For a more accurate test, you can use a lighted candle and watch for movement in the flame, but be careful not to set curtains on fire. (Both methods work best a breezy day.)

* Caulk and weatherstrip doors and windows. Caulkturn off the radiators. But ing and weatherstripping don't let it get cold enough to materials cost about $30 for

OPERATION SANTA CLAUS* HAS EXPANDED this year as the Oakland Rotary Club has joined forces with other Rotary clubs around the county to provide "giving trees" at various locations. Needy families are verified by the Rotary clubs with the help of Garrett County Department of Social Services and Garrett County Community Action. Persons interested in participating are asked to go to one of the tree locations and find out what Items need to be purchased. (See the editorial on Page A-4 for more details about the project.) GARRETT COUNTY GA79G011/3--The Town of Grantsville, P.O. Box 296. Grantsville, Maryland, 21563, has applied to increase their existing water appropriation and mit from an annual average of 50,000 gallons of water Public Notices per day (gpd) and an average of per day (gpd) and an average of 65.000 gpd during the month of maximum use, to an annual average of 70.000 gpd and an average of 90.000 gpd during the month of maximum use. The water will be withdrawn from four existing springs, two existing wells, and two new wells in the Allegany-Pottsville Forma tion for use as a municipal supply All sources are located on Negro Mountain, on the north side of Alternate Route 40, about 2.5 miles west of Grantsville

Time-distance-drawdown projections were made of additional drawdown that would result from increasing water use by 25,000 gpd, using pump test data. It was assumed that all wells were pumped at a con-stant rate of 25,000 gpd for 30 days with no recharge to the aquifer. PUBLIC NOTICE BLOOMINGTON WATER SYSTEM CUSTOMERS TURBIDITY VIOLATION DRINKING WATER

The turbidity of Bloomington's treated water exceeded regulatory standards for the month of November, 1992. The water quality was negatively afected by mineral and sedime deposits breaking loose from the raw water transmission line

The Environmental Protect tion Agency, under the Safe Drinking Water Act, established national standard of Turbidity Units for turbidity in finished water. The Federal Act and State regulations require that we notify the public whenever the water fails to meet this stan dard. Excessive amounts of turbidity in finished water is an indication that disease-causing organiams could have entered the finished water supply. Disease symptoms may include diarrhea, nausea, cramps and as-sociated headaches and fatigue. These symptoms are not only associated with diseasecausing organisms in drinking water, but may be caused by a number of other factors. The problem the District was having was caused by mineral and sediment deposits that had built up in the raw water transmission line from the old pump station along the Savage River. District employees were testing the new pumps which apparently caused the deposits to break loose. The problem has been corrected. The high-turbidity water has been from the system, the filters have been cleaned and raw water has been pumped to clear the raw water line. For more information, please contact Wendell R. Beitzel, Ga rett County Sanitary District Ad-

Snowy Roadways Responsible For Several Mishaps

Snow-covered roadways this past week were partially responsible for several accidents, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry HITS UTILITY POLE

JoDella J. Stahl, 41, and her two children, Nathan Stahl, 10, and Nanette Stahl, 15, all of Oakland, were treated and released Sunday from Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, according to an Emergency Room spokesperson at that facility. They had been injured when the vehicle in which they were traveling struck a utility pole.

According to police reports, Mrs. Stahl was operating a 1985 Chevrolet C-10 pickup truck north on U.S. Rt. 219 when she lost control of the vehicle, ran off the right shoulder, and began to slide in the wet snow. The vehicle then went into a skid and struck a utility

Tfc. J.K. Moore investigated the 1:30 p.m. mishap and charged Stahl with seat belt violations. The report indicated that neither the driver nor her passengers were wearing seat belts.

Garrett County Emergency Management dispatched the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad to the scene along with Oakland volunteer firefighters.

CROSSES CENTER An Oakland man was treated and released from the local hospital Friday following a two-vehicle mis-hap on the Herrington Manor Road, according to a hospital spokesperson. Harrison B. Stewart, 71, was slightly injured when the 1992 Jeep Wrangler, in which he was a passenger, was struck by a 1991 Ford

"WE KNEW IT WAS IN THERE SOMEWHERE!" - Digging for mailboxes was among the activities for many local residents this past weekend when a massive snow storm blanketed the Brooks DuBose (pictured), Grantsville, who enjoyed an unexpected five-day weekend, were possibly concerned that their letters to Santa would not be delivered unless they made sure the ilman could find their mailbox. While the official accumulation for Thureday through Saturday was 21 and one-half inches (according to Weber's weather station), many realdents are convinced that it was considerably more than that. There is currently a flash flood watch in effect for Garrett County, as rainfall, warmer temperatures, and melting snoware causing area streams to swell. Photo by Chaig Speicher.

Car Mishap On Snowy Roads Sends Garrett Co. Sewer System Projects Five To Hospital

Five persons were transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital following a car wreck on Route 39 Saturday. Deputies from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office responded to the scene and charged one driver, David L. Lantz, 31, Terra Alta, W Va., for crossing the center line and for not having his driver's license with him.

Lantz was driving a 1987 Ford Escort eastbound on Rt. 39 when his vehicle began skidding on the snow-covered roadway. A Ford F-150 pick-up driven by Donald Louie, 48, Oakland, was traveling westbound and the empted to put his truck in the snowbank to avoid a collision with Lantz's vehicle, but the Escort crossed the center line and the two vehicles hit.

Lantz and his three passengers, Donna Lantz, 36, Joni Lynn DeWitt, 16, and George E. Garrett Jr., all of Terra Alta, and Louie were transported to the hospital. where they were treated and released.

The accident occurred at approximately 3:30 p.m., according to the report.

State Funding Grants Approved For Plans Finalized

The Garrett County Board of County Commissioners this week received a letter from Maryland Governor William Donald Shaefer informing them that the Board of Public Works has approved grant funding for three major sewerage pro-jects in Garrett County, which will serve to move the projects forward pending additional funding approval from Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

The grants will be provided by the Maryland Department of the Environment, and will amount to a total of $660,000 for three projects. A grant of $200,000 is being provided is supplemental assistance funds for the Deep Creek Wastewater Treatment Plant Septage Facility Project; a grant of $275,000 will go toward the Accident I/I Correction Project; and a grant of $185,000 in water supply funds will be applied to the Crellin Distribution System Project. This funding approval will help to minimize the local financial impact of these important pollution control projects by further leveraging limited local funds," stated Governor Shaefer, who continued.

"Moreover, this action is another example of the cooperative funding effort that must exist between state and local governments if we are to solve the many pollution problems facing Maryland and its citizenry."

The total cost of the Deep

Creek Wastewater Treatment Plant septage facility project is now estimated at approximately $2 million, according to Garrett County Sanitary District Administrator Wendell Beitzel. If approved, the FmHA funding will amount to $1,387,556 and a HUD grant will round out the funding with a con-tribution of $226,794.

The project is intended to comply with recent state legislation that prohibits the disposal of septage directly onto the land, and will include the construction of a septage receiving station, a digester, and a wastewater clarifier.

The project was just re-cently approved by the Garrett County Board of Zoning Appeals, after some opposition was voiced by some McHenry residents about its proposed location.

The Accident Infiltration/Inflow Correction project will cost a total of $407,625, and involves the Strauss Cited For Achievements In Environmental Ed.

BA THERE I AN EXTREMA TELL

Charles F. Strauss, Accident, has been honored for his leadership in and commitment to environmental education in Western Maryland by Dr. Torrey C. Brown, secretary of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, who was visiting Garrett County recently.

Strauss pioneered environmental education in Garrett County by develop-ing the Camp Hickory Environmental Classroom.

Camp Hickory consists of a 77-acre tract of land located near Northern High School in Accident, and is dedicated to the enhancement of environmental awareness within Garrett County's primary and secondary school system. The facility includes a botanical garden and arboretum, nature trails, outdoor amphitheater and classrooms, dormitory facilities, interpretive center, apiary, wild game feeding post, woodland management demonstration area, reforestation area and observatory, as well as many other educational amenities.

Strauss began his teaching career in 1952 and taught at Northern High School until 1964 when he became a traveling resource teacher in the county. By 1974, when Camp Hickory became a year-round outdoor education center, he as-sumed the responsibility for teaching, programming, and directing the camp.

Strauss was also voted Conservation Teacher of the Year by the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts and the National Association of Conservation Districts. The award recognized the nation's outstanding educators in the field of environmental educa-

Born in Gary, W.Va., he graduated in 1934 from Thomas (W.Va.) High School. Strauss worked in the coal mines for three years before enrolling at Potomac State College. He then transferred to West Virginia University where he studied biology. His college career was interrupted while he served his country during World War II. He then continued his studies while he taught at Accident High School until he received his

Md. County Officials Asking State To Ease Up On Mandated Programs

sioners John Braskey and Elwood Groves last week reported that an attempt is being made by the Maryland Association of Counties (MACo), which held its annual winter meeting in early December, to determine how the impact of state mandates on local jurisdictions can be alleviated.

Because the local jurisdictions have been the victim of major state cutbacks during the past two years, and have experienced the worst fiscal crisis since the Great Depression, according to a MACo news release, MACo representatives have complained that state mandated programs are becoming increasingly unfair to the local jurisdictions which have been expected to implement and maintain the programs - sometimes with only startup costs provided by the

According to Commissioner Braskey, MACo will introduce legislation during the upcoming Maryland General Assembly session for the purpose of abolishing state mandates that are not accompanied by state funding

meeting was to "provide participants with a clearer perspective about the challenges facing counties and, most important, with ideas for strategies to successfully address these challenges . . for more effective and efficient county government," as stated by a spokesperson for the group.

Braskey noted that legislative leaders assured the local officials during the meeting that if further state budget cuts must be implemented, the local jurisdictions would not suffer.

There were also assurances from Governor Shaffer that he would do everything humanly possible not to hit the counties again," said Braskey. "He said he would look at the over 300 state mandates and see which ones he could give us some relief on."

Commissioner Groves stated that there has also been a move by MACo offi-

Garrett County Commiscials to clarify any confusion about "local agencies that are really state agencies." He explained that the State's Attorney's Office, the Election Board, the Sheriff's Office, and the Circuit Court were prime examples wherein "the state has the authority and the county has the fiscal responsibility.

Groves reported that the participants at the MACo meeting were also discussing implementing "privatization measures" at the state level, noting that it is already being done at the local level. especially with licensing and plumbing requirements. He stated that privatization affords more competition, and "cuts down on mid- and upper-level management."

He further noted that Garrett County has "probably been a leader in that effort" and cited examples such as solid waste management and promotion council

Suspicious Fire Damages House

A fire of suspicious origin namaged a vacant, two-story wood frame house located on the property of Highview Apartments in Oakland early

Seturday morning Oakland and Deer Park volunteer fire fighters were summoned to the house, owned by Don Nine, at 2:01 .m. Fire units followed Oakland city trucks, which plowed a path up to the roperty through deep snow Upon their arrival, firemen found flames in the kitchen, which were quickly extinguished. Damage was estimated to be $5,000.

The cause of the blaze is still under investigation. It was noted by one Oakland fire fighter that tracks were observed in the snow leading to and from the kitchen window of the house.

Also responding to the scene was the Southern Rescue Squad and the county air cascade vehicle, presently being housed at Bit-tinger VFD. Firemen remained on the scene for just over an hour and a half There were no injuries reported

Deer Firearms Season Numbers Are Announced

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., announced yesterday preliminary harvest totals for the just concluded deer firearms season. During the twoweek firearms season, from November 28 to December 12, 1992, a kill of 33,082 was recorded. Last year, the number of deer taken was 31,426 The two-week firearms season provided more opportunities for hunters to be afield and enjoy their sport," the increased harvest is a necessary part of the management strategy to control the growth of Maryland's deer population

The kill in Garrett County totalled 2,526. Other top numbers in the state were: Washington County, 2,957; Frederick County, 2,933; Dorchester County, 2,357; Allegany County, 3,179; and Carroll County, 2,200.

There are no plans to ex tend or add more days for modern firearms deer hunting in Maryland. The bowhunting season continues until December 18, and reopens from January 4-30. The muzzleloader season runs

Reports Of Theft, Property Damage The Garrett County Sheriff's Office has received various reports of theft and destruction of property this week with combined damages and losses worth nearly $3,000. Investigations into the crimes are underway, according to the reports. Marvin Murphy of MGM Construction, Grantsville, contacted the Sheriff's Office last Thursday to report that a company backhoe had been damaged. The rear window of the vehicle was shattered and an AM FM cassette player, socket set, and CB radio were stolen.

A separate case being investigated was reported by Ken Bauer, Cranesville Road. Police responded to Bauer's home when he told them that someone had shot out two windows. Officers found one window shot through once and the other to have three bullet holes. The windows will have to be replaced, and the cost for the repairs has been estimated at $700.

The shootings apparently occurred on Saturday between 4 and 10:45 p.m. The theft of a pair of skis and bindings was reported by Harland Tichnell. According to the report, Tichnell's son had left the skis momentarily outside the lower entrance to the rental shop at Wisp Ski Resort on Dec. 11. Unknown persons apparently took them at approximate-7:45 p.m., just moments after the victim had left Stolen were K-2 Gyrator skis, black with orange and pink trim, and one pair of M27 Marker bindings, gray with green writing. The total loss has been estimated at $610.

In other Sheriff's Office news, an arrest warrant was issued for Nancy M. Bradshaw, (no age provided) Grantsville, for bad check charges in Allegany County, according to the report. Richard B. Orr, (no provided) Mtn. Lake Park. was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant. Orr apparently wrote a bad check to Garrett County District Court.

Curtis A. Springman, 28, McHenry, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for failing to appear in court. Springman was apparently scheduled to answer a traffic offense.

Unemployment declines were the norm as the na-tional jobless rate dropped from 7.2 percent in September to 6.8 percent in October

This is great news and a strong indicator that Maryland'seconomy is gradually recovering," said Mark L. Wasserman, secretary of economic and employment development (DEED). "As we approach the holiday season, this could be the shot-in-thearm we need to generate healthy retail sales. Other indicators also point to an upturn in the economy and growing consumer confidence."

During October, employment receded toward levels set in late spring, declining by 15,566 to 2,435, 145. Even with this decline, the number of people employed is 26,500 higher than a year ago and represents the highest on record for the month of October. The movement of seasonal workers out of the job market compensated for the monthly employment loss and, at the same time, reduced the number of unemployed workers by about 8,900 to 166,222.

Recent declines in unemployment appear to be characterized by fewer people who lost their jobs and more reentrants into the labor force. If this pattern continues, the trend may indicate a slow down in layoffs and increasing numbers of labor force reentrants who anticipate favorable employment pros-

Other data indicates favorable signs of an ongoing economic recovery as initial unemployment insurance claims fell by 20 percent from September to October. Maryland establishment surveys showed that total payroll jobs grew in October. The Port of Baltimore also reported a 33 percent increase in imports. Unemployment insurance claims fell in October to 23,223 from 29,045 in September and 31,920 a year ago. These numbers reflect a 20 percent decline from Sep-tember to October and a 27 percent drop from the 1991 level. The amount of unemployment benefits paid fell to 6 million in October from $32.6 million in September and $36.1 million in October 1991

Although the number of housing units authorized for construction in Maryland fell from 2,571 in September to 2,222 in October, the total was 10.2 percent above the October 1991 level.

Estimated retail sales climbed to $3.163 billion, an increase of 6.3 percent from September 1991 to September 1992. As the nation realized an increase of 7.0 percent in retail sales, Maryland's rise was as close as .7 of a percentage point to the national level for the same time period. In a recent news release, the Maryland Retail Merchants Association proected a sales gain during the holiday shopping season of five percent or more in 1992, compared with a decline of four percent in 1991.

Sales during the first weekend of the holiday season indicate that our prediction will hold true or even increase," said Tom Saquella. president of the Maryland Retail Merchants Association. "In fact, a number of major retailers reported double-digit increases

Byron Receives

President's Medal U.S. Representative Beverly Byron was honored as a "loyal and stalwart friend to the Johns Hopkins University" at a dinner hosted by the University on Monday, December 14.

Byron received the President's Medal from Dr. William C. Richardson, president of the Johns Hopkins University (JHU). Dr. Richardson praised Byron for her work on a wide range of issues of concern to the nation and to the residents of Maryland's Sixth Congressional District, and lauded her efforts in behalf of the University's Applied Physics Laboratory

Clean Air Act Surcharge To Be Raised By PE

The Maryland Public Ser vice Commission has approved a request from The Potomac Edison Company to increase a Clean Air Act surcharge on customers' bills by $2.2 million effective with service rendered on or after Dec. 3. Residential custom ers will see bills rise approxi mately 46 cents a month.

PE says this surcharge reflects financing costs associated with the company's compliance with the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990. The increase will assist Potomac Edison in financing its construction of environmental equipment that will reduce by 90 percent the sulfur dioxide emissions from its Harrison Power Station. In January 1992, the Commission approved the use of the surcharge to recover financing costs and authorized Potomac Edison to review these expenditures every 6 months. On June 4, the company began collecting $1.7 million annually in environmental equipment financing costs through the surcharge. Residential customers using 1,000 kilo-

Questionable Closings...

There's nothing like a good snow storm to create havoc, excitement, conversation, controversy, and acts of kindness. The Mountaintop was hammered last week with what truly could be called a good, oldfashioned" snow storm, since we haven't experienced one of such magnitude in a number of years

We fear that the lack of such severe weather has caused certain segments of our local society to become somewhat "wimpy." In particular, we refer to many of our government offices and agencies.

It was interesting to listen to the list of cancellations on local radio stations last Thursday and Friday. Not counting the various meetings, rehearsals, etc., that were cancelled, the vast majority of those cancellations were actually closings of government offices. Ninetyfive percent of the businesses in downtown Oakland were open on Friday while the majority of offices in the Garrett County courthouse were closed emergency management and sheriff's office personnel excluded). Of course, all of these employees are paid, with tax dollars, for this totally unproductive, wasted day.

And what about the famous U.S. Postal Service's slogan "neither rain, nor snow, nor ..."? A number of local residents did not receive mail on Friday and there were no signs that delivery was attempted.

It has not always been this way. Such closings did not occur during major winter storms a few decades ago. Government offices were kept in operation with at least a skeleton staff.

We certainly don't blame the many individual employees of these agencies for weather-related closings. What we question is the judgment of those who make the decisions to close.

To end this column on an upheat note, however, we do want to highly commend a particular group of government employees for their efforts this past week. Those would be the many municipal, county, and state road workers who did an outstanding job in clearing the snow from our roadways. Their around-the-clock work is second to none and we thank them for their great care and concern

Also, to those who provide home health care, as well as the volunteer members of local fire departments and rescue squads, who continue to work no matter what the conditions are, we thank you.

Out Of The Darkness

HELP CORRECT AN HONEST MISTAKE, PLEASE by Caroll. Cox

Occasionally, unfortunate things happen to unsuspectng people or groups of people, and those in the midst of a chau lable event are no exception.

On a Saturday in August the members of Lighthouse, inc , staff members there, and volunteers from the Lighthouse board, the Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Garrett County and several other friends banded together to have a fall yard sale and bake sale. The idea wasn't new; the members held a successful sale in the previous year and enjoyed financial success and a day of sharing. Sounds ideal

The tables were set up at their log structure along Rt. 210N; the colorful stripped canopy was in place; and the customers began arriving. Yard sale goodies were selling like hotcakes; baked and homemade edibles were moving in record numbers; and the fruits of one supporter's vegetable garden were displayed in grand style right next to the beautiful array of just-picked gladiolus, those tall spikes of brilliant colors. Everyone admired their height and their beauty, and they soon sold as well.

Then, the rains came, and confusion abounded. Workers scampered between the raindrops, rushing to serve last minute customers and seeking shelter for those items likely to be ruined by the downpour

I lere is where the unfortunate part of this tale begins. Those glads were displayed in all their colorful glory in a tall crock-type urn which was a family treasure to the woman who had donated those flowers. The tall crock had apparently been sold at the last minute during the height of the storm It was not intended for sale, but unfortunately did not state that in exact words. The buyer could not have known. The sellers could not have known. It was just a terrible mistake that has been very painful for the true owner. The crock has belonged to her mother and her grandmother before that

Twelve "Holiday Lifesavers"

Maryland State Police Superintendent Colonel Larry W. Tolliver has announced his list of 12"Holiday Lifesavers," which are of special importance during the 12 days of

Many people are so busy during the holiday season, they forget to pay attention to routine things, like good driving habits," Colonel Tolliver said. "I urge all Maryland motorists to use these 12 holiday lifes avers not just during the 12 days of Christmas, but all year long," he said.

The 12"Holiday Lifesavers" are:

1. Don't Drink and Drive - 52,000 deaths occur on U.S. highways every year. Alcohol is a factor in at least half of these deaths. Alcohol affects drivers' judgment, vision, reaction time, coordination and alertness. If you know someone has been drinking, don't allow them to drive. Arrange another way for them to get home

2. Obey the Speed Limit - When you exceed the speed limit, there is a greater chance of your being involved in an accident and seriously injured or killed.

3. Wear Safety Belts - Safety belts reduce the risk of injury or death. Safety belts stop the human collision inside your vehicle, spread out the force of the collision, allow you to remain conscious, and keep you in the vehicle.

4. Use Child Safety Seats - Don tlet your child become a human projectile. Fatal accidents have occurred involving children not in their child safety seats at speeds as slow as 12 m.p.h.

5. Drive with the Proper Attitude - Be courteous, cautious and considerate. Concentrate on what is happening. Driving is a primary consideration, not an afterthought.

6. Don't Follow too Closely-Observe the two secondrule. Allow at least two seconds between the time a vehicle in front of you passes a stationary object and the time you larger vehicle, at night, or in poor road conditions. 7. Don't Drive with Tunnel Vision - Scan the road. Look far ahead so you can anticipate problems and see traffic patterns. Keep your eyes moving, and check your mirrors periodically 8.Grant the Right of Way - Have patience. Make sure the traffic is clear before pulling onto the road. Watch out for larger vehicles. Don't assume the driver is going to turn just because his turn signal is on. 9. Keep Your Car in Good Mechanical Condition - Make sure all of your equipment is in good working orderwipers, born, exhaust, mirrors, tires and lights. Make sure you have plenty of gas in your car. Check fluids such as antifreeze, oil and even windshield washer. Have good tires, since traction is reduced by wet roads. 10. Look Before Changing Lanes - Check blind spots by glancing over your shoulder. Take a second look before you make that move and always signal a lane change. 11. Don't Overdrive your headlights - Be careful, especially in poor weather conditions, rain, fog, snow, and ice. Keep your speed down at night. You can't react to the hazard if you can't see the hazard. 12. Stay Alert - Don't drive if you're tired or on medication. Make sure you've had the proper rest before you start that trip, no matter how long or short. If you're tired and start driving in a warm car, you can become relaxed and doze off. Have medical checkups and eye examinations.

OAKLAND FIRE FIGHTER HONORED - A member of the Department was honored last week by Lodge 11, Woodmen of the World, for his efforts to save the life of a local resident during a structure fire in 1990. Dennis Murray, pictured center, who was one of the first to respond to a structure fire near Oakland, entered the burning apartment and pulled an unconstitute resident of the apartment outside. Although the young man died some days later, Murray was credited with saving his life at the time of the emergency. The plaque presented to Murray read: "I Muser Commendation presented to Dennis Murray in appreciation and recognition Murray read: "Lifeuaver Commendation presented to Dennis Murray in appreciation and recognition of sources ecutori without regard for personal safety which saved a human life." Pictured at left is Murray's father, Alan, former chief of the Oakland VFD and a member of Lodge 11, and at right is John Sines, president of Lodge 11.

"GHOSTS OF CHRISTMAS PAST," an original play by Dr. George McDowell Jr., will be presented in an encore presentation at the Zion School of Christian Education, Grantsville, on Dec. 21 and 22 at 7:30 p.m. The show was given last year and was well-received, so with some creative and constructive modification will be presented again. The play is set in Victorian England in a retirement home for wealthy eccentrics. Those appearing in the show will be Debbie Frerichs, George McDowell Jr., Tammy Woodward, Jerry Horshberger, Tommy Dyar, Walt Walters, Mary Downton, Jennifer Stanton, Elaine McDowell, Daniel Yoder, and George mcDowell III. Preceding the play will be a presentation by the Christian Academy's "Angels Aware." This is a musical that tells a story behind the Christmas story, telling how the angels found out God was going to the Earth and why he went as a baby. It begins at creation, comes through the prophets, and gives an Old Testament over-view, according to a spokesperson. "It's different, it's fun, it's scriptural, and truly communicates God's persistent love to all ages," the spokesperson said. The public is invited to attend either or both presentations.

College And Me In Its Final Year Of Grant Funding

One of the most success ful early intervention educational programs in the state of Marsland has been the College and Me program. developed by Garrett Community College and the Garrett County Board of Education

In the College and Me program, each fifth grade class in the county schools is bussed to the college for a week "on campus" during which time students attend enrichment classes taught by college personnel and community instructors, as well as classes with their regular

Because the program is now in the fourth and final year of its grant funding, college and Board of Education officials are exploring ways to continue it, according to Linda Strider, coordinator of College and Me

During the fall semester. seven fifth grade classes have had their week on campus, with 10 additional fifth grade groups scheduled for the spring semester, beginning in February

The fifth graders eat in the college cafeteria and are able to use the gynmasium for one period each day Their enrichment classes include river hydraulics and currents by Mike Logsdon, college with their children on engineering and bridge Wednesdays of the week

COLLEGE AND ME fifth grade students from Bloomington and Kitzmiller elementary schools recently enjoyed learning about music in George McDowell's class at Garrett Community College. The grant funding for the program will end this year and college and Garrett County Board of Education officials are seeking alternative methods to keep the program going in the county.

CenterStreet School Renovation Grant Awarded

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced last Thursday the award of a $276,800 grant to Garrett County under the Maryland Small Cities Community Development Block Grant (CDBG)program

A large part of what makes Mary land a great state is the quality of life found in our small communities," said Governor Schaefer. "Our small cities and towns work hard to strengthen their communities, and we are committed to working with them to make sure that is pos-

The CDBG grant will be used to renovate the old Center Street School building in Oaklandinto a multi-purpose center. The center will include nine units of housing for frailelderly, two headstart centers, a daycare, and other facilities for low-to moderate income families. The center will be operated by the Garnett County Community Action Committee. The renovation work has been underway for several months

This project also received funding through the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development's Partnership Rental Housing Program, the Maryland Appalachian Housing Fund, Maryland Capital Bond, and a previous CDBG

The CDBG program, a federally funded program administered by the Maryland departments of housing and community development (DHCD) and economic and employment development (DEED), provides grants to smaller jurisdictions to help develop and revitalize communities. Most projects serve low-tomoderate-incomeciti-

Since the state began administering the CDBG program in 1987, more than 180 grants totaling $33 million have been awarded statewide Communities in Garrett County have received more than $3 million in funds for housing, infrastructure, and development projects.

Md. Tax Course Materials Provided To High Schools

Maryland State Comp troller Louis L. Goldstein says many high school students returning from the Christmas break will ben efit from special course material that will help them prepare for dealing with tax forms later in life.

The Comptroller's Office mailed out an instruction kit to nearly 800 high school teachers and resource personnel designed to help students and teachers understand Maryland state and local taxes

"We prepared this course material to be used in conjunction with the 'Understanding Taxes' materials which have been provided by the Internal Revenue Service for many years," Mr. Goldstein said This is the fourth year we've provided this mate rial to Maryland teachers. and it includes suggestions provided by educators who responded favorably to last year's version.

The course module provides materials to help students understand their tax obligations and how to complete simple Maryland state income tax forms. The materials also give an overview of the sales and use tax, motorfuel tax and other kinds of taxes collected by Maryland state and local governments

Students are not automatically exempt from the Maryland income tax. They are subject to the same filing requirements as other single taxpayers. In addition, whenever young people get part time jobs, huy a compact disc, or pay for fuel for the family ear. they play a direct role in the kinds of taxes collected by state and local governments," Goldstein said. 'This course helps them understand that responsibility and gives them experience in filling out forms that will benefit them now and later in life."

The comptroller reminded students that they can file easy-to-use Form 123 to claim a refund of state taxes withheld, if their in-

1993 TO BE CELEBRATION OF GARRETT CO. WOMEN - The coming year in the local area has been dubbed the Celebration of Garrett County Women, and the coordinating committee for the celebration held its third planning session recently. Members of the Civic Club of Oekland are coordinating these year-long county-wide events which will begin in January and each month will include programs and activities on topics such as health, legal and educational issues, women in the military, homemaking and parenting in the '90's, the "glass celling," and other topics. All organizations in Garrett County are encouraged to become involved in the celebration and send representatives to the planning sessions. Throughout the very content of the planning sessions. representatives to the planning sessions. Throughout the year, outstanding Garrett County women will be featured at special events and in new feetures. So far, 20 organizations are participating, according to Martha Jachowski, president of the Civic Club and planning coordinator. Some representatives are pictured above with a quilt similar to the one to be used in the August stage performance of The Outless, a musical with an all-temale cast. Notes Increase

Anumber of feescharged for Environmental Health Services will increase on January 1, 1993, according Dr. Rex D. Archer, Garrett County health officer. The revenue generated from these fee increases will partially offset the budget reductions made to the Garrett County Health Department by the state earlier this year.

The new Environmental Health Services fee schedule will be as follows: camp permit, $70; mobile home park permit: two-five units, $70; six-10 units, $90, 11 or more units, $120; swimming pool permit, $120; psittacine bird permit, $50; rabies vaccination, $5; building lot evaluation (percolation test), $90: commercial, institutional, and multi-family soil evaluation, $45/hr.; sewage system final inspection, $50; well permit, $80; sewage evalua tion for real property transfers, $75; water sample, client collects (laboratory costs additional), $20; water test, health dept. collects, $30, food service: fewer than 75 seats, $100, more than 75 seats, $150, temporary, $15, temporary, water sample required, $25; septic tank pumping permit (pertruck), $60; and sand mound evalu-

MAT CLUB GIVE # WRESTLERS A BOOST - The Southern Mat Club and Coach Dava Sinas preser led the Southern High School varsity wreatling team with two gifts to show its support for the team and the sport. A team plaque, displaying the Southern wreatlers, their weight class, and the team and the sport. A team plants, disabilities in Southern wreatters, their weight class, and record was formally unveiled in a presentation ceremony, it represented a gift from Dave Sinas, who is a jerved, as the mat club's head coach for eight years. If left that I wanted to do something for the boys that I have coached over the years and who continued to wreatte for Southern. This beautiful plaque will give good recognition to wreatting and wreatters, said Sines. "Each wreatter will have his own many pieque writen will be given to him after his senior citizen." Many members of the Southern Mat Club were on hand for the ceremony. Shown above are members of the Southern wreatting team and members of the Southern Mat Club with the new plaque. Shown far right, standing, is Coach Sines. Separately, the Mat Club presented the Varsity wreatting club with a donation to help purchase needed wreatting equipment. The funds were a result of a spectal fundation, conducted by the Mat Club. Pictured below, left to right, are Dave Sines, head coach for the Southern Mat Club, Linda Rexrode, secretary; Yvonne Sines, treasurer; Rick Palmer, for the Southern Mat Club, Linda Rexrode, sacretary; Yvonne Sines, treasurer; Rick Palmer, president; and Terry Kendall, head coach for Southern varsity wrestling team. Attempts to identify the man on the far right were unauccessful. The Mat Club is a youth wreating team comprised of wreating team through eighth grade. The team travels to area tournaments and participates in district and regional tournaments, sponsored by the Mkl-Atlantic Wreating Association. Several members have achieved regional and national distinction over the years.

Fishing Licenses Now Available: Fees Increased

Maryland Department of Natural Resources Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., announced this week that 1993 Marylandfishinglicenses are now available.

"The money raised by the sale of these licenses goes directly to protect and en-hance our fisheries," Secretary Brown said. "It has enabled us to raise and release millions of striped bass, yellow perch and American shad, to manage more than 800 miles of trout streams, to stock ponds, lakes and reservoirs with other species of fish, and to manage Maryland's other fisheries Recognizing that license. fees haven't increased in years, while the costs of managing the fisheries continue to climb, the legislature in-creased sport fishing license fees for 1993.

The legislation also established a new consolidated senior sport fishing license for persons 65 years of age and older. This $5 license will entitle the fisherman to fish in all nontidal waters of the state, the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries, and to fish for trout without a trout stamp. Other freshwater fees are as follows: resident, $10; nonresident, $20; short-term license (valid for five consecutive days), $7; resident or non-resident blind person, no fee; and trout stamp, $5. Chesapeake Bay sport fishing license fees are as follows: resident, $7; non-resident, $12; short-term license (valid for five consecutive days), $4; resident or nonresident blind person, no fee; and striped bass permit/

The project has since been supported by the Mary land Historic Trust, the Board of Garrett County Commissioners, the Garrett County Historical Society. and numerous local organizations and businesses. In addition, private individuals have contributed nearly $20,000 to the preservation

The first phase of preservation work -- rehabilitation of the structure's log walls, roof, and subfloor system -was completed this past June. The second phase of preservation work is scheduled for next spring and will provide for wall chinking and daubing, installation of doors and windows, exterior trim, and interior finish work. The final phase of work, pending funding, will provide for rehabilitation of the home's massive stone chimney and fireplace.

The silent auction benefit, originally scheduled for December 12, was rescheduled for December 19 because of last week's snowstorm.

Continued from Page A-4 The Memorial Advisory Board is predicting a completion date in June 1995 (the war began June 25, 1950). The cost of the 25, 1950). The cost of the memorial is estimated at $16,885,958. So far, funds raised and projected interest total $16,734,302. Thus $151,656 needs to be raised. Your contribution can be sent to: Korean War Veterans' Memorial Fund, P.O. Box 2372, Washington, DC 20013-2372.

The memorial, as pre-sently re designed, consists of a squad of infantry (16) advancing in a V formation up a slope to an apex where up a slope to an apex where an American flag, a reflecting pool, and a grove of trees are located. Ash Woods is a 7½ acre wooded grove near the Lincoln Memorial across the Reflecting Pool from the Vietnam War Veterans Memorial Memorial

As with all previous war memorials, the costs are paid through private con-tributions. That is only fair. We veterans should be able to take responsibility for erecting our own memorial.
Of regional note, the original approval design (now changed) was submitted by a team from the Landscape Architecture School, Penn State University. The original design had 38 infantrymen in it, representing the 38th Parallel where much of the Parallel where much of the fighting took place and was the original boundary between North and South Korea. Also, the war lasted 38 months from June 1950 to August 1953, during which time there were 54,000 U.S. casualties.

If you have any questions

If you have any questions or opinions, call me, Paul Shogren, 334-1386, a U.S. Marine in Korea 1952-53. I have contributed three times to the memorial so

To the Editor: For over sixty years Americans have been led to believe by the media that we have a two-party system in our country, but in regard to the most important issue in every election, the economy, both parties have been committed to maintaining the power to coin and regulate money in the hands of the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank, the international bankers. So, essentially, in regard to the only issue that will determine whether we will live or die, we have a one-party system, an actual dictatorship.

In future elections let us, the electorate, forget about party loyalty and elect only those candidates that are committed to putting the power to coin and regulate money back into the hands of Congress, the people's servant. This is what the constitution demands and what our government officials have been violating forever.

The nation's conscience, Cornelius U. Morgan Baltimore

To the Editor: When I was in school, we when I was in school we started every day with prayer. No one was forced to pray if they didn't want to participate. Back then, we seemed to have less problems in school. We didn't have people selling drugs, and bringing guns to school, nor were there drug dealers on the street corners.

Well then, due to the actions of a few people who don't believe in God, we lost our religious freedom of prayer in school. Look around in our schools now. It's common to read about a student being shot in class, or a teacher being assaulted. Drugs are everywhere in our schools, and people have lost respect for one another. Maybe stopping prayer didn't cause all these programs, but when we had the right to pray, we seemed better off.

To the Editor:

The members of the emergency medical community in Marylandonce again ask you to celebrate sensi-bly and act responsibly as you enjoy the festivities of this joyous holiday season. We know, from our daily encounters with injured people, how quickly trag-edy can happen if precau-tions are ignored

If you choose to drink alcohol, please do not threaten the health and safety of yourself or others by driving under the influ-ence. For transportation, call a cab or have a desig-nated driver. Taking re-sponsible precautions like these will lessen the dangers on our highways.

More than a third of the injured people who are brought to the MIEMSS Shock Trauma Center have been drinking alcohol. Too many others are innocent victims-people who were in the wrong place at the wrong time, in the path of a drunk driver. Injury is tragic and preventable. It is expensive and the injuries may last a lifetime. Trauma inflicts pain and devasta-tion on its victims as well as on their family and friends. You can minimize the risks of injury for yourself and your loved ones if you avoid the potentially lethal com-bination of drinking and driving

If you will agree to take a few reasonable precautions during the holidaysand all year long--our chance of seeing you as a patient is very small. We ask that you act responsi-bly, don't drink and drive, don't use drugs, and wear your seat belt or motorcycle helmet. We sincerely hope that this holiday season is happy and safe for every-

Republicans Vote To Restrict Terms To 12 Years

At its Fall Convention Saturday, the Maryland Republican State Central Committee voted to endorse a resolution that calls for term limitations. The resolution passed by a wide majority and will be added to the issues the State Republican Party will work to see enacted in the General Assembly.

The resolution calls for limiting terms for the U.S. Senate to two consecutive terms, the House of Representatives to six consecutive terms and the Maryland State Legislature to three consecutive terms for a total of twelve years for each office.

Joyce Lyons Terhes,

Maryland Republican Party Terhes later called the Chairman took to the Conresolution a "step towards vention floor to fight for the putting to an end the arropassage of the resolution, "We gance of the Democrat power need to pass this resolution brokers. in order to send a clear message to all Marylanders that The Maryland GOP has the Republican Party will not

Luke 2:8-20

BIBLE

Even God can be misunder stood. When he told the people of Israel, "and I will take you for my people, and I will be your " (Exorlus 6:7), I think they misunderstood what he was saying Assured of a spe cial relationship with the Lord God, they wrongly assumed that it was an exclusive relationship. When he assured them that he would be "your God." he did not mean that he was their God alone. But that is not how the people of Israel interpreted it-except for a few prophets who realized that God was the Lord of the nations. That is why the Good News of Jesus' birth came as a shock to many. An angel proclaimed: Be not a fraid; for behold I bring you good news of a great joy which will come to all the people; for to you is born this day in the city of David a Savior who is Christ the Lord" (Luke 2:10.11). Perhaps that message went over the heads of many, but there were certainly some who realized that the Good News was given "to all the people." This was good news, not only for the Jews, but the Samaritans, the Greeks, the Romans--whoever would receive it And the heavenly host reinforced that message, singing "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men with whom he is pleased" (2:14) LIGHT TO THE

GENTILES

This message was intended for the whole earth, not just Palestine or the Middle East. The "peace" that is given is for all "men with whom he is pleased." It is indicative that message to all people.

WHO BELONGS TO WHOM?

It is strange that Christians often have that same misunderstanding. When we recognize him as "our God," we too often use "our" in its possessive form. God no more belongs to us than he belonged to the people of Israel. We belong to Him and. if we do, we need to recognize that, in doing so, we belong to an inclusive, not exclusive group. There are multitudes, multitudes who, although quite different from us in belief and practice, are no less His children than we are. So, God does not belong to

Matthew's account of Jesus's birth tells us of the visitation of the wise men who represented not Judaism, but the Gentiles of the world And later, when Mary and Joseph brought the infant Jesus to the temple for ritual purifications, Simeon prophesied: "Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word; for mine eyes have seen thy salvation which thou hast prepared in the presence of all peoples, a light for revelation to the Gentiles, and for glory to thy people Israel" (2:29-32) Yes, the people of Israel had a special relationship and Simeon spoke of the "glory of thy people Israel." But the message was "for all peoples." "a light for revelation to the Gentiles." So it was not that God belonged to Israel, but that Israel belonged to God. The specialness of their relationship was the role that he wanted them to play in bringing his

the Church, but the Church surely belongs to God We do not have exclusive access to God and the "great joy" of Christmas does not even belong to the churches, "but to all the people." And, if God does not belong to the church, neither does Christ. Even our carols acknowledge this: no one sings, "Joy to our little corner," "Joy to the Methodists," or "Joy to all Christians." but "Joy to the World."

COVER STORY

A great president who couldn't be elected now

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

Deter Kunhardt and Philip Kunhardt III practically grew up with Abraham

"Our great-grandfather, Frederick Hill Meserve, collected the Meserve collection

Peter Kunhardt

which is the great American private collection of 19th-century photographs, specializing in Abraham Lincoln," says Peter. "My earliest memories are visiting my great-grandfather in his brownstone in New York City, climbing five flights of stairs to the top workroom and winding my way through. He and my grandmother (Dorothy Meerve Kunhardt, who inherited her father's collection) used to keep the stairs littered with books, so there were literally 3 or 4 feet of books on each step

They and their father, Philip Kunhardt Jr., have used those photographs to put together a two-part biography, "Lincoln" (airing Saturday, Dec. 26 and Sunday, Dec. 27, on ABC), told largely through photographs, with Jason Robards providing the voice of Lincoln, Glenn Close providing the voice of his wife, Mary Todd Lincoln, and

"It is the great American

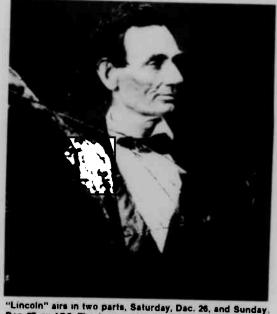

dent of the United States and most difficult period in its his-tory, the Civil War.

"I'm usually sick and tired of a subject by the time we're finished with it," says Peter "But I'm not that way in this case I'm curious still, I'm inrigued, he's a figure I haven't overdosed on yet."

"He was a queer man," says Philip. "He had an intense need for privacy, and he had this tendency toward superstition But I really feel there's a profound goodness about him that I believe in still. I don't think I'm just bringing it naively to the subject I find it reinforced whenever I delve deeply into his own words '

One comes away from "Lincoln" with a sense of awe over what he accomplished seeing the Union through the Civil War and putting an end to slavery and a heartfelt grief over his untimely death at the hands of an assassin. One also is left with the sobering conviction that today Lincoln with depression, he was known to cry in public, he often dressed poorly, he had coarse humor - all these things in today's political world would be disastrous," says Peter "But beneath all that was the greatest leader America has ever had, probably. I think we're very lucky he wasn't held to the rigors of today's political

Nadine is currently "married" to Billy Lewis (played by Jor-dan Clarke) and faking a pregnancy' (Terry Lester, the for-"Young and the Restless" star who now plays Royce Kel-ler on "As the World Turns," said at a recent press conference that the role of Frank Sr. had been offered to him too. late next month but he turned it down in favor of the "ATWT" role.) Deas, 40ish, is, of course, too young to play the father of 30ish Frank Jr., but who cares? Deas is perhaps the most delightfully idiosyncratic actor daytime soap opera has ever produced. His off-center characters are always filled with all kinds of marvel ous quirks, and he has a knack of making even the most mundanely written scenes interestaged to win a 1987 Best Supporting Actor Daytime Emmy playing "ATWT" 's Tom Hughes (now played by Scott Holmes), who is among the most straight and stuffy of all long-term soap characters Deas won another Best Supporting Actor Daytime Emmy for his work on "SB." As nasty District Attorney Timmons, Deas pairing with the equally piquant Robin Mattson yielded the ultimate in mean-spirited soap couples. The characters were funny, but at times they were so naughty they were downright subversive - excit-ing and totally refreshing in the hearts-and-flowers world that is soap opera! Deas ducer Jill Farren Phelos w she was the producer of "SB." Putting Deas in the headstrong and super-emotional Cooper family should produce explosive results

Deas, by the way, is married to Margaret Colin. who starred in the 1986 prime-time series "Foley Square " She also played Margo to his Tom on "ATWT" in the early '80s. They have a young son. Sam Deas should begin on "GL"

In "Just My Imagination," Jean Smart plays a small-town schoolteacher whose simple life suddenly turns complicated after her old classmate, who is now a rock 'n' roll star (Tom Wopat), records a hit song about her complete with some eyebrow-raising lyrics. It airs Monday, Dec. 21, on NBC

stars as Nemorino. bumpkin who has fallen for the haughty village beauty. Adina (Kathleen Battle), in a Metropolitan Opera presentation of "L'Elisir d'Amore" Donizetti's charming comic opera chronicles Nemorino s attempt to win her with the aid of an elixer provided by Dr Dulcamara (Enzo Dara). whose medical qualifications are somewhat suspect. It airs Wednesday, Dec. 23. on PBS (Check local listings)

Revenue Estimates Board Says Prudence, Conservatism Necessary

Revenue Estimates, consisting of State Comptroller Louis
L. Goldstein Goldstein (chairman), State Treasurer Lucille Maurer and State Budget Secretary Charles L. Benton, said that because the state's revenue situation appears to have stabilized, it would not reduce its total General Fund estimates for the first time in three years

The Board of Revenue Estimates is required by law to provide estimates to the governor 18 months in advance. The board said it had re-evaluated the factors contained in its September 21. 1992, report and said "Maryland's economy is expected to continue to grow more slowly than the national economy during the next 18 months" While noting the growth of the national economy in the third quarter of calendar year 1992 and some improvement in recent state revenue collections, the board said the experience of the past 24 months, when Maryland's revenue collections fell below everyone's predictions, dictates a prudent and conservative approach to estimating revenue.

Economic indications and revenue collections were also improving during the winter of 1991-1992, but the

The Maryland Board of recession took hold again in the spring," Comptroller Gold-stein said. "We want to be certain the state doesn't suffer revenue shortfalls if another downturn takes

The board said it consulted a wide variety of state forecasters, national eco nomic forecasters, experts from local universities and knowledgeable members of the business community. Among those experts were Dr. Mahlon Straszheimofthe University of Maryland; Dr. Michael Conte of the University of Baltimore, and Dr Charles McMillon of MBG Business Group. They provided leading indicator analysis and projections of employment and income.

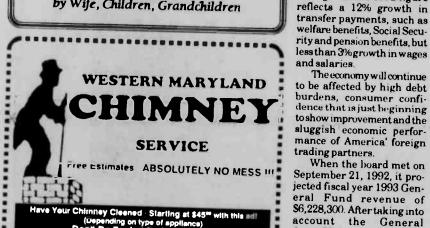

Working together with a professional revenue monitoring group that included representatives of revenuecollecting agencies, local gov ernment, the General Assembly and the state budget de partment, the board developed a consensus economic forecast and believes that Maryland revenues will grow at only about half their historical rate in the near term.

"State personal income is expected to grow slowly, rising by only 3% in calendar year 1992, 4% in 1993 and 5% in 1994," the board said

When in Doubt--Ask!

Want to give away your microwave oven, gas grill, and your children's swing set? If you plan to sell your home. the buyers may want all those items of personal property-and more It is important to understand the difference between personal property and real estate, whether selling or buying a home Real estate is described as "the land and any improvements permanently affixed to the land." Everything else is described as "personal" property

In a more practical sense, real estate is the land, structure such as a home or detached garage, planted trees and shrubs, built-in appliances, TV antennas attached to the roof, drapery rods attached to the walls, and electric garage door openers

Items of personal property would include furniture, curtains and drapes hung from rods, portable gas grill swing sets not planted in concrete, potted plants, fireplace tools, or a free-standing microwave

A simple test to determine whether an item is personal or real property is to ask yourself whether the item is permanently attached to the real estate, i.e. nailed down

Some items of personal property, i.e. shrubs purchased from a nursery, become real estate once they are planted. Lumber purchased to construct a deck becomes real estate when it is assembled and nailed into place

When buying or selling a home, the purchase agreement covers only the real estate being conveyed. If items of personal property are to be included, they must be mentioned specifically in the agreement

When selling a home, ask our real estate agent to specifically exclude valuable items of personal property in the listing agreement. This may preclude a misunderstanding later over which items stay, and which do not When buying, if you are unsure about whether items of personal property are included, ask for clarification. If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give us a call at 387-5303 or come by our office located at McHenry

The Holidays In Western Maryland

Kitchen

Selebrate the Season

he holidays are traditionally a time for family and friends, sharing and celebration. A time to create and to serve dazzling desserts as festive as the season itself. Whether served as the grand finale of a fine holiday meal or as the highlight of an informal family gathering, holiday desserts and goodies are favorites with everyone!

Best of all, luscious holiday treats like those pictured here are not only beautiful, but easy to make, as well. Simplicity is inherent in recipes that make use of the dependable quality and delictous goodness of Hershey's Cocoa, Eagle 8 Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk and California Walnuts, Rich, unsweetened cocoa delivers the deep chocolate flavor you want, while eliminating the messy pre-melting steps of other chocolate baking ingredients. Easy-to-use sweetened condensed milk, a precooked blend of whole milk and sugar, imparts a silky smooth texture to cheesecakes and a melt in-your-mouth moistness to bar cookies. And crunchy walnuts are always a natural addition, adding unique flavor and texture dimensions to a variety of recipes.

Family and friends alike will be impressed when you serve indulgent desserts like Fudge Walnut Ripple Layer Cake, Cocoa Rum Cheesecake and Walnut Mint Bars. Luscious and decadent. Fudge Walnut Ripple Layer Cake is a marbled masterpiece sure to become a holiday favorite with everyone. A thick, fudgy frosting is the crowning glory of this gorgeous and delightful dessert. A delicate hint of rum and the deep chocolate taste of cocoa are what make Cocoa Rum Cheesecake so irresistible. Velvety and rich, it's a classic with a festive twist - and a crunchy walnut crust that makes it a true textural treat. Delicious layers of walnuts and creams mint make Walnut Mint Bars perfect for dessert, with coffee, or as a thoughtful holiday gift

As beautiful as they are delictous, these delectable desserts are sure to be fast tayorites with friends and family alike.

ART STUDENTS TRAVEL TO CMU - A group of Sonia Pratt's art students traveled to Carnegie Mellon Un versity for National Portfolio Day, sponsored by the National Portfolio Day Association (NPDA). That association has been hosting that event and other art career events since 1978. It consists of regionally accredited art colleges which are members of the National Association of Schools of Art and Design, it is the only organization of its kind and its membership represents the highest standard of visual arts education available in the United States. The events at CMU serve a variety of purposes, especially furthering the artistic development of young artists by bringing together experienced college representatives to review student work and offer critiques. Students attending are shown left to right, first row: Heather Prince, Natalle Stahl. Mtn. Lake Park Man Sentenced To One Year In G.C. Jail For Battery (delayed one week) A Mtn. Lake Park man was handed a one-year jail term last week in Garrett County District Court after being found guilty of battery and resisting arrest.

David A. Wiles, 21, was given concurrent one-year sentences for each count and fined $250 for each count. in a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office, charges of malicious destruction of property and felony theft were not prosecuted. He was given credit for time already served in the Garrett County Jail.

Wiles had been charged with those offenses on October 14 by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after an investigation revealed that he had allegedly stolen food stamps from Tricia Mc-Curdy. When police arrested him, he reportedly resisted and struck a deputy in the groin area and ripped his suit jacket. In other District Court news, Roger D. Pannell, 46, Oakland was found guilty of felony theft. He was handed a two-year jail term (all was suspended but 30 days),

In hopes of resolving this problem, McGraw, an associate professor of biology and Dr. Keith Garbutt, an assistant professor of biology. are exploring the stability and longevity of artificial wetlands. The National Mine Land Reclamation Center at WVU is funding the research.

According to Garbutt, the researchers discovered through field observations that some wetlands are not healthy, long-functioning treatment systems. Troy Titchenell, water quality control superintendent for Patriot Mining, which is owned by Anchor Energy Corp. In Monongalia County, says their two wetlands are effective in removing iron but not manganese. Therefore, they have to treat the water with ammonia after it leaves the wetland to drop the manganese.

Titchenell says it is expensive to treat the water for manganese after it leaves the wetland, and additional chemical treatment defeats the purpose of building the wetland. Yet, in spite of his less-than-satisfactory experience with wetlands, Titchenell says, "I think wetlands need to be studied further because they have a lot of acidic environment. The repotential. It's a natural process, and it does a better job if it works right.

"One of the major pluses for using wetlands is vou're able to generate a system which has wildlife in it, a very aesthetically pleasing system," says Garbutt. Yet, without more information about what makes wetlands function effectively in an acidicenvironment, they may not be considered a reliable investment by the coal industry

The problem is, says Jerry Duckett, manager of technical services for Buffalo Coal in Grant County, acompany using wetlands, "they vary just the same as forests do in their vegetation. We'll have to depend upon the biologist to see exactly what plants do best.

In their research, Garbutt and McGraw will be performing a carefully controlled wetlands experiment using replication. McGraw says most researchers have not duplicated their wetlands. and by doing so, he and Garbutt will be able to make better statistical comparisons. They have studied 26 natural wetlands, varying in age and acidity levels. Based upon their observations, the researchers are in the process of creating artificial wetlands in cattle troughs to test three types of wetlands in an searchers will create six copies of each wetland in the To Be Presented experiment.

The first wetland consists of six inches of limestone with 18 inches of peat on top. It will determine if plants are even necessary in an acidtreating wetland. According to the researchers, no one has looked at this issue critically before, although some have suggested plants are not needed to filter metals out of acidic water. Obviously, if 'plantless" communities work best, the aesthetic appeal of "wetlands" would be reduced drastically as well as their likelihood of becoming wildlife habitats, which are some of the qualities en-about them. The second wetland, a cattail wetland, will test the type of wetland easiest to establish and most popular among coal operators. According to the researchers, this is currently the basic way to build a wetland in the "real world.'

The third wetland, consisting of sedges, rushes and grasses, will determine the effectiveness of a diverse wet-

Garbutt says that in their observation of natural wetlands, the researchers have found a correlation between the diversity of the wetland and the likelihood it will treat acidic water. Garbutt refers to this discovery as the classic "chicken-or-the-egg situation.""Is a wetland diverse because it's treating," he asks, "or is it treating because it's diverse?"

"I would love to say you won't get treatment without having a very diverse flora," Garbutt admits, "but I think it's probably the reverse. It's the environmental gradient in wetlands, either physical or bacterial, that creates diChristmas Drama

National Farmers' Organization Files Lawsuit Against USDA

The National Farmers Organization (NFO) is at tempting to use the legal system to protect milk prices according to a news release last week

In a legal effort to prevent U.S. dairy farmers from experiencing a government-led drop in fluid milk prices the National Farmers Organization (NFO) has filed a complaint for a temporary restraining order against U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Edward Madigan to stop the implemen tation of Class III-A milk pricing in three federal milk market orders-two on the East Coast and one in the Pacific Northwest

The complaint -formally titled a "Complaint for Temporary Restraining Order, Preliminary and Permanent Injunctions, and Declaratory Judgment - was filed Monday, Nov 23. in the U.s. District Court for the District of Columbia

We felt compelled to bring this lawsuit against Secretary Madigan because many of America's family dairy farmers can not weather accumulative multi-million dollar drops in their milk checks," said Al Scott, National Farmers Dairy Department director

"USDA didn't abide by its own hearing rules It ignored crucial testimony. It pits some regions of the country against others. It gives unfair competitive advantage to milk powder processors in three federal orders In short, dairy farm ers got hung out to dry USDA is supposed to supervise a level playing field. It didn't and its rules if allowed to stand-allow uncommon profits for some processors at the expense of all dairy farmers and other processors," he said.

Revenue neutral" is a popular governmentese term these days," Scott continued. "USDA's recent actions are anything but revenue neutral to dairy families Until our lawsuit was filed, (farmers) were assured of losing millions of dollars Now they have a chance in the court system for economic justice and fair play

The three federal milk marketing orders affected by USDA's Class III A pricing action are Order 1, New England, Order 4, Middle Atlantic, and Order 124. Pacific Northwest.

New International Marketing "NFO's documented just Alliance Announced By MMI

A new international marketing alliance has been formed between Farmers Dairy Foods, Inc., a subsidiary of Milk Marketing, Inc. (MMI), and DMV USA, a division of one of the largest dairy cooperatives in Western Europe.

This exciting new alliance pulls MMI soperations into the global market-place," said Don Schriver, MMI chief executive officer, "and that means the opportunity to develop some profitable and creative new marketing programs to benefit MMI members."

The announcement was made at MMI's annual delegate meeting December 9 Columbus, Ohio.

The alliance is an exchange of marketing expertise and product development to the benefit of both cooperatives. "And, bestyet, this new arrangement permits international cooperation between dairy farm-Schriver said to the MMI delegates DMV USA, based in La

We are not interested in overlapping market areas and product lines, but we are interested in the development of new ventures to profit the farmers in both organizations This alliance affords us that opportunity," said Schriver

The new deal also includes the eventual development of new product lines to be produced at FDF's facilities in Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania. Last year FDF sales exceeded $330 million in dairy products and food components.

Emphasizing the strong financial position now mainy MMI, Association President Herman Brubaker told the delegates that MMI's board had authorized a $4.3 million cash revolvement of equity. "A record setter for MMI, making it the largest redemption of equity in our history," reported the dairy farmer leader.

Brubaker also offered delegates a quick glimpse of the effects that the presidential election and new make-up of Congress could have on the dairy industry during his report to the delegates

The legislative task that lies before us is awesome, said Brubaker. "This incoming freshmen class to the U.S Congress means 110 new faces in the House and 12 in the Senate. That's a full plate of education!"

Brubaker also reviewed the dynamics of national dairy policy through the actions of the dairy industry's legislative representatives in Washington, D.C.—the National Milk Producers Federation

"NMPF is advocating a policy position offering strong reinforcement for the current price support program, the development of a viable self-help program for production management, and the repeal of the budget assessment, he said

Regionally, Brubaker reported that the jury is still out on Ohio House Bill 616the Fair Dairy Pricing Bill, a plan to increase produc ers' prices for milk through "equalization process" where all producers could share in market wide costs

Inother areas, Brubaker discussed the defeat of Issue 5 in Ohio-the chemical labeling initiative that would have brought undue hardship to producers while providing no real safety measures" against possible chemical toxins.

In Pennsylvania, Brubaker reviewed MMI's efforts to increase producer incomes through a more equitable distribution of drought rea f premiums paid to dairy farmers.

Brubaker also reported that the nationwide dairy promotion program was operating very successfully. showing a two to six percent increase in dairy product sales. Yet, warned Brubaker, some producers who are attempting to recall the promotion checkoff. "have waged a shifty campaign, skewing facts to fit their misconceptions." Brubaker urged strong support for continuation of the romotion efforts.

Last year MMI, based in Strongsville, Ohio, had product sales of $336 million and marketed $513 million worth of milk for its members. In 1992 MMI marketed and processed over 4.75 billion pounds or more than 450 million gallons of milk. FB Opposes CAFE Standards

Farm Bureau, in comments to the National Highway Traffic Safety Admin-istration, pointed out that farmers and ranchers must continue to have the opportunity to purchase full-sized vehicles. The letter noted Farm Bureau's opposition to legislation mandating excessive increases in Corporate Average Fuel Economy (CAFE) standards for new cars, pickup trucks and vans-increases that would result in sma hicles. Full-sized models are essential for towing, hauling and other farming tasks,

That sounds like good news for farmers and ranchers who would like to see their family farms stay in the family, according to American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner.

On the surface, those messages should be assurance enough that the current estate tax code is off limits, but Kleckner said there are "no guarantees that a reduction in the exemption level couldn't happen." Rumors of a reduction won't go away, largely because some legislators and economic think-tanks keep citing estate taxes as a prime means of raising new federal revenues.

A loss of current $600,000 exemption would be a severe blow to the nation's farmers and ranchers," said Kleckner. "Farmers have fought for years to raise the exemption level to ensure the timely and orderly transfer of family farms from one generation to the next."

According to the AFBF president, lowering the exemption would result in a situation once again where siblings would be forced to sell all or part of their inherited farm to pay the inheritance tax.

Recurring rumors of an effort to lower the exemption level have a basis m President-elect Clinton's statement that he favors higher taxes for individuals with incomes above $200, 000. Those supporting a lower exemption are quick to portray the issue as a taxthe-rich move ments might be initially attractive to the general pub-lic, but middle-class homeowners are beginning to realize that inflation has driven the value of their homes and life-long possessions to levels they did not realize," Kleckner said. Just as disturbing to agriculture is that this portrayal overlooks the life-long investments farm families have made in their land and capital assets. Other owners of small business will find themselves in the same predicament. The estate tax code was revised in 1981, when Congress approved a five-year phase-in of higher exemp-tions. In 1982, the first $225,000 of inheritance was exempted. The level increased in increments until the full $600,000 exemption was reached in 1987. The tax rate on estates above $600,000 starts at 37 percent and rises to 55 percent with higher estate amounts.

For farmers and ranchers, the higher exemption level took on added importance with passage of the 1986 Tax Reform Act. As a result of those changes, farmers lost the preferential tax treatment for longheld capital assets.

Lowering the estate tax to $200,000 was first proposed as a source of revenue for the Democrats' long-term health care bill. A spokeswoman for Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri, a co-sponsor of the health care legislation, admitted the proposal proved very unpopular, drawing a lot of unfavorable reaction. The idea was dropped and eventually the long-term health bill died. Agriculture is not alone in its opposition to a reduction, Kleckner said. The American Association of Retired Persons also is strongly opposed. Many original supporters of the higher exemptions are still members of the Senate Finance Committee, which should prove to be an important farm ally, Kleckner predicted.

Agricultural Suppliers Providing Soil-Saving Technology

Farmers aren't the only people changing the way they do business as a result of the soil conservation movement. The switch to less tillage is also having a profound effect on industries that supply equipment, weed and insect controls, seeds and other inputs to

New farming technology has helped make it possible to save soil by farming with less tillage, according to Dan McCain, field specialist at the Conservation Technology Information Center (CTIC) in Indiana.

"Agricultural suppliers have put out a number of new products over the past few years that are really helping farmers conserve soil," McCain says.

products, and re-evaluating old ones, for the new way of farming.

Dan Thaden, business director for Northern Row Crops at ICI Americas, Inc., says farming with crop residues can mean some tool that mixes the top few changes in the way farmers control weeds and insects.

He points out that ICI's sales volume of Gramoxone Extra, a herbicide that quickly controls growing weeds at planting time in no-till farming, nearly tripled over the last four

"Gramoxone Extra is an important tool for no-till farming," Thaden says.
Last year, he adds, ICI introduced a new postemergence herbicide, Fusion, that fits well in no-till soybean production. In its first year, Fusion was used on over a million acres of soybeans-double the company's own forecast. Thaden says the company has also re-evaluated its soil insect control for corn with no-till in mind.

"We found that one of our products, Force, controls damaging insects that can become more troublesome in no-till," he says. "But it doesn't harm earthworms, which are very important to no-till farmers. So many farmers and university specialists make Force their first choice for no-till corn." Soil-Saving Equipment

Equipment companies are also adapting. At John Deere, the largest U.S. farm equipment company, sales of residue-burying moldboard plows are minimal.

But sales of lighter tillage tools, conservation planting equipment, and sprayers are strong

The mix of equipment we sell has changed as customers have become more interested in crop residue management," says Glenn Olson, product manager at John Deere.

Customer interest is strong in Deere's 750 No-Till Drill, 6500 Self-Propelled Sprayer, and 550 Mulch Master tillage tool.

These are three products we've introduced in the last few years that are specifically designed to help farmers with their conservation plans," Olson says.
The Mulch Master, new

this year, is a unique tillage inches of soil while leaving a high percentage of crop residues on the surface.

At Kinze, a more specialized company that makes planting and tillage equipment, marketing coordinator Bill Heick says the conservation movement has had a positive effect on busi-

"We've changed our equipment to make it more reliable in various tillage systems," he says.

Cultivators have been designed and introduced to handle more crop residues without plugging, he explains, and planters offer better control of seed placement in various soil and residue conditions.

seeds that farmers plant are changing to fit conservation farming. Paul Koehler, agronomy services manager at ICI Seeds, says more crop residues on the soil mean cooler soil temperatures at planting time. ICI is researching ways to make seeds germinate and develop at cooler tempera.

ICI Seeds has also introduced several corn hybrids that are tolerant to soybean herbicides. The EPA recently approved use of these herbicides on the company's IT corn. This gives no-till corn growers another option for postemergence weed control--reducing their dependence on tillage to control weeds

USDA Releases '92 Agriculture Yearbook

"New Crops, New Uses. New Markets" is the title of the 1992 Yearbook of Agriculture, which was released recently by Agriculture Sec-retary Edward Madigan.

The yearbook offers in formation about products from non-traditional cropssuch as kenaf, guayule, crambe, industrial rapeseed and lesquerella. It also de scribes new products from traditional crops and ani mal products such as mo tor fuels from corn, ink from soybeans, industrial oils from seed crops such as rapeseed, medicines from

Animal Drug Changes Could Impact Producers

The current system for producing, distributing and administering animal health products is gaining increasing attention. The system may be at risk unless the Food and Drug Administration animal drug approval process and regu lations are improved, say experts involved in the is-

The FDA approval process for new animal drugs is very slow and expensive, and the number of approvals has failed to offset the rate at which older drugs are removed from the mar-

Expanded labeling of existing products often is not undertaken by drug companies due to the cost relative to expected revenue As a result, farmers, ranchers and veterinarians are facing an acute shortage of products to ensure food animal health

Because of these constraints, the so-called "extra label" use of animal drugs has become commonplace and for many minor species provides the only method of treatment. Extra label use is defined as any use or dosage of an animal drug not specifically indicated on the label For example, an anesthetic that is

The Food, Drug and Con metic Act, which governs animal drug use, explicitly prohibits extra label drug use by either producers or veterinarians. FDA, how ever, realized that strict adherence to this law would result in inadequate treatment for many animals, so it issued compliance policy guidelines (CPG), which allow limited extra label drug use only by licensed veteri

Many veterinarians feel that extra label drug use is vulnerable to a change in regulatory policy unless the CPG is written into law Legislation to codify the existing CPG was introduced in the last session of Congress and is likely to be reintroduced in the 103rd

Over-the-counter(OTC) drugs play an important role in most producers' herd health programs. During the debate over extra label drug use, consumer groups could seek to limit access to OTC drugs based on concerns over residues. Restrictions on OTC drugs would, for them, limit producer access to animal health products and could substantially increase production costs

Farm Bureau is involved with representatives of animai agriculture, drug manufacturing, feed manufacturing and veterinary medicine to encourage regulatory or policy changes at FDA that would streamline the approval process, according to Dick Newpher, executive director of the American Farm Bureau Federation's

Washington office. Some members of this group argue that legislative changes will be necessary AFBF has no policy on FDA's animal drug approval process, but does support continued availability of

OTC drugs

Consumer groups have een highly critical of extra label use, and can be expected to oppose expansion or continuation of this prac

Many producer groups realize that extra label drug use will always be neces sary but indicate that extra label use is the symptom, not the problem As long as the FDA approval process results in too few drug approvals or label expansions extra label use will expand

Newpher said Farm Bureau is urging producers to make the new administra-tion aware of the need for an improved FDA approval process. "Farmers and ranchers must bring attention to the lack of animal health products, or find themselves unable to treat animal disease and reduce animal pain," he said.

Conservation Program Funded For 1993

The Garrett County ASCS Office has received its allocation for the 1993 Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP).

Garrett County ASCS Chairperson Kenneth Bachtel says the allocation was based on conservation needs in the county and will be used to control erosion, conserve water, improve water quality, plant trees and install other conservation measures

The Garrett County ASCS Office approved ACP applications in 1992 to control conservation programs on 160 acres in the county

The ACP is designed to encourage farmers to correct conservation problems on their land, and shares with them the cost of applying necessary practices. Nationally, $194 million have been appropriated for the ACP during 1993.

One 'trap' is the two-cycle average daily balance method ularity among card issuers. It is particularly hard on card holders who do not pay their bills in full each month. The finance charges are based on outstanding balances over two monthly billing periods.

Most card insurers assess finance charges on the basis of an one-month period. The amount outstanding each day is added up, and the result is divided by the number of days in the month to get an average daily balance. But with the two-cycle method, the balance used to calculate finance charges is the sum of the average daily balances for two monthly cycles -- the current billing period and the one before. As a result, finance charges are doubled, canceling expected savings from a lower interest rate

Date of Purchase

Method Purchases are treated in different manners for calculation purposes. Some companies allow you 25 days to pay the bill in full before assessing a charge. Others use the date-of-purchase method and begin charging interest on the day the purchase is posted to the account.

Card holder should check the annual fees, the interest rate and the calculation method. Card issuers must show these items. Read the disclosure statement sent periodically with your bill.

Cindy Stacy To Instruct Media Course At GCC

Cindy Stacy, free-lance journalist and part-time instructor at Frostburg State University, will teach the course in mass media (JRN 105) at Garrett Community College during the spring semester on Thursdays from 6:30-9:30 p.m., beginning January 28.

The course will explore the many ways in which media influence the private lives of citizens and ways in which government and business attempt to regulate the news, according to a college spokesperson.

Stacy plans an interactive approach to the course, with guest speakers from publishing, radio, television, and print media, and ample opportunity for class discus-"I'm looking for ways to maintain a lively, upbeat class, offering as much material from as many sources as possible," Stacy stated.

The course is designed to satisfy the three-credit humanities requirement in many academic programs, and also to attract part-time students who are interested in learning more about communication in the electronic Recognized from her bylines that appear in regional publications, Stacy has written news and feature stories for a number of newspapers and magazines, including the Washington Post, the Baltimore Sun, and the Cumberland Times News. Recent articles include a piece on Mtn. Lake Park in the Sun Magazine and "O Tannenbaum" which appears in the winter issue of Maryland magazine.

She has also held media relations positions with Frostburg State University and the Rouse Company, working extensively with diverse professionals in the mass media business.

Stacy holds a bachelor's legree in journalism from the University of Maryland and a master's degree in education and English from Frostburg State University. She and her husband operate a 230-acre Christmas tree farm in Swanton.

Students may register for the mass media course at the Registrar's Office of the college weekdays during business hours beginning Monday, January 4. There will be extended early evening registration hours two weeks prior to the start of the spring semester classes which begin January 25.

State Tax Law

The fourth phase of changes to the Maryland's sales and use tax law takes effect January 1, 1993, and will affect both individuals and businesses, according to the Maryland Comptroller of the Treasury office Beginning January 1, the state diesel fuel tax increases from 19.25 cents to 21.75 centspergallon Thischange will appear at retail pumps and on the road forms filed for heavyweight trucks

Effective January 1, persons applying for issuance or renewal of any of 17 professional and occupational licenses must certify that all of their state tax obligations are up-to-date. License holders should make arrangements to pay taxes due well in advance of the renewal date of their licenses. The licenses affected, all of which are issued by the Maryland Department of Licensing and Regulation, include accountant, architect. harber, certified interior designer, cosmotologist, electrician, forester, hearing aid dealer, landscape architect, pilot, plumber, private detective, professional engineer, professional land surveyor, real estate appraiser and real

In a change affecting both businesses and individuals, the minimum interest rate on delinquent taxes increased to 13% per year as of January 1. The rate was 12%.

Newspapers sold through vending machines will also be taxable beginning Janu ary 1. Newspapers sold across

State Announces Changes Concerning Jobless Benefits

The Department of Eco-nomic and Employment De-velopment (DEED) has an nounced changes in the disqualification provisions of the Maryland unemployment Insurance Law that will go into effect January 1, 1993. These changes were enacted during the 1992 session of the Maryland General Assembly

The changes involve increases in penalties for voluntarily quitting employment and for discharges from employment for reasons which are determined to be gross misconduct. The new law will also increase the amount of money individuals must earn in subsequent employment to requalify for unemployment insurance benefits.

The new provisions were part of a larger legislative package designed to improve the fiscal integrity of Maryland's unemployment insurance system. "These changes may help reduce certain kinds of employment instability," said Charles O. Middlebrooks, DEED assistant secretary for employment and training "Workers who consider leaving their jobs voluntarily because of employment circumstances should explore with their employer all available alternatives before deciding to

Currently, individuals who voluntarily quit work without good cause will be eligible for unemployment insul since benefits only if they become reemployed, earn at least 10 times what they would have received in weekly unemployment insurance benefits, and then become unemployed through no fault of their own. The earnings requirement will now increase to 15 times the weekly benefit amount. For example, an individual eligible for $200 per week in benefits now must become reemployed and earn at least $2,000. Effective January 1, 1993, the worker must earn at least $3,000.. Then the individual would be eligible for unemployment benefits only if he or she becomes unemployed through no fault of his or her own To requalify for benefits after being discharged for reasons which are determined to be gross misconduct, individuals will be required to earn 20 times the earnings requirement discussed above. For example, the individual who is eligible for $200 per week would have to become reemployed and earn at least $4,000. Then the worker is eligible for benefits if he or she become unemployed through no fault of his or her own. In addition, the General Assembly has added a new category called "aggravated misconduct"under which an individual would be disqualified for unemployment benefits "Aggravated misconduct" is defined as intentional misconduct that results in physical assault, bodily injury, property loss or damage to the property of the employer, fellow employees, subcontractors and any other individuals who visit the employer or use the services of the employer. The penalty is two-fold. the requalification and earnings requirements outlined under gross misconduct and the wages paid to the individual by that employer will be deleted from wages on which unemployment insurance eligibility is based, which can result in either a reduction or an elimination

HE DID HIS BEST - This border coilie, owned by Paul Harvey, 560, did his best to save his owner's barn and dairy herd from fire last Thursday afternoon, but his efforts were in vain. The dog discovered the fire in the barn and notified a member of the

Fire Destroys Barn And Three Dozen Dairy Cows

A barn and some three dozen head of dairy cattle were destroyed last Thursday afternoon by fire, the cause of which was electrical in nature.

Gorman and Bayard volunteer fire departments were called at 3:11 p.m. to the property of Paul Harvey, located along State Rt. 560 about three miles north of Gorman. Upon their arrival they found the large dairy barn fully involved in flames.

Although Harvey's son, Stewart, was able to get 10 cows out of the barn, the heat and smoke made it impossible to get over 30 other cows out. The younger Harvey sustained burns to his cheek and arm and was later transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment.

The elder Harvey told The Republican that he had been in the barn about 15 minutes earlier and was at a neighbor's house when the ire was discovered. He said his border collie actually discovered the fire and began to bark. Stewart Harvey, who was in the house at the time, heard the dog, went outside, and saw smoke coming from the barn. He immediately shut off the electricity to the barn and began his attempt to rescue the animals.

Of the 10 head of cows Harvey was able to get out of the barn, four later had to be destroyed because of

Crellin's Grant Request For Water Project Denied

Garrett County Sanitary District Administrator Wendell Beitzel this week requested that the Garrett County Commissioners help the town of Crellin in an attempt to overturn a recent decision by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) not to fund the third and last phase of the Crellin Water System Improvement Project.

Beitzel explained to the commissioners that he had written a letter to the governor in early December for the same purpose, and would appreciate a second letter from the commissioners. He also requested they submit ideas for alternative funding sources if the appeal "It would be a shame to lose the funding for the final phase of this project," he said, adding that funding approval has already been ceived from the Maryland Department of the Environment for 87 and one-half percent -- or $145,000 -- of the projected cost. The 12 and one-half percent being requested from HUD amounts to $18,128, according to Beitzel.

Commissioner John Braskey stated that he simply did not have any legislative requests to make this year, noting that the one issue he felt strongly about -obtaining the local authority to seek bonding for capital school projects - could not get off the ground because "we can't get our board to agree on it."

When the question was posed to Commissioner Elwood Groves, he answered that he had "no comment," but went on to say that he still wanted to see the Garrett County Sanitary Commission become a part of the county government and give CHRISTMAS PROJECT - Northarn Garrett FHA students recently participated in their third annual community eervice Christmas project on December 9. They visited Cherry Glade Childcare Center and Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home. In the morning they did handprint ornaments, a puppet show, a flannel board story, and various other activities with the children. In the afternoon they visited the senior citizens and gave each of them a handmade ornament. Fifteen students, instructed by Mrs. Barbara Law, participated in this funfilled day.

The incident occurred in Mtn. Lake Park on Dec. 19 at approximately 11 p.m., according to the report. Whitacre was released from the Garrett County Jail after posting a $1,000 bond.

A 31-year-old Oakland man was charged with two counts of battery against his girlfriend. Ronald E. Crosby was apparently arguing with Crystal Noland, Oakland, at the Short Stop in Mtn. Lake Park on Monday. According to the report, Ms. Noland went outside to talk with him and Crosby got in his car and drove toward her in an attempt to hit her.

Noland contacted the police and an arrest warrant was issued for Crosby's arrest. The defendant was later released on his own recognizance, according to a Sheriff's Office spokesperson.

Sex Offense Arrest A report was received just prior to press time this morning that a 22-year-old local man has been charged with third degree sex offense and battery against a nine-month-old child. Kenneth Helmick is currently lodged in the Garrett County Jail in lieu of 10% of $5,000.

The breaking and entering of a summer cabin was reported to the Sheriff's Office this week. Mark Car-penter, Oakland, contacted police on Dec. 19 after he discovered that his mother's cabin, located on Doc Thompson Road, had been entered and several items had been stolen. The house had last been checked on Police responded to the scene and found that the culprits had entered through a window and, according to the report, "had a party inside." Blankets were pulled from the beds and were on the living room couch, and a gas grill had been lit in the middle of the room, presumably to provide heat as there is no source of heat in the home. Cigarette butts were found in several locations and the carpeting had been burned with lit cigarettes. The perpetrators stole several items, including several wet suits, five compact disks, a Yamaha keyboard, and an AT&T telephone. The worth of stolen items has been set at $755 and the damage to the home has been estimated at $500

We Were Enlightened...

Before the ink was dry on last week's issue of The Republican, our newsroom was visited by representatives of the Oakland Post Office who were somewhat upset ahout our editorial last week and anxious to enlighten us about the efforts of their staff during the recent snow storm. The column primarily questioned the closing of most government offices during the storm while most businesses were open as usual. There was one reference to the U.S. Postal Service's apparent non-delivery of mail

While a number of post offices in the state and surrounding area reportedly did close up shop during the storm, such was not the case with the Oakland Post Office. In fact, employees worked long hours, well into the night at the office, and did at least attempt delivery on all of their rural routes. We knew of instances where the mail was not delivered even along municipal routes where travel was possible. However, what we did not consider was that other segments of those particular routes were not clear, which caused such delays for the carriers that they ran out of daylight before they were able to complete their routes. U.S. Postal regulations do not permit delivery after Another situation that can lead to non-delivery of mail is when the area around the mailbox or residence is hazardous. For example, if a carrier determines that the steps leading up to a front porch are hazardous because of ice, he is instructed to waive the delivery in order to avoid placing himself in danger of being injured. If he were to fall and be injured, the homeowner who failed to clear those steps would be liable.

While some courthouse employees who live within blocks of their offices were not required to report to work during the storm, employees at the Oakland Post Office from as far away as Bloomington, Burlington, W.Va., and even Meyersdale, Pa., did report for work. Jerry Hatley, the current officer in charge of the Oakland Post Office who has 20 years with the Postal Service, said he had never seen such dedication by any group of postal employees.

While our basic opinion expressed in the column concerning the closing of government offices during bad weather remains as expressed last week, we do want to apologize for offending the employees of the Oakland Post Office, and commend them for their diligence, especially during this most busy of seasons. This commitment was emphasized for this writer when a carrier delivered a package to his house this past Sunday afternoon.

Also, to other government employees who did report to work, even if their particular office was closed, we

Anyway, enough said about this matter. Since this column for this particular week each year usually centers on a Christmas theme, we wish to close with a holiday wish for our readers. May the significance of this season bring peace, hope, and joy to one and all.

"I Can Handle It"

Maybe if we carved the words "I Can Handle It" on the gravestone of everyone who died in a highway crash involving alcohol or other drug impairment -- about 20,000 of us every year -- we would finally learn the lesson. But maybe not. One of the ways alcohol impairs us is to make us feel as if we're doing just fine, often long after everyone around us knows differently. It's a struggle for us to say the words. Or get our key into the ignition. Or see. Or perceive what's happening accurately. Or make good, timely judgments. Or get brain and muscles coordinated to act quickly and effectively

But research shows that any measurable alcohol increased the crash risk for some drivers and that the risk increases substantially by .08 BAC, long before BAC approaches levels the law forbids, 10 in most States. Impairment increases with consumption, which is why everyone from Mothers Against Drunk Driving and the U.S. Surgeon General, to the American Medical Association and the National Commission Against Drunk Driving, favors lowering the legal BAC in all States, and why five States have already gone to .08 with positive results The relative risks for drivers under 21 being involved in an alcohol-related fatal crash are greater than for older drivers. That's why they are consistently, tragically overrepresented in alcohol-related motor vehicle crash fatality numbers -- about a dozen of them die this way each and every day. That's why they are targeted for our most intensive efforts to prevent impaired driving. That's why the Federal government created powerful incentives for all States to set 21 as the legal minimum drinking age.

If one fully loaded 747 exploded at 30,000 feet, and we knew it was because a pilot was impaired by alcohol, our grief and anger would energize us to keep this from ever happening again. Yet, that's how many die every single week in alcohol-related highway crashes. And it continues to happen. Is it because we, as a society, think we can't handle it?

We can handle our impaired driving problem. We can support measures to lower BACs to .08 for adult drivers. We can pursue other measures that take licenses away right then and there from those arrested for exceeding these levels. We can withhold the much-desired driver's license from those under 21 who violate other alcohol laws, and we can make clear that the only BAC they can handle, in cars or anywhere else, is 0.00. And we can balance whatever pressures they get to break the alcohol laws with better information about impairment and with safer and healthier community norms for drinking by those who legally can.

Maybe I can't handle our impaired driving problems

alone. But we can Senior Citizens' Menus

An Update From The Superintendent

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent Of Garrett County Public Schools

Garrett County Student Assistance Program (This Article was written by Randy Paugh, guidance counselor at Southern High School.)

The Maryland Student Assistance Program began four and a half years ago. It is a major component of the Maryland State Department of Education's Drug-Free Schools strategy There are over 109 schools within the state utilizing this program and over 1000 school personnel trained to implement its procedures. Both Northern and Southern high schools have trained personnel and teams. The middle schools will develop programs in the near future.

The goals of the program are to identify "students at risk" concerning drug/alcohol abuse, intervene as early as possible in order to check a potential problem before it gets out of hand, to refer these students to obtain appropriate help, and to provide follow up monitoring to assess the student's recovery process

The five working components are: 1) Identification: Students who are experiencing problems may be identified and referred by parents, school staff or friends; 2) Data Collection: Checklist forms concerning the students' behavior, attendance, academic performance and grades are distributed to all those who come in contact with the student All information is kept in the strictest confidence; 3) Intervention: Based on the information collected, the team then plans an intervention strategy to assist the student who is at risk concerning substance abuse: 4) Referral: A successful intervention will result in the student going for a professional assessment of his or her problem. Each team has an adolescent counselor as a member of its team who can provide same day, on-the-spot, assessment concerning the identification of a problem and its severity. A personalized strategy of treatment is then developed; and 5) Follow Up: During and after treatment, the student will be monitored for continued progress and support services within the school will be provided.

If you suspect that a child is getting involved in substance/alcohol abuse and you don't know how to handle it -· let us help. Please keep in mind two things · this is not a punitive program: we are not here to punish the child - we sincerely want to help him or her overcome the problems and we need your help to do it. Secondly, every part of this process is confidential. Only the team has access to information concerning the student. None of the information gained through the process will ever appear in the student's official records.

To refer a student or gain more information concerning this program, call Joanny Martin or Bob Yunker at Northern High School (746-8668 or 895-5434) or Bob Quick or Randy Paugh at Southern High School (334-9447 or 334-

What's Happening In Our Schools?

With the holiday season a number of our schools, of course, conducted special activities. Mrs. Miller's third grade class at Accident Elementary has been learning about the way Christmas is celebrated throughout the world With the assistance of the school enrichment teacher, Mrs Russell, students are comparing the customs of each country with ours as well as learning about the language, size , location, etc., of each country Also at Accident a special band and choral program was conducted for the entire school on Tuesday, December 22.

Schools closed for the holidays on Wednesday, Decem ber 23, at noon. They will re-open on Monday, January 4,

The Mind Wanders

by Pam Ashby
Just when you thought it was safe to sit down, prop up your feet, and watch a mindless situation comedy on the tube, WHAM, you hear, "Mom, can we go shopping? I forgot to get one of my friends a Christmas present." Now how can you refuse when your daughter is thinking about someone other than herself. So you clear the kitchen table, apologize for leaving to your lonely husband who's laid up with an injured foot, gather the kids into the car, and head for an overcrowded store to join the other last minute shoppers in a quest for the perfect gift.

You're full of resolve not to let anything bother you. It's Christmas and you're going to keep the Christmas spirit. Who cares if your cart won't fit through the aisles? Who cares if you've been bumped a zillion times? Then you see a dear friend and you comment on how you're both crazy to be shopping at this late hour. And you still haven't totally lost your cool. You still go home and wrap all those stocking stuffers because you know your kids get a kick out of unwrapping so many tiny treasures. It never dawned on you, but you're the Christmas mother because your husband tells

And just when you wonder how you'll get your house cleaned before the big day in case company comes, your children pitch in and help you shove all the "I might need this later" stuff into closets and cupboards. They man dust cloths and vacuum cleaners and cram another load of laundry in the overworked washer. They offer to wrap their sibling's gifts for you and promise not to tell the contents of those gifts. They get the mail and bring dad the Christmas cards instead of the bills since he's laid up. They spend hours decorating cookies that are unequalled in beauty. These children are yours and you hold them dear, for you suddenly realize that perhaps they've inherited your love for

And then you realize that they are growing by example. They have learned how to give of themselves. They have learned how the teachings of Christ apply in their lives. They are not perfect. They are sometimes self-indulgent. They are sometimes stubborn and non-motivated. But they know they are loved even on their "ugly" days. They are loved by their parents and they are loved by their heavenly Father and more and more each year, they celebrate his birth for the right reasons. I know this because my normally self-absorbed teen daughter asked me the other day, "Mom, do you think it would be okay if some of my friends and me could go to the nursing home and sing some Christmas songs for the patients?" I know this because my grown son finally went through his extensive wardrobe and offered to take the "no fits" to Santa Stouffer for the needy and asked if that would be all right with me. I know this because my 10-year-old can't do enough to help mommy and daddy these days and asked if her homemade gifts would be okay for no help? And in many areas in this county there are no houses for miles even if there is a mail box there and it can be a long time until omeone comes and stops to help. These carriers do not have two-way radios in their cars or car phones.

Sweethearts, you all have no idea how okay those requests are for me. Merry Christmas.

May I suggest for the people who do not or cannot clear their mail boxes that they rent a post office box

This is why it is important that your rural box be cleared out properly and go get their mail. May I end by saying, it is easy to call someone "wimpy" when you are sitting in a nice warm office and safe writing your editorial.

WHITE HOUSE WATCH By Warren Rogers

What if Perot had won?

WASHINGTON - Presidentelect Bill Clinton is moving right along with appointments to his cabsub-cabinet and sub-sub cabinet, mostly drawing critical approval. Hope is high in the land that he will bring change for the better. So, let's pause a moment and consider an alternative: Suppose Ross Perot had won the elec-

Not many people nowadays think Perot had much of a chance. But you'd get an argument on that from those who were in the trenches, the old pros who hired on as strategists and consultants and the enthusias tic amateurs who foot-soldiered for tree as volunteers

They saw a chance to win, it Perof would pull all his political assets together and impose structure, or-der and discipline. It never happened Disillusion and heartbreak are their legacy, and, in one case, at least, relict It Perot had listened to me, he might have been elected president. says Ld Rollins, and that would have been a disaster, a tragedy for the nation

Rollins, who had been President Reagan's political adviser in the White House, amazed tellow Republicans when he agreed to run Perots campaign in tandem with Hamilton Iordan, a Democrat who had served President Carter in the White House. They made an odd couple, and, with Perot tossed in. the triangle was bizarre

I only met him once, as I recall," Rollins told me. had any meetings, there were no tiles and no mailing lists, no organization, no schedules, no agendas and no indication of any will to do of that Liverything was in Ross Perot's head.

Well, anyway, with Perots deep pockets, it was a chance for him and lordan to make a few bucks,

No," Rollins said, in a most astonishing revelation. "I got a month's pay and that's all. Nobody else got paid. He never paid any body. It you asked to be paid, he'd say. Sue me Tve got 160 lawyers. so go aftead and sue me."

A possible exception was lim Squires, the veteran newsman who acted as Perots spokesman Jordan may have been paid for signing an agreement not to write or talk about his experiences as a Perof strategist

They gave me a silence agreement to sign, but I handed the paper back to them," Rollins said. Perot apparently drove Rollins and Jordan up the wall with his refusal to accept the time-tested rules of national political campaigning. He never returned telephone calls from national figures in politics and political reporting, never sent thank-you notes to contributors. even though they poured in from the grass roots, and insisted he could campaign solely on radio and television talk shows and with his own paid-for TV lectures "Issues, issues, the people don't care about the issues," he told his consultants. "They just want me to talk sense to them. If they want issues, let them read my book.

If truth be known, Perot himself never read his book. It was put together for him and published under his name. But there is no record that he ever did more than hold it up for the TV cameras. How much what it said he accepted and how much of it he didn't - that remains a mystery because he never

For that matter, Perot doesn't read at all, according to people who know him, with the possible excep-tion of the New York Times' busipages. In the campaign, he kept demanding that everything he was asked to consider be reduced to a one-page memo. Which led one aide to wonder, "How can I reduce our economic plan to one

What a president he would have made! Presumably, if Congress crossed him by refusing any of his proposals, or if Germany or Japan or the United Nations gave him any gull, he would gather up his bat, ball and mitt and go home to fulk, the White House be damned

And then we'd have that brave, decent admiral with the existential questions in the Oval Office

GOOD MOVIES BY BEVERLY ROBIN

Rock Emeriumment; directed by Rob Reiner: starring Tom Cruise, Jack Nicholson, Demi Moore, Ke-in Bacon, Kiefer Sutherland, Ke-in Pollak, James Marshall, J. T.

Walsh and Wolfgang Bodison. A Few Good Men reaffirms your confidence that given a strong, lit-erate script, a film has no need for reliance on sex and violence.

Fine acting doesn't hurt either, and this piece can boast it not only from its few good men but also from one good woman, Demi

Many directors can be typed. Not Rob Reiner! His unerring instinct for solid entertaining commercial successes range from fantasy (Princess Bride), to mock rock docu-mentary (This is Spinal Tap), to ro-mantic comedy (When Harry Met Sally), to coming of age (Stand By Me), even to horror (Misery). Now, add to his genre collection a brilliantly packaged courtroom drama.

A Few Good Men transfers Aaron Sorkin's hugely popular Broadway hit to the screen with passion, excitement and megawatt star power.

Tom Cruise plays Naval Lieutenant Daniel Kaffee, a cocky young Harvard lawyer with a reputation for plea bargaining. Assigned to detend two marines accused of murdering a fellow enlistee at the U.S. Base in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, Kaffee is assured it is an open-andshut case. Only the prodding of defense team member JoAnne Gallo-way (Demi Moore) makes him realize that the men may have been acting on orders from their officers and were following an unspoken code of Marine Corps life.

Cruise's investigation sets him against base commander Nathan Jessep (Jack Nicholson), a contemptuously authoritarian powerhouse with a cold-war mentality and unshakable egotism. Moreover, his two young defendants prefer to go to jail for life rather than be dishonored by betraying the Marine's code of fidelity to unit, corps, God and country.

It is for Kaffee to decide if he will pursue the moral dilemma of balance between loyalty and integrity, and of who bears ultimate responsibility for immoral behavior leading to death when a soldier was following orders.

The plot's predictability is overshadowed by its gripping performances and provocative theme. Once Cruise sheds his brash, slick. wise-guy variation on most of his previous roles and evolves into the quick-witted, agile attorney with moxie and savvy, he generates real

The final explosive confrontation between Kaffee and Jessep is like a breathtaking battle of Titans. And if Jessep's militaristic arguments seem the more compelling, it may be partly because of Nicholson's overwhelming acting power but also because of a certain logic in his position.

A Few Good Men does not reach simple answers. It sustains integrity by not pandering to a sexual rela-tionship between its leads, Cruise and Moore. It maintains tension, even as it telescopes its wrenching finale early on. Thoughtful, stirring and jarring. A Few Good Men may be the film of substance this holi-

Food For Thought

Adding fiber to your diet? Make meatballs with oats or oat bran instead of bread crumbs. Or substitute oat bran for some of the all-purpose flour in your baking recipe

Crispy, crunchy jicama tastes good raw or cooked. Cut into strips and stir-fry with grated gingerroot, minced garlic, wedges of onion and strips of red and green bell peppers. Add soy sauce

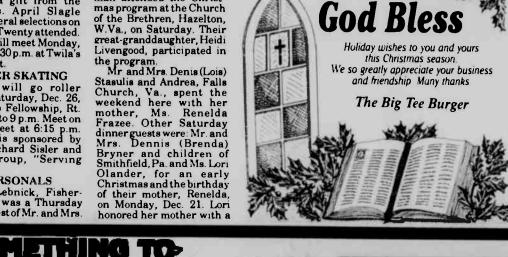

Cookies brown more evenly on a shiny cookie sheet. If the recipe has little fat, grease the pan with solid shortening. Don't use butter or margarine; it may cause sticking.

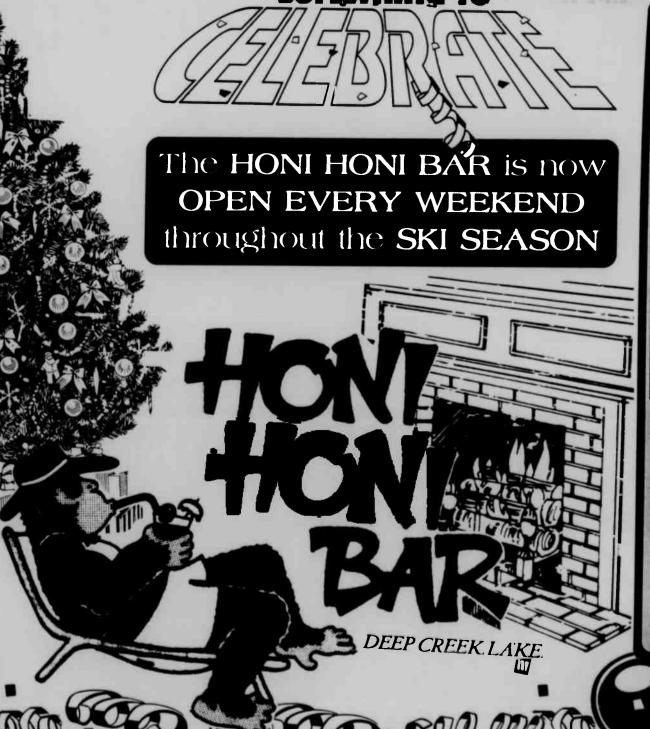

New Year's treats vary around the world. In the South, it's traditional to serve black-eyed peas. In Tuscany, the custom is lentils on January I. And in Eastern Europe, herring's the thing.

STAFF DEVELOPMENT SESSIONS HELD - All Garrett County Board of Education Instructional employees were trained in the use of the "Dimensions of Learning and Thinking Model in staff development sessions held Nov. 30 and Dec. 1. The model is a research and theory-based framework to assist the classroom teachers plan instruction to address sil critical aspects of learning. The framework has five dimensions: 1) positive student and teacher attitudes and perceptions necessary for effective learning, 2) the acquisition and integration of knowledge, which is relating new knowledge with what is already known, organizing information and making it a part of long-term memory, 3) the extension and refinement of knowledge-analyzing which is the analysis of what is learned, 4) the meaningful use of knowledge through student tasks that encourage further use, and 5) the productive habits of mind, which is a study of behaviors that enable students to regulate behavior and think critically and creatively. The training was provided at eight sites including Northern and Southern middle schools; Accident, Dennett Road, Grantsville, and Broad nentary schools; and Northern and Southern high schools. All school principals as well as directors of elementary, secondary, vocational education and staff development personnel acted as trainers at the various locations. The initial "training of trainers" for the implementation of the framework was provided by the Maryland State Department of Education with the local board having determined how best and when to provide the training. According to a spokesperson, Garrett County's system is the first to undertake this project. Pictured above is Dr. Brenda McCartney, director of elementary education, as she conducts a training session at Dennett Road. Rams, Sentinels Will Meet For Snowflake Title

The Southern High School varsity girls will meet the Fort Hill varsity this evening in the finals of the annual Snowflake Classic at Southern, as the 3-1 Rams topped Northern, 33-26, and the Sentinels defeated Westmar, 45-34, in opening round action last night.

Carrie Newcomb finished with 14 points to lead the Rams in their defensive struggle with the Huskies.

Southern held an 11-5 lead at the end of the first quarter before the previously unbeaten Huskies (3-1) came back to knot the score at 15-15 by halftime. The Rams went on a 9-3 run in the third period to lead 24-18 going into the final eight minutes

Aaron Buser, Josey Coviello, and Stacie Kisner sparked the Rams' defensive effort, while the Husky defense held Ingrid Carlson to just nine points.

The Rams actually won the game at the foul line, where they connected on 12 of 21 attempts, compared to a four-for-10 effort by the Huskies. Both teams finished with 10 field goals apiece.

Rams Fall To Spartans, Indians Before Upsetting Wildcats, 85-83

After dropping two more games this past week and arring their record fall to 0t the Southern High varsity Rams pulled off a major upset Tuesday night by siging previously unbeaten, 1-0 Westmar, 85-83, to give Coach Art Refosco his first win as head coach of the Rams.

Southern dropped a 57-40 decision to visiting Bishop Walsh last Thursday and then fell to host Mount Savage on Friday evening, 72-55, before breaking their four-game losing skid against the Wildcats.

The Rams were never really in the game against previously winless Bishop Walsh last Thursday, as the Spartans held a 15-8 lead at the end of the first quarter,

Northern Junior Varsity Volleyball Team Completes Perfect Season

By Craig Speicher

My goal for the team is to go all the way and win the state championship Myulti mate goal is to have an undefeated season and a state championship in the same

Ellida Schofield, the speaker, was a sophomore on the 1992 Northern junior varsity(J.V.)volleyballteam, the first undefeated volley ball team - varsity or J V in school history

Almost buried beneath the glory of Northern sstate-con-

the J.V. volleyball players were having a classic season themselves, finishing with a perfect 9-0 record

AJ.V. match is a best-ofthree game series; and it is common to win a match by 2-1. However, in nine matches. only three teams -- Allegany. Bishop Walsh and Mount Savage -- were able to win a single game against Northern, whose final game record was 18-3.

Since 1975 alone, Northern has had over 30 varsity and J.V. volleyball teams season's JV was Northern's only undefeated volleyball team ever, it's understandable why Bob Yunker - who assists head coach Vonda Yunker -- calls a perfect volleyball season a "sports rar-

"We (coaches) knew at the beginning of the season our team would be perhaps the best J.V. team in the area

After about three matches the girls realized just how good they were," said Bob "One of the most difficult tasks that Vonda and I had was keeping them focused on the next game," rather than a perfect season.

"Going into the last match

Considering that this of the season, against South ern, I think the coaching staff

thoughts of an undefeated season crept into our

(coaches') minds, too!" he What made the dream come true? "Dedication brought us to practice, dedication made us practice hard, and dedication won our games. A dedicated team makes a winning team, and this year's J.V. dedicated team," said sopho-more member Amber Close Tenth grader Stacy Anderson said, "The support of our fans, (backup) teammates and coaches really pushed us along. I think we owe them a lot.

April Meyers, one of only two freshman starters, explained, "Everybody put volleyball first, not second or third, and practiced, practiced, practiced

Wrenny Smith, grade ten, added, "The team was incredibly determined not to ost and that determination helped us to achieve our goal. Numerous players stressed the value of summer training. Ellida Schofield said, "Several players who attended volley ball camp over the summer gave our team extra confidence.

Sophomore Stephanie Kamp emphasized that the team "believed in our ability and our true love for the game not the only kind of love that helped make these girls win-

We are a very close team and because of that we achieved a lot of goals this year," said sophomore Amanda Galica

Yunker added "What Vonda and I like most about volleyball is the development of the family spirit. Each player and coach draws into a closer relationship with one another. We look out for each other and show genuine concern for team members, both on and off the court. These feelings continue long after the season ends."

In confirmation of that, Nichole Elliot, the only other freshman starter, attributed winning to "the coaches' dedication and time on helping and correcting us."

Yunkerstressed, "Credit

must be given to the nonstarters as well as those who played regularly. Without them pushing the starting players in practice sessions I doubt whether we would have had this undefeated sea-

Elliot also pointed out the benefits of "having the fun that we had."

Speaking of fun, just what motivated these players to excel?

"When everyone works together, we have a good rally and then score a point -- it's one of the greatest feelings in the world!" said Wrenny Smith

Stephanie Kamp said, Volleyball has taught me so much and shaped me as the athlete, student, and person I am.

Schofield was attracted to volleyball by "the intensity of the games. The best games were the ones where everyone was psyched, including thefans

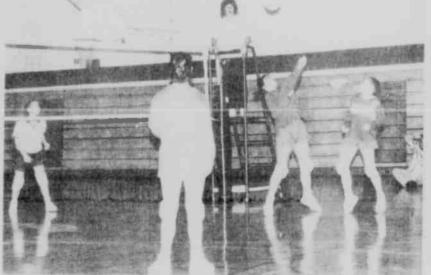

April Meyers explained, When I'm playing, I get this great feeling of being part of team. This feeling makes me want to try and try to get better so I can benefit the

These athletes are obviously better than average What of their future?

Schofield aims next year "to break most of my individual records. My goals for the team is to go all the way and win the state championship. My ultimate goal is to have an undefeated season and a state championship in the same season." She is not alone in her faith for the state

Said Amber Close, "As a team, I think (next year) we should set our sights on winning regionals, and maybe

A state championship certainly would be a realistic goal. Vonda and Bob Yunker led the 1985 varsity volleyball team to the only state title for a team in county

So, if Northern dreams of winning a state championship in 1993 or 1994, it is vital that all team players believe like champions and behave like champions (going the second mile in practice) -- today, no tomorrow -while time remains to develop

Lakers Lose, Then Win In Northern Virginia Tourney

The Garrett Community College Lakers let a 12-point lead slip away from them and were defeated, 90-78, at the hands of Hargrave (N.C.) Military Academy in the first round of the Northern Virginia Tournament in Woodbridge, Va., Friday evening.

Garrett came back the next evening, however, to top host Northern Virginia-Woodbridge, 93-85, in the consolation game. The split left the Lakers with a 5-6 mark for the first semester of action. They will be off until January 6 when they will travel to Butler CC

Anthony Walker spearheaded a balanced offensive attack for Hargrave as he scored 18 points to lead six players in double figures. Mike Biggs and Jeremy Davis each netted 15 points, Jerome Spellman and Dan Shanks scored 14 apiece, and Prentice Woods added 11.

Gibson praised the Hargrave team, noting that four of its players have committed to Division I schools. Fred Wilson, who was held to just three points against Hargrave, got back on track Saturday night and led the Lakers with 24 points in their win over Woodbridge. Rice finished close behind with 22 points, while Kenny Gross contributed 12.

It appeared early in the contest that the Lakers would have little difficulty in overpowering the 4-8 Knights, as they moved out to a commanding 25-7 advantage at the 10-minute mark of the first half. But once again, the Lakers let their opponents get back into the game and the Knights erupted for a 33-12 run that gave them a 40-37 halftime lead.

A three-point shot by Rice at the 8:40 mark of the second half finally regained the lead for the Lakers at 68-66 and they did not trail

Wilson's effort included four three-point shots and Rice hit three. Wilson also grabbed a game-high 12 rebounds.

Woodbridge was led in scoring by Martin Warner with 28 points, while Chris Simmons netted 20 and Robert Pickle finished with

The Lakers led in rebounding, 46-27.

"We really played as a eam in the second half," Coach Gibson said. "In the past several games we haven't been able to answer the other teams' late runs against us. We finally pulled it together."

Firm To Sponsor Fan Appreciation Night At GCC

A fan appreciation night will be sponsored by Rob Michael State Farm Insurance Company the evening of the Garrett Community Col lege · Beaver Community College basketball game on Saturday, January 9, at the McI lenry gym. According to Michael, all fans will be admitted free of charge, courtesy of State Farm, and there will be drawings for a number of giveaways. A 50-50 drawing will be held, with proceeds benefitting the GCC Alumni Association. Michael also hopes to have the GCC Pep Band play for the occasion, and to have representatives from the youth dribblers organizations serve as "ball boys" or "ball girls" and sit on the team bench during the game. Michael, who graduated from GCC in one of its earliest classes, is currently serving as president of the GCC Alumni Association and is a member of the college Board of Trustees.

Rams Will Host Snowball Classic

The Southern Ramsboys varsity basketball team will be hosting the annual Snow ball Classic on Tuesday, December 29, and Wednesday, December 30. The Snowball Classic has become one of the area's premier tournaments and this year's field will certainly uphold the tradition.

The Times News Area Champion from 1991, Frankfort High School, joins Allegany High School as newcomers to the Snowball Classic. Northern High School, along with the host Southern Rams, round out the field.

The classic has showcased several future college players throughout its history and has seen two former participants (Rodney Monroe, Atlanta I lawks; and Dick Mumma, Golden State Warriors) go on to play professional basketball

The Snowball Classic schedule is as follows: Tuesday, December 29, 6:30, Allegany vs. Northern; 8, Frankfort vs. Southern; Wednesday, 6:30, December 30, consolation championship; 8, championship.

Thechampionshipgame will be followed by a trophy

Herman Speaks To Civic Club

Dr. Gali Herman, internationally known profes sional storyteller, entertained The Cavic Club of Oakland membership recently during tst.nal 1992 meeting

Dr. Herman told mem bers of her travels and expe riences, and demonstrated the importance and many facets of story telling. She illustrated her points through activities and audience parthe pation emphasizing how all age groups can benefit from these experiences

During her presentation Dr Herman stressed the mportance of reading to children and how story telling canbe a part of this activity individually or in groups, at home, or in the classroom.

Background Scripture: Matthew 3.1 through 4.11 Devotional Reading. John 1.19-34 Have you ever noticed that about every mount of inspiration is likely to be followed by a valley of doubt? Inspiration often seems to open us to doubts of which we were previously unaware. A Roman Catholic priest is said to have confided that There s nothing more boring than hearing the confes-sions of a group of nuns. The implication, of course is that being so spiritually advanced. But it isn't necessarily so Very otten the more we advance in the spiritual life, the more wed acover that we would not have recornized on a lower leve. Some of the saintliest people! have known-and there been a few-were those who were more aware of their imperfection than those of us st... tathing with the more oban aculerer a murderer, a chest your sine are very obvious. But some sine-deceit, price billerness letterny and others -- are eas .. y hidden within

THE TEMPTER CAME the higher wed imb spiri-tually the more aware we be-come of how far we have to go Jes us was not spared this experience. Three or the 20s bet writers to is that following his wondern a experience of baptism at the River Jordan by John the partiest he twas led up by the Spirit into the wildernoss is be tempted by the devil And he fasted firty days and forty nights, and afterward ne was numery. And the tempter came and said to him ..." (4:1.23. It is well to note that it was the Spirit of God that led Jesus out into the wilderness and it was Jesus himself, who by fasting for 40 days and nighte, put himself in the posi-tion wherein. He could be

What this means is, not that God wanus to see us tempted but that with every opportu-nity to choose a higher course, there is also the possibility of choosing a lower one God could remove the temptation only by when we are confronted with a higher and lower way, the tempter is always present to persuade us to take the lower way, just as the Spirit is always way, just as the Spirit is always present to encourage us to take the higher way. When Jasus recognized at the River Jordan that God was asying to him. This is my beloved Son, with whom I am well pleased," the country of temptations was as valley of temptations was as-sured if he took this message seriously. The temptation is part of the offer. There would be no good, if there were not the possibility of avil. Note, how the devil tempte him: "If you are the Son of God..."
TRUST IN THINGS

It is interesting that Jesus was faced with the same temp tations that sometimes confror: us. Not that you and I are aver tempted to turn atones into bread, but, we are tempted to forget that there is more to life than material things. We too are tempted to trust in things. but Jeaus answered rightly when he said, "Man shall not live by bread alone" (4:4). I'm not sure about the second temptation, to test God, but the third one is known to all of us, the temptation to use ignoble means for the sake of achieving noble ends Howoften has the tempter said to each of us. "All these I will give you if you will fall down and worship me?" All of down and worship me? All of us need to remember a Jesus did: Begone, Satan! for it is written, You shall worship the Lord your God and him only shall you serve" (4:10). Note that the tempter often appeals to reason. In fact, that which makes temptation so compelling is it's sheer reasonableness. If Jesus were the Son of God, then, of course, He could do these things! If you and I want to see the Kingdom of God on earth, then why not do this or that to make itacoming more

At last the devil leaves, al-At last the devil leaves, although Luke says, only "until an opportune time" (Luke 4:13) Unfortunately, he will be back. But let us remember that if the devil returns to the valley of temptation, there will also be more mounts of inspiration.

TV DIALOGUE

TV GHOSTS - Our family is having a heated discussion about whether or not there was a TV series called "Ghostbusters," or if there were only "Ghostbusters" films. I insist that there was a series before there was a film. Can you settle this before we come to blows? - P.K., Anderson, Ind.

Right you are, PK The ve-action Saturday-morning kiddie series starring Larry Storch and Forrest (both of "F Troop" fame) as battlers of the spirits of his torical villains (This series is out on video, so you can show it to the disbelievers in your clan) The "Ghostbusters film, starring Bill Murray and Dan Aykrovd, was released in 1984. IN FOCUS

In Martin Scorsese's Cape Fear Nick Nolte (pictured plays a lawyer whose former client Robert De Niros has just been released from prison and is determined to exact revenge for his lawyer's less than total commitment to his defense. And he considers every one of the lawyers friends and family members pawns in the revenge. The result is a thoroughly nasty and gripping drama It pre-mieres Friday, Jan 1 on Showtime

Simplify Your Life!

At first glance, buying a home seems to be quite a hassle You look in the classified section and find 10 homes which seem interesting. Each is advertised by a different real estate company which means you must make 10 different phone calls for information

Want to know a simple way to locate just the right home? Choose a real estate agent first, the minute you make the commitment to vourself to buy a home -before ever beginning your search

You will only need one agent That's what makes the process so simple. Even though homes for sale are represented by many different companies, a single agent can show you virtually any home for sale

This is possible because real estate companies "cooperate" with each other, shar ing their brokerage fees when one company sells another company's listing This "coop" system works well, and greatly simplifies your home buying experience The first step, then, is to choose an agent. This individual will work with you from Day I until your purchase is completed If you choose the agent carefully, then give that person your loyalty, you can enjoy a wide and valuable array of services First, the agent can arrange a prequalification interview with a mortgage lender This provides you with information about your purchasing power. Next, the agent will locate and preview suitable homes in the locations you have selected. This can save you many hours, and allows you to concentrate on only those homes suitable to your requirements

All appointments will be made for you, and you will be shown a wide selection of homes Your questions will be answered

Once you choose the right home, the agent will assist you in preparing a purchase agreement, and will present it to the sellers for approval. From mortgage application to closing, the agent will follow-up on all the details

If you'd like to purchase a home, but feel out-of-touch with what 's happening in real estate, give us a call today at 387-5303 or drop by our office at McHenry Plaza.

Firewood Buyers Advises On What

Constitutes "Cord" Maryland Secretary of ert L. Walker wants all Maryland consumers to be aware of what to look for when buying that cord of wood to keep warm

"Maryland law protects the firewood purchaser, and you should know what to expect from a reliable vendor. Your Maryland Department of Agriculture will help you make sure you get what you pay for," said Governor William Donald Schaefer. A delivery ticket is required by Maryland law to accompany each sale. Tickets must be serially numbered and contain the vendor's name, address, signature of the person determining the quantity of wood delivered, and the license number of the delivery ve-

"If a delivery man does not offer you a ticket, ask for it. You will need it should questions arise about the sale once the wood is delivered," said Walker

The most widely recognized measurement for firewood is the "cord," which is precisely defined under Maryland law as "the amount of wood which is contained in a space of 128 cubic feet when the wood is ranked and well stowed," "ranked and well stowed" means when pieces of wood are placed in a line or row, with individual pieces touching and parallel to each other and stacked in a com-pact manner." Cubic feet is calculated by multiplying the width of the stack by its height and length.

Buyers are cautioned to not be misled by such terms as "face cord," "rack," "pile," or "truckload," since they mean nothing, except that it is probably less than a cord In Maryland, loose wood sold for use as fuel can only be advertised, offered for sale. and sold by measure using the term "cord" or fractional

HSADONATES TO BIG BROTHERS/BIG SISTERS - The Western Maryland District Council of the Holmes Safety Association recently presented $200 to the local Big Brothers/Big Sisters programs in Allegany and Garrett counties, with each organization receiving $100. The Holmes Safety Association represents the mineral and allied industries. Their purpose is to reduce occupational injuries and diseases among employees in such industries. The organization also promotes the doctrines of a arety and conservation of life and health in these industries. All active surface mines in Garrett and Allegany counties are presently members of the Holmes Safety Association. Pictured above are Richard Umbel, left, safety director of Wold Welding and president of the District Council, and Dave Berry, center, president of Bear Safety consulting, Inc., and Council treasurer. Accepting on behalf of Allegany and Garrett County Big Brothers/Big Sisters programs is Larry Bruch, Board president of the Garrett County Branch of Big Brothers/Big Sisters of the Alleghenies.

Persons with questions or complaints relating to the purchase or sale of firewood may call the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Weights and Measures Section at (410) 841-5790.

Frostburg State Univer-sity's Cultural Events Series will host a performance of the Boys' Choir of Harlem Sun day, February 7, at 3 p.m. in the Lane Center. Tickets are available now at Main Street Books, Frostburg; The Book Center, Cumberland; and Disc Jockey Records, Country Club Mall.

'Irresistible, unforgettable and inspirational" are just some of the superlatives critics have used to describe the Boys' Choir of Harlem. Under the direction of Dr. Walter J. Turnbull, the choir has performed for audiences world-wide with a repertoire of classical and modern music, popular songs, spirituals, gospel and jazz -- highlighted by choreography and an unerring sense of showmanship.

Founded in 1968, the Boys' Choir of Harlem provides hundreds of inner-city children an opportunity to realize their creative potential, now and throughout theirlives. (98% of the members completed high school and go on to college.)

Uniquely, the touring ensemble of 35 features older, Harlem To Perform tenor, and bass voices, as well as treble. This permits choristers to participate through secondary school, and is the basis of the Choir's vocal power and musical versatility

The Choir regularly tours throughout North America, Europe, and the Orient, including concerts at the renowned halls of great cities as well as schools, churches, and smaller communities They make frequent appearances on national television and have released two recordings, with soprano Kathleen Battle, Florence Quivar, and others. They were also featured on the soundtrack of the motion picture "Glory."

The Boys' Choir of Harlem performance is co-sponsored by the Lane Center and the FSU Black Student Alliance and is made possible in part by the Dewitt-Wallace Reader's Digest Fund, the New York State Council of the Arts, and a grant from the Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation in partnership with the Maryland State Arta Council and the National Endowment for the Arts

It's Snow Joke: Bad Weather Doesn't Deter Determined FSU Graduates

Though the weather outside was frightful, nearly two dozen Frostburg State University graduating seniors were not going to be defeated by the cancellation of their commencement Neither rain, nor snow, nor college officials, would keep them

Some of my friends have been here for five and half years, so it meant a lot just being with them. I know how much they wanted others to see them graduate.

Volunteers In Police Support Receive Awards

Colonel Larry W. Tolliver. Superintendent, Maryland State Police, honored members of the Volunteer in Police Support (VIPS) program, including one from Garrett County, at an awards luncheon on December 11 in Pikesville.

Special Commendation Awards and Certificates of Appreciation were presented to volunteers who have made outstanding contributions to the VIPS program.

Gerald R. Iman, a Kitzmiller resident and volunteer at the McHenry Barrack, received a Good Citizen Award for contributing more than 300 hours in six months

Colonel Tolliver said, "In this time of hiring freezes, budget constraints and personnel shortages, the Volun-teers in Police Support fill a much needed gap in staffing services." He recognized the 'valuable contribution of these dedicated volunteers' and thanked them for their time and service.

Volunteers in Police Sup-port started in 1985. Today, over 125 volunteers serve the Maryland State Police throughout the state. "VIPS, young and old, contribute their skills and talents. From typing, filing, fingerprinting, computer data input, to community outreach projects, the volunteers have formed a framework of personable, energetic and useful citizens giving generously of their time," Tolliversaid.

Southern States Holds Videoconference For Stockholders Members In Six States

In a year of operating extremes, Southern States Cooperative emerged with near record volume and sharply improved net earn-

In reporting to farmer members at the cooper ative's 69th annual meet ing December 15, Gene A James, president and chief executive officer of the Rich. mond, Va , based organization, termed investment in productivity and conscientious cost control key factors in the good year

James spoke at the Ra leigh Civic and Conference Center in a meeting videoconferenced to 10 downlink sites in six states. Noting that the $933 million volume dipped some $12 million below the previous year's record, the CEO pointed out that a sluggish first seven months of the fiscal year was, fortunately, followed by an excellent spring season

This year's volume reflected lower unit selling prices on feed, fertilizer and petroleum products," ex-plained James. "This worked to the benefit of patrons but, of course, adversely affected dollar volume Savings before income taxes and before tax affecting a recovery of our 1988 refinery loss were $14.3 million, up some $5 million on a pre-tax basis from the previous year.

"Net earnings were some $3.3 million more than 1991, allowing for significantly higher patronage refunds of $4.6 million

Net worth grew from $128 million to $132 milhon while long-term indebt-edness to net worth declined to 67 percent from 69 per

Fertilizer sales broke the million-ton barrier and set as:xth stra:ght record Dol lar volume was up $2 milhen to $134 million.

Seed poundage also set new record with dollar volume rising to $41 million from $38 million. Crop protectants at $59 million set a fourth successive sales

Grain marketing's dollar and bushel volume both increased as some $400,000 was cut in costs. Farmers marketing grain through the cooperative will share in patronage refunds.

Feed tonnage grew from 759,000 to 772,000 for the year. Petroleum gallonage was up due to propane and gasoline increases. Dollar volume and margins dropped in the face of worldwide oversupply and relatively weak demand, plus a mild winter.

Wetsel Seed, a whollyowned subsidiary, notched sales of $39.3 million for an increase of more than $2 million. At $1.4 million, savings before income taxes were more than a third higher than the previous

The cooperative's commitment to maintain its agricultural priority while continuing marketing to urban areas was reiterated by James, who had called attention to the emphasis

Farm Bureau Enacts Alert On "YES" Group

A youth group with an environmental agenda is seeking to get its activists invited to junior and high schools. Once there, they hold seminars, assemblies and try to organize a local club. It's called YES, an acronym for Youth for Environmental Sanity. The group raises questions about animal agriculture, reports Ria de Grassi, director of animal welfare and livestock, California Farm Bureau Federation. "The information being presented, at least some of the things we have seen, is not based on the most recent facts," she noted. "For example, their ma terial says it takes 16 pounds of grain to produce a pound of beef when in fact it's around four pounds," de Grassi said. They told me they are not a vegetarian group-but their own literature says the tour leaders speaking at the school assemblies will be vegetarian or vegan, de Grassi said.

"So, although they may not overtly state that they are to promote a non-animal agriculture-based diet. they are certainly promoting it on a covert basis," de Grassi added

She also warned that since the organization is "youth to youth," the material seems more apt to be acceptable by students because it's from someone in their own age group.

AFBF staffer Hugh

Johnson points out that the top 10 animal welfare/animal rights organizations have a lot of money to spend in furthering their objectives. In 1990, their combined budget was about $100 million. The recently enacted Animal Enterprise Protection Act, Johnson said, will help deter some of the terrorist activities of the animal rights groups Farm Bureau, along with other agricultural groups, support educational activities to present the facts of animal and poultry production to the general public and to school children.

Agricultural Chemicals Industry Expands Recycling Efforts

The agricultural chemicals industry is the only in-dustry that has embarked upon a national program to collect and recycle its empty plastic containers," according to Horace Johnson, president, Agricultural Chemical Research Council (ACRC) and product manager, North America, Rhone-Poulenc Ag Co., Re-search Triangle Park, N.C. Through the ACRC the industry is taking responsibility for collecting its used containers.

ACRC has chosen two contractors to handle the nationwide recycling efforts in the industry-backed program. They are SCT Environmental, Inc., Pasadena, Tex., and Tri-Rinse, Inc., of St. Louis, Mo. STC Envi-ronmental will assume responsibility for 14 states--Alabama, Arkansas, Arizona, California, Colorado. Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas. Tri-Rinse will assume responsibility for the remaining 34 contiguous states and the District of Columbia.

ACRC has collected at least one million empty plastic pesticide containers since January 1992. Agricultural chemical manufacturers and formulators are under writing the total cost of the program.

"By the end of 1992, we expect to collect and recycle containers in more than 30 states amounting to two million pounds of plastic," noted Dr. Ralph F. May, chairman of ACRC's Implementation Committee and Research Associate, E.I. DuPont de Nemours, Wilmington, Del. "With these new contracts, ACRC will expand its current collection and recycling program to all states," May said.

There are three essential elements to the state collection/recycling program to be successful. Container collection sites must be convenient for farmers; careful monitoring has to be conducted to ensure the containers are properly cleaned; and granulation has to occur. "The key objectives of

National Dairy Board Approves New Promotion Projects

To maximize dairy farm ers' investments in promotion and research, dairy farmers serving on the Na tional Dairy Promotion and Research Board approved at a board meeting Nov. 18 19 several projects with other partners to help foot the bill of advertising and promotion.
The National Dairy

Board will organize a booth next spring at the Great American Food Show in Osaka, Japan's second largest city after Tokyo. "U.S. cheese and ice cream companies will be invited to provide product samples and staff people to promote U.S. product at the show," said California dairyman Steve Hofman, chair of the National Dairy Board's export market enhancement committee. "The National Dairy Board and Foreign Agricul-tural Service of USDA will cover most costs of the booth

Hershey and the National Dairy Board will unite for another ice cream and toppings promotion. "This one (promotion) will target the food service channel... hospitals, restaurants, etc.," said Bill Underwood, New York dairy farmer and chair of the National Dairy Board's advertising and sales promotion committee

The promotion will include a two-page ad in trade magazines like Restaurants & Institutions, a brochure with ice cream recipes and a recipe contest. The National Dairy Board will provide $52,000 to cover the costs of running the magazine ad. Hershey will match each dollar of National Dairy Board investment with about $3. The ad will run March-April and the recipe contest will continue through July.

The board also approved funding for a spring butter promotion keyed around the holidays to take advantage of trade discounts by butter manufacturers at that time. Details of the promotion are to be worked out with potential tie-in partners.

The National Dairy Board will join UDIA and the beef check-off in their long established spring cheeseburger promotion called "Double Cheese Cheeseburger Days." The promotion will include an insert in Sunday newspapers, print and broadcast advertising, regional recipes, coupons and in-store advertising. The promotion will be timed around Memorial Day, kickoff to the summer cook-out season.

In an update to mem bers, Underwood said the new fluid milk advertising campaign will likely go onair in mid-February. "Be-tween the National Dairy Board, UDIA and other state promotion groups, over $16 million have been committed to the network media buy," Underwood said "That doesn't include additional media support on regional and local television by state and regional promotion groups."

several nutrition projects were approved for continued funding. The projects, initiated in 1991 and 1992, were divided into the categories of dairy foods effect on bone health (osteoporosis), cardiovascular disease, and cancer prevention, novel uses of dairy products in nutrition and health (i.e. anti-ulcer activity of dairy foods compared to drug therapy), oral health, and dairy food sensitivity (lactose intolerance). The projects, funded by National Dairy Board for a total $1.128 million, are managed by National Dairy

USDA Proposes New Incentive For TB Eradication

To help reach the goal of eradicating bovine tubercu-losis by 1998, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has proposed to expand its current indemnity provisions.

Under the proposed regulations, producers could file claims for cattle and bison added to herds under quarantine for tuberculosis. A federal and state approved herd management plan must be in place at the time of the claim.

We believe this change would simultaneously promote economic interests and good herd management practices by making it more cost-beneficial to destroy infected or exposed ani-mals," said Bill G. Johnson deputy administrator for veterinary services with USDA's Animal and Plant

Health Inspection Service. Owners are currently required to quarantine tuberculosis-affected herds, and USDA indemnifies them for destroying those animals that test positive for tuberculosis infection or exposure. USDA does not pay indemnities for any animals added to the herd after being placed under quarantine. Johnson explained that dairy herd owners generally cull between 25 and 30 percent of their herds each year. The industry considers the destruction of older animals to be a good herd management practice because these animals can be unresponsive to testing and therefore a source of disease perpetuation.

However, Johnson said many dairy owners with herds under quarantine for tuberculosis are not destroying and replacing these marginal animals because the owners currently could not file for indemnities for the new animals, and they do not want the herd's base level of milk production to decrease

To ensure the continued success of our program, we need to provide an incentive for owners to rid their herds of marginal animals," Johnson said. "In terms of herd health and productivity, our proposal would benefit the program and individual owners alike.

The proposal was published in the November 2 Federal Register. Comments will be accepted if they are received on or before Jan. 4, 1993. An original and three copies of written comments referring to docket 92-061-1 should be sent to Chief, Regulatory Analysis and Development, PPD, APHIS, USDA, Room 804 Federal Building, 6505 Belcrest Road, Hyattaville, MD 20782.

Comments may be inspected at USDA, Room 1141-S, 14th Street and Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, DC, between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, except holidays

Gonder Insurance Oakland, MD will be closed Saturday, Dec. 26. Regular hours will resume Monday, Dec. 28 at 8 a.m.

Farm Bureau Urges President Bush USDA Agency Helps Solve To Release Wetlands Manual

The nation s largest farm organization has made a last ditch appeal to President Bush to release the wetlands delineation manual The appeal was made in a letter signed by American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner and officials of all 50 state Farm Bureaus and Puerto Rico. Kleckner delivered the letter to Bush at a Washington meeting

"We urge you to resolve the wetlands issue before leaving office," the letter stated. "Landowners, particularly our nation's farmers and ranchers, desperately need a clear direction in the matter. The current uncertainties are hurting farmers by impairing their ability to borrow money, plan for the future or buy or sell land."

While campaigning, President Bush promised to resolve the wetlands issue before the end of the year. A revised wetlands delineation manual was issued during the summer of 1991, following seven public hearings on the matter which drew thousands of participants

"If your administration finalizes the proposed supplement to the 1987 manual, true wetlands would be protected Prop erty rights would no longer be violated and true science would rule," the farm leaders told Bush. The letter also reminded the president of statements he made during the campaign that "wetlands should be truly wet." According to Kleckner, despite the president's statements, the wetlands manual is being held hostage by individuals and groups within the administration who want to retain the current vague wetland definitions. We support the protection of true wetlands," Kleckner said. "There has never been any disagreement on that principle. We simply want to remove the regulatory cloud over priorconverted cropland and lands that exhibit no wet characteristics.

'Certainly with a little more effort now we can arrive at a satisfactory conclusion," the Farm Bureau officials wrote Bush. "The alternative is to allow this issue to fall victim to bureaucratic gridlock. It'stime for our country to get on with protecting true wetlands and freeing the remaining lands for productive use

In a related matter, Farm Bureau also urged President Bush to pardon Bill Ellen, a marine engi-neer from Virginia, who currently is serving six months in federal prison for filling federally defined wetlands. Ellen ran afoul of federal wetlands regulations while converting land into a 103-acre wildlife sanctuary, which was to include duck ponds.

Wetlands experts say Ellen's work actually added 45 acres of wetlands to the property, but the government claimed those areas could harm the environment because of waste from migratory waterfowl. Consequently, following his conviction, Ellen is spending his holidays in prison. Per sons may send their holiday greetings to Ellen at the following address: William B. Problems With Wildlife

There is a wildlife agency within the U.S. Department of Agriculture that provides help with everything from bats in the belfry to bears in the backvard

When wild animals cause damage to property, threaten public health and safety, feed on valuable crops, kill livestock and pets. or harm endangered species, we're here to provide safe and responsible assistance," said Bobby Acord, deputy administrator for animal damage control in USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

ADC has offices in most states throughout the coun try, Acord said. These offices are staffed by professional wildlife biologists who are trained in handling a variety of situations.

Following is a review of recent ADC activities:

Red Wolf Recovery: In October, ADC helped trap a pair of endangered red wolves that were suspected of killing livestock in Tennessee. The wolves were fitted with radio collars and released in a new location

Roaming Coyotes: This summer, residents in a New Mexico neighborhood became alarmed after coyotes killed a pet dog and wandered into several backyards. An ADC wildlife biologist evaluated the situation and suggested the county cut the vegetation around the neighborhood. ADC recommendations were followed, and the coyotes have stayed away from the neighborhood Wildlife Hotline: For the past year, a toll-free hotline has assisted more than 1,000 Maryland residents with wildlife-related problems. The service, established in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. receives calls about nearly every animal-related problem imaginable. About 40 percent of the calls involved health and safety problems caused by wildlife. The number is 1-800-442-0708 Too Many Geese: The population of non-migratory Canada geese in several Eastern states has reached an all-time high. ADC regularly receives requests to relocate geese from golf courses, business parks, sewage treatment plans, airports and residential ar eas. In the past few months alone, ADC relocated 500 geese in Virginia and 400 cember 21, 1992

* Fish-Eating Birds: In August, an ADC specialist Williamson County, Texas, received a request for assistance from a manager of a catfish farm reporting a loss of 125,000 fish to cormorants. ADC recommended the use of propane exploders and other frightening devises that were successful in keeping the predatory birds at bay

*A Taste For Poultry: In September, ADC specialists in Benton County, Oregon, trapped and relocated a great horned owl that had killed 33 exotic chickens The chickens were valued at more than $5,000. The owl was released near the Cascade Mountain range, more than 200 miles away from the farm.

Grizzly Guard Dogs: This summer, ADC provided a sheep rancher in Montanas Absaroka Wilderness area with two Akbash guarding dogs. The dogs were used to protect a flock of sheep in an area inhabited by black and grizzly bears and coyotes. The herder and the owner of the sheep observed encounters between the dogs and predators auring the 7-week sea son and were impressed with the demonstration. The rancher plans to use the guarding dogs again

Department Of Aq Acts To Protect Christmas Trees

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. alker has announced that the department's Plant Protection Section is conducting an intensive search for the pine shoot beetle. This pest of pine trees was first found in the United States in July near Cleveland. Ohio. Since July, it has been discovered in the state of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, New York and Pennsylva-

"Our Maryland Department of Agriculture is actively protecting the Christmas tree industry in our state. We intend to keep our trees free of this pest," said Governor William Donald shoots at the top of the tree Bark feeding girdles the tree, killing it. Shoot feed ing deforms the tree, mak ing it grow forked or crooked The beetle feeds on many types of pine but prefers

Scotch pine. The easiest way to find the pine shoot beetle is to look for branch dieback, yellowing of needles or drooping shoots. Examina tion of the shoots will show borer holes and the small adult beetles can be found inside

"To date, Georgia, Kansas, Michigan, North Carolina and Oregon have enacted state quarantines regulating the movement of pine trees, cut Christmas trees, and pine logs from the infested area. We anticipate that the United States Department of Agriculture will enact a federal REPRESENTATION OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY quarantine making uniform regulations," said Plant Protection Supervisor Charles Staines

The Maryland Department of Agriculture plans to inspect Christmas tree sales lots this season to ensure that infested trees are not distributed in Maryland. Christmas tree growers or nurserymen who have questions about the pine shoot beetle should contact the Plant Protection Section of the Maryland Department of Agriculture at (410) 841-5920.

-----There are about 15,000 Christmas tree growers in the U.S. and over 100,000 people employed full or part time in the industry.

Using data from the USDA, Smith analyzed national and statewide trends to determine the negative effect eating away from home has on milk consump-

"Nationwide, per capita consumption of fluid milk declined 22 percent from 1965 to 1989," he says. While we don't have national data on quantities of milk consumed outside the home, we do have estimates for Pennsylvania."

In 1965, the typical Pennsylvania consumer drank an estimated 38 pounds of fluid milk away from home. By 1989, that number had dropped to 30 pounds, a decline of 21 percent. "Thus, as the number of meals eaten outside the home increases, milk consumption per meal decreases even more sharply," says Smith.

In a 1987 Penn State national survey, close to 73 percent of 1,147 consumers reported they weren't as likely to drink milk when eating away from home. While they offered a variety of reasons, the overall message conveyed was that they consider milk consumption an at-home activity," says Smith

M.J. Gomroth and co-workers from Oregon State University and Humbolt State University conducted two trials to control coliform bacterial growth in free-stall bedding under farm conditions. In trial #1, number of coliform were measured in dried sawdust, composted washed manure solids, chopped rye grass straw, and shredded paper covering from gypsum wall board in free-stalls on initial day of filling free-stalls and subsequently on days 2. 5. 8. 11. All materials were acceptable free-stall bedding but coliform growth was rapid in all bedding, reaching fresh manure levels within two days. In trial #2, hydrated lime, copper, zinc, and phenolic germicide were applied to recycled manure solids on days 0 and 3 to control coliform growth. One and one-half pounds of hydrated lime was added to the back of the free-staff for one treatment, and five percent copper sulfate and 10 percent zinc sulfate by weight was mixed with 1.5 pounds of lime in the second and third treatments. In the fourth treatment, one quart of 1.6 percent germicidal solution was applied to the rear of the stall. All treatments were ineffective in controlling growth or reducing coliform num-mental mastitis pathogen populations. Report From The Maryland Dairy Task Force Last week the Dairy Task Force gave its report to the dairy farmers. I was not able to attend, but I did obtain the information that was presented to the farmers. There were some interesting points brought out, particularly the formation of a Maryland Dairy Council. The information is too detailed for this article; therefore, I will be getting more information out to you through the mail.

The Garrett County Crime Solvers case of the week concerns the theft of a tractor and other garden materials

Sometime between October 18 and November 2 an unknown person(s) entered the property of Doug Paul Sisler, located on U.S. Rt 219 south of Mayhew Inn Road, and removed an 18 horsepower Montgomery Ward lawn and garden tractor from behind the house Also stolen was a 20" Lawn Boy push mower and a Ryan gas-powered word whacker The loss in this case has been estimated at $7,550 Any person with information about this or any other unsolved crime is niged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Callers do not have to give their names nor appear in court Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests

AIDS Cases To Increase Under New Definition

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) expects an increase in reportable AIDS ases of between 50 and 100 percent when a new AIDS surveillance case definition is implemented by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) in January Nationwide, CDC is estimating an approximate 75 percent rise in report cases in 1993 because of the expanded definition.

This change in definition brings a more realistic picture to how HIV and AIDS are affecting the citizens of Maryland," said Governor William Donald Schaefer. These additional cases demonstrate the need to redouble our efforts in HIV prevention and education.'

The new definition, based on four additional criteria, becomes effective January 1, 1993. Under the new definition, adults and adolescents with documented HIV infection who have CD4+ T-lymphocytecounts under 200 per cubic milliliter, or a percent of total lymphocytes under 14, should be reported as AIDS cases. Three clinical conditions have also been added as AIDS-defining illnesses in persons with docu-mented HIV infection: invasive cervical cancer, pulmonary tuberculosis, and recurrent pneumonia. The expanded definition does not affect reporting of pediatric AIDScases

We do not expect this to have a large impact on our ability to provide services to individuals infected with HIV." said Nelson J. Sabatini, Secretary, DHMH

they are already under care

new definition. These new guidelines will lead not only to an increase in the number of AIDS cases reported in 1993, but they are expected to raise the num ber of AIDS cases diagnosed invasive cervical cancer. However, the early effects of the expanded surveillance will be greater than the long term because the number of prevalent cases will decline intime

These changes are designed to simplify the classification of HIV infection and the AIDS case reporting process, to be consistent with standards of medical care for IIIV infected persons, to bet-ter categorize HIV illnesses, and to more accurately reflect the number of persons

"Moat of the people who will now be reported as having AIDS as a result of the new definition have previously been diagnosed as having

HIV infection and we hope

State officials say the new definition will lead to an initial rise in the reporting of prevalent cases, as well as an increase of incident reporting. Prevalent cases include those individuals who had previously been diagnosed with HIV infection, but did not meet the old AIDS definition. Incident cases are newly diagnosed cases. An increase in the number of women diagnosed with AIDS is also expected as a result of the

The Garrett County Commissioners this week approved a timetable for the implementation of a statemandated update of the county's development and growth plans that will include the designation and protection of sensitive areas within the county and the preparation of a county-wide

Garrett County Planning and Zoning Director John Nelson presented the schedule to the commissioners for their approval before sending a letter to Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer providing him with the county's timetable.

Nelson explained that the draft schedule was required by the state as a result of the Growth Management Act being passed by the Maryland General Assembly last year to counter the "sprawling" growth that has occurred in the state in recent years.

The act includes the provision that "by January 1, 1993, each jurisdiction that exercises planning and zoning authority shall provide to the governor a schedule for complying with the requirements of SS 3.05, 3.06(B), and 4.09 of this article, including a schedule for the adoption and implementation of a sensitive areas element and the visions and the achievement of consistency in local zoning, and

He noted that a total of eight bids have been received, and the Garrett County Planning Commission plans to narrow that number down to three or four by next week, and then begin interviewing the bidders. Bloodmobile To Visit Grantsville On January 8

The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross Blood Services, Johnstown Region, urges local residents to donate blood at the Grantsville fire hall on January 8 from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m.

According to Lela Bender, local Blood Services chairman, blood collection now, soon after the holidays, is important.

The Johnstown Region Blood Services lost two col lection days due to the holidays and any blood donated now will help re-build a di-minishing blood supply," she said.

Bender continued to explain that donors of all blood types are needed to come out to the January 8 drive, but particularly those people with Rh negative

Ed Majoris, donor reources consultant for the Johnstown Region, added that donating blood makes a good New Year resolution. "Donating blood is easy and takes slightly less than an hour every 56 days What other resolution could take less effort yet give so much?

Requirements for donating blood include being at least 17 years old, weighing at least 105 pounds, and being in general good health.

The Garrett County Chapter and the American Red Cross Johnstown Region Blood Services urge all people meeting the donor requirements to donate blood on January 8 at the Grantaville fire hall.

More than 2.6 million fed- 1991 eral tax booklets have begun arriving in mailboxes throughout Maryland and the District of Columbia Service says taxpayers should not be surprised if they receive a different form fits the tax payer's needs based on the return filed in the previousyear. So, a taxpayer who filed a Form 1040 last year, but could have used the shorter Form 1040A will receive the package in the mail.

At a news conference this week, H.J. Hightower, IRS district director for Maryland and D.C., urged tax payers to allow up to two weeks to receive their tax booklet. "If yours doesn't arrive by then, or if you need a different form, call 1-800-829-3676," Hightower said.

Although the 1992 forms closely resemble those taxpayers used last year, there are several changes taxpayers should note this year.

The Earned Income Credit (EIC) has increased significantly for 1992. The amount of the credit is larger with a maximum credit this year of $2,211, up from $2,020 last year. The credit has three parts, the basic EIC and two additional credits -- one for taxpayers who paid for health insurance coverage for a qualifying child and another for taxpayers who have a child that was born in 1992.

This year tax payers with income less than $22,370 can claim the credit. This is up from $21,250 last year. Schedule EIC is used to claim the credit. Taxpayers have the option of letting IRS compute the credit for them by filling out only three lines on the form Schedule EIC is included in all Form 1040 and 1040A tax booklets. For 1992 the personal exemption amount for each taxpayer and dependent is $2,300, up from $2,150 in

Taxpayers For 1992, higher income taxpayers will be taxed at the 31% rate on taxable income over the following increased amounts: $86,500 for married taxpayers filing jointly, $43,250 for married taxpay ers filing separately, $51,900 for single taxpayers, and $74,150 for heads of house-

The 31% rate, however, does not apply to net capital gain income, which is taxed at a maximum rate of 28%. Taxpayers with net capital gains should use Part IV of Schedule D (Form 1040), to figure their tax. Taxpayers with Adjusted Gross Income (AGI) greater than $105,250 ($52,625 for married taxpayers filing separately) will reduce the amount of certain itemized deductions claimed on Schedule A by 3% of the amount that their AGI exceeds the $105,250 threshold. HOLIDAY ACTIVITIES CONCLUDED - The second annual ecret Santa promotion was conducted recently by (Greater Oakland Business Association) and WKHJ-Radio. Gift certificates totalling $450 were given away and unadvertised specials were offered during the hour that the game was played in each participating store. Details on how to play were given on the radio as the promotion was conducted. WKHJ also sponsored the second annual Fresh Air Festival earlier in the season which, despite rainy weather, was well-attended and successful. Sweatshirts promoting that event are available at Marvin's Men's Wear for $20, with proceeds benefitting projects of GOBA. Pictured above during the last Secret Santa hour are Jack Jones (seated), GOBA president; and Connie Margison (left), GUBA's promotion chairperson; and Cathy Clocker of WKHJ, organizer of the Fresh Air Festival.

Taxpayers with AGI in excess of the following specified thresholds will reduce their personal exemption amount by 2% for every $2,500 ($1,250 if married filing separately) or part thereof that their income exceeds $157,900 if married filing jointly or qualifying widow withdependentchild; $78,950 married filing separate; $105,250 if single; or $131,550 if head of household. There is a worksheet in the tax booklet for tax payers

Filing requirements for 1992 for taxpayers under age 65 are: single, $5,900; head of household, $7,500; married filing jointly, $10,600; married filing separately,

With the exception of the married filing separately filing status, the income threshold for taxpayers who are age 65 and over is increased by the amount of their additional standard deduc-tion. Special filing requirements for children and dependents are detailed in the tax instruction booklet.

Other Changes The Form 1040 Tax Table ceiling for 1992 has been raised to $100,000. The upper limit for the Tax Table for Forms 1040A and 1040EZ remains at $50,000. Many more Form 1040 tax return filers will not have to use the more complex Tax Rate Schedules.

New Form 1040 Schedule C-EZ, Net Profit From Business, will make it easier for many small sole proprietors to record their business gross receipts and expenses.

Finally, there is a new Form 2555-EZ for certain taxpayers who qualify for the foreign earned income exclusion.

"Approximately 70 percent of tax payers will get refunds this year averaging $975," Hightower noted. "I can't think of a better reason to file early than to get your refund check as soon as pos-

Hightower also encouraged taxpayers to consider filing their returns electronically this year. "In its fifth year of availability in Maryland and D.C., this process cuts the waiting time for re-funds in half." Last year, nearly 250,000 area taxpayers filed their returns electronically and received their refunds in approximately three weeks instead of waiting the usual six weeks for a return filed on paper. This year IRS projects that over 300,000 Maryland/D.C. area taxpayers will file electronically through the services of over 1,100 tax preparers who offer this feature. Hightower concluded her remarks by stating that IRS stands ready to assist taxpayers in person at any of 11 onices throughout Maryland and the District of Columbia, or telephonically by calling (410) 962-2590 in Baltimore or toll-free 1-800-829-1040 elsewhere in Maryland and

New Bonding Program Explained By Gov. Schaefer

Governor William Donald Schaeferannouncedthisweek that the Maryland Small Business Development Financing Authority (MSB-DFA) will initiate a new Surety Bonding program January 1, 1993, to help Maryland's small contractors and subcontractors obtain bonds for government and utility contracts. MSBDFA is a financing assistance program of the Maryland Department of Economic and

Employment Development. 'Maryland will be only the second state in the country to offer direct surety bonding, which will enable small contractors to get more work and provide more jobs," said Governor Schaefer. "Small businesses have been suffering during the recession They need all the help they can get to stay alive and

MSBDFA currently operates a Surety Bond Guarantee program, guaranteeing up to 90 percent of a bond issued by a private surety. The new program will also allow MSBDFA to directly issue bid, performance and payment bonds up to $250,000 for government and public utility contracts. We anticipate that we will be fulfilling a need for small contractors and subcontractors who cannot currently meet the surety industry's standard underwriting criteria because of a lack of equity, working capital or equipment," said Mark L. Wasserman, secretary of economic and employment development. "Our goal is to help the subcontractors become prime contractors.' In fact, in order to apply for the MSBDFA bonding, contractors must show that they have been denied bonding by at least one surety.

Stanley Tucker, MSB-DFA executive director, emphasized that the state bonding program is aimed specifically toward the small contractors. "We are not in competition with the private sector," he added. "In fact, we hope to be developing business for them. As the smaller furns grow and gain experience on the larger contracts, they will be eligible for pri-vatebonding." Established in 1978, MSBDFA promotes business growth in Maryland among small and minority businesses through four programs -- Contract Financing, Long-

Bonding...NOW!

With a brand new year just hours away, one naturally spends a few moments reflecting upon the preceding year and pondering what the following 12 months will bring. While some new years of the past provided httle reason to be hopeful, we believe most Americans will ring in 1993 with renewed optimism

Continued nuclear disarmament by the world's super powers, the death of communism, and a general state of peace, with the exception of a few hot spots. are among the reasons for this brighter outlook However, the major reason is that our nation's economy really seems to be pulling out of a long recession. Nearly every economic indicator suggests

On the local level, we wish our board of county commissioners would march into the new year with the intestinal fortitude to go to the legislature for bonding authority. We are facing some major capital expenditures in this county, particularly involving local ools. We have for too long employed the band-aid ph. osophy when it comes to renovation and making repairs. While this approach may be fiscally wise in the short run, if it is utilized for an extended period, not only does it become more expensive along the way, but ultimately results in catastrophic expenses all at once. It s like driving an automobile until it literally falls apart. Not only do you pour money into it for years just trying to keep it on the road, but when it ultimately stops for the last time, you have no equity n it and must pay full price for a replacement vehicle.

Another advantage to financing capital projects via bonding is that the funds are specifically restricted for he purpose at hand. There can be no "shifting" of monies from one category to another by those in

With the apparent up-turn of the local economy, resurgence of real estate sales, and the indication of some rather dramatic growth of the Garrett County tax base over the next five years, NOW is the time to get bonding authority We know that Delegate George Edwards is all for bonding, as is Commissioner John Braskey. However, Commissioners Groves and Butscher remain against it. It is high time for the constituency to speak out, through letters, telephone calls, and visits to these two elected officials to persuade them to change their minds.

Borrowing money is not a sin. How many of us would own a car or a house without the ability to borrow money? Should we continue to "get along" with the bare minimum, or less than the minimum, because we have two commissioners who are proud of the fact that our county doesn't owe any money? We, especially our young people, deserve more than that

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I feel I must respond to Commissioner Butscher's comments made at the last commissioners' meeting in reference to the reason she doesn't ask for any legislation because her requests are never introduced and that if I don't personally agree with it, it doesn't get introduced.

Over the years I have basically taken the position that on issues that impact the commissioners' office, a majority of the board should favor it before introducing legislation and unless totally disagree, then it has heen introduced. There also has to be agreement between Senator Hafer and me or bills don't go anywhere either.

The following are the requests Commissioner Butscher made in January 1991 and what happened with her requests: (1) A referendum during the 1992 Presidential election to cap the commissioners' salaries at the 1992 level of $23,000she knows salaries cannot be changed during a term, so even if we introduced a bill, salaries would not have changed for this present term. Garrett County has a Salary Study Commission in which I believe to be a fair approach and one which has functioned well for many years. They are now again looking at the salaries, so Commissioner Butscher should press her concern to them. I believe Commissioner Butscher campaigned that the $18,000 salary was enough, then she wanted it frozen at the 1992 level of $23,000. She has accepted all the pay increase since she took office. Salaries can't be

is a Salary Study Commissioners opposed it, both Senator lafer, and lopposed it and that is why it wasn't introduced. (2) Term limits of two consecutive four-year terms for county commissioners-

sion, the other two commis-

Senator Hafer and I did receive a petition on this issue as Commissioner Butscher mentioned. The petition was headed up by some of the same people who put together the Charter that was recently defeated. If it was such a hot item, why didn't they write term limits into the Charter? Again, the other two commissioners opposed it and Senator Hafer and I opposed it and that is why it was not introduced.

(3) A commissioner as an ex-officio member of the Board of Education -- this was supported by the other two commissioners, Senator Hafer, and me. The bill was

(4) A black bear hunting season-this was supported by the other two commissioners, but Senator Hafer and I did not introduce it and told the commissioners why The DNR finally put in writing that when they felt the time was right they would institute some type of bear season and yes, I said that without the support of DNR, it would be difficult to get the bill passed. Evidently Commissioner Butscher forgot that I co-sponsored a bear hunting bill the year or two prior to her request and for two or three years prior to that put bills in to compensate farmers for crop damage, none of which passed I don't remember any singular requests from her and there has been none for the coming session. Commissioner Butscher is correct when she said if I don't agree it won't be introduced. I also was elected by the people to do what I feel is right and I am trying to do the best job I can. If I don't agree with something, I'm not going to put in a bill just to do it. It costs roughly $325.15 just to draft, print, proofread, and do a fiscal note on a bill and around $1,000 when it gets into the hearing process.

So contrary to her comments, some of her proposals have been introduced. If Commissioner Butscher has other ideas for legislation she should bring them up and they will be considered, just as the others have.

Sincerely,
Del. George Edwards

With another year gone, I must say thanks to my youngest son for being both father and mother to my grandsons.

Mary Sincell McEwen

At this time of the year, most folks in this country (and in others) are currently housing a pine tree bedecked with various glass baubles and other colorful hangy-downs. In the past month, we have probably all felt that combination of festive gaiety and supreme annoyance as we stuffed the trees in our homes and began the yearly battle with gravity to get the things to stand up straight. Sort of odd, this Christmas tree tradition, if you think of it objectively. If I came from another planet and someone tried to explain to me that this was a cherished tradition among humans, I'm sure I'd be

I was struck with this notion a few weeks ago when we put the tree up here at the office and the smell of it made us all sigh and say, "Oh, it smells so good - so Christmasy." Our olfactory senses react to the scent of a tree and immediate recollections of Christmases past flood our minds.

In our homes, we bring these trees inside and put them m specially-made stands (with a good bit of grunting sweating, and - in our house, anyway - some colorful We argue over the tree's straightness and over its position in the house, which must be perfect. I heard more horror stories about the yearly gravity battle this year than ever before. My mother's stand was too small, my brother's enormous stand sprung a leak moments after he and his family had erected their nine-foot, 12-ton tree; my husband nearly killed himself after cutting down our spruce in the beloved "cut your own" tradition as the snow was about 25 inches deep and the tree had to be dragged about 347 miles back to the truck. I heard rumors of someone giving in to the fight and finally nailing his tree to the hardwood floor! We had our own battle at home, during which at one point I said, exasperated, "John, we have killed a huge pine tree, shoved it in the house, and now we're trying to make it stand up? What are we doing?"

We did succeed at last however (with the help of fishing wire, lots of nails in our walls, and an ingenious use of our wok that is just 'way too hard to explain), and the war of the tree lighting began - hig lights or little lights? blinky or still? lots or few? colored or just white? Oh, the yearly battle is ugly but wholly unavoidable.

The hanging of the treasured Christmas balls is generally calm in our house because we tend to agree on how it should be done. It is yet another odd tradition, though, once again looking at it from a distance, as this tree in our house is adorned with lights, old colored balls, and various glass or plastic figures. There is an art to hanging the things just right, and that talent takes years of practice. We decorated it peacefully this year, and by golly, when all was told, it was beautiful. It still is.

Our 11-month-old son seemed to be only mildly confused when Daddy and Mommy crammed the blue spruce through the door and rolled it into the front room. He stares at it now with some wonder, but his efforts lie largely in removing the decorations and attempting to taste them. As far as the odd tradition, Robert sees Mommy and Daddy do a lot of strange things all the time, and probably just chalked this one up to yet another curious aspect of living. He will see it happen every year, and perhaps the smell of pine and the practice of traditions will for him, too, bring back Christmas memories (which I hope will be happy ones).

We will enjoy our tree for at least the 12 days of Christmas, and probably some time after that, as we don't subscribe to the "up the day after Halloween and down on Dec. 26" method. The quiet evenings of rocking the baby in front of the glimmering tree with all the other lights out are cherished moments for us.

I hope everyone survived their own tree ordeals and ended up with a pretty display. Despite the troubles, I love the tradition and all the warmth and fun of the season. May it continue for all during these passing days of Christmas

Preston Workshop Meets For Annual Christmas Dinner

The Preston County Sheltered Workshop held its annual Christmas dinner on Monday, December 21. The event was catered by Promise, a volunteer group that helps the Workshop with activities

The events for the day began with singing by JoAnn Plumof Arthurdale, who sang a variety of songs and also conducted a group sing. Richard Weekly, executive director of the Workshop, gave prayer before the dinner. After the buffet dinner Santa Claus appeared to distribute presents. Linda Dalton of Arthurdale and Tina Riley of Tunnelton assisted. Presents were from a gift exchange and through the efforts of Promise, which helped raise money earlier in the year to help purchase a $15 present for each employee. Employees (clients) also received a $15 Christmas bonus from the Workshop. The beef drawing was also held. Tom Harper from ning tickets. Winners of 1/4 beef were Rosalee Boggs, Masontown, and Kevin Fike Terra Alta. The raffle raised just over $800.

The volunteer of the Year award was broken down into three categories. Fay Weaver of Albright was the individual of the year. The Jim Andrews family of Independence took home the family volunteer award. Promise was awarded the group volunteer award. Plaques for Supported Employment business participants were also presented to McDonald's, Hardee's, Pizza Hut and Little Sandy's Truck Stop. Certificates were given to all who had worked in the Buckwheat Festival kitchen. Bruceton Bank in Kingwood received a plaque for donating the beef. Mountainland Animal Hospital of Kingwood and Harned Memorial Clinic of Bruceton Mills also received plaques for donating Buckwheat Fes-

The Workshop is currently planning a ski trip for January 10. The one day event will be held at Alpine Lake near Terra Alta. title last week (see separate story), the Southern High School girls' varsity traveled to Williamsport to compete in the Williamsport High Shootout tourney. After being edged by North Hagerstown, 49-46, in an opening round game on Monday, Coach Don Stemple's squad topped Boonsboro in the consolation match-up Tuesday night, 41-36. The split left the Rams with a 5-2 record.

Carrie Newcomb, who finished with a total of 37 points for the Rams in the two-game series, was named to the All-Tournament team.

Twenty-two of Newcomb's points, plus six steals. came in the opening game against North Hagerstown. The Rams trailed throughout the entire game, but stayed close and pulled to within three in the final minutes. They trailed 18-15 at the end of the first quarter, 30-21 at halftime. and 38-30 after three periods.

The Rams' production of only six points in the second quarter was a result of a successful full-court press by North Hagerstown (2-3).

No make-up games will be played on January 4, and the league will resume play on Jan. 11 at Southern Middle School. Games postponed on Dec. 14 because of inclement weather will be made up later in the season.

Youth Soccer Organizing In Casselman Valley

In the fall of this year, a committee was formed under the national umbrella of the American Youth Soccer Organization (AYSO) with the intent of bringing soccer to the Casselman Valley area in the spring of 1993. Several groups of parents had been transporting their children to Meyersdale to play AYSO soccer the last four years and felt there would be enough interest in the Casselman Valley area to begin a separate program.

Since then, regular meetings of the organizing committee have been scheduled monthly to plan for the coming season. The beginning of for Saturday, January 23, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Monday, January 25, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Grantsville fire hall. Parents may register any child, boy or girl, aged 41/2 to 18 years. The registration procedure informs, acquainting parents with the American Youth cluded with a 9-3 record. Soccer Organization, recruiting volunteers for the season, and sizing players for uniforms.

Since this organization is all volunteer, parents are encouraged to become involved in some way, either offensive backfield. through team parenting, coaching, officiating, concession managing, etc. Parents at registration in order to sign appropriate forms and become acquainted with the league. Registration costs are $15 per child for the first child in each family, and $14 for each additional child. Following the registration in January will be the scheduling of team meetings in February Atthistime, players will find out what team they are on, who will be coaching them, and who their team parent will be. Also, at this meeting they will be given the opportunity to choose a team name and color. More information concerning this team meeting will follow reg-

Practices will begin the end of March, weather permitting, with games sched-uled in May and June. Other regions in the schedule are

Northern High School varsity football coach Tom Vent and three members of his 1992 playoff team were named recipients of postseason honors by the East West Panhandle Football Coaches Association this past

Vent was named the Area All-Star team.

Husky mentor for the past six seasons, has led the Huskies to the Class C playoffs the past three seasons. This volvesfilling out registration year Northern made it to the state semi-finals and con-

pound senior, and Wagner, a 5-10, 205-pound senior, were both named to the offensive line of the All-Star team, while Wakefield, a junior (5-11, 170), was named to the East Hardy Coach Dave Walker, who has recorded a three-year mark of 24-9 and led the Cougars to three straight playoff bids in West Virginia, was named the West Virginia Division Coach of the Year

Meyersdale, Berlin, and Rockwood. Games and practices will be played at the field adjacent to the Mountain View Christian School in Springs, Pa. The season will culminate with a soccer picnic, recognizing team sponsors, giving parents the opportunity to play soccer, and sharing a meal. The organization is seeking business involvement through sponsorship. A$100 contribution will provide the business with exposure on the team banner. Plaques will also be awarded to each sponsor at the end of the season, with recognition at the soccerpicnic.

"The American Youth Soccer Organization is committed to kids becoming involved in the sport of soccer for fun," stated a league spokesman. "Teams are balanced, all children play at least three-fourths of each game, coaches use positive coaching techniques, and players are encouraged to play their hardest, do their best, and enjoy it! It is for the sake of our youth that this organization is formed."

Maryland's Two Major Revenues Showing Growth

"We're not out of the woods yet, but we are seeing better signs from the state's two major revenue sources, the income tax and the sales and use tax," Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reported.

An analysis of income tax revenue sent in by the state's 250 largest employ-ers from the third quarter of calendar year 1992 shows a nine percent growth over the same quarter of the previous year and a 4.3 percent growth over the second quarter of the current year.

More than 75 percent of Maryland's income tax revenue is the tax withheld from employees' paychecks and sent in by businesses," Goldstein said. Income tax is the largest single source of state revenue.

For the month of November, 1992, General Fund income tax revenue amounted to $334.9 million, up 13.1 lion collected in November,

This additional revenue brings the four-month General Fund income tax revenue to $1,046,902,148, a 3.9 percent increase over the $1,007,549,974 collected for the same period of fiscal year 1992," Goldstein said. Sales and use taxes provide the second largest source of General Fundrevenue and, for the month of November, 1992, totaled $139,961,634, up 12.1 percent over the $124,865,043 collected for the same month

This growth reflects tax increases enacted by the 1992 session of the General Assembly as well as the improving economy," Gold-stein said. "Our analysis of sales and use tax revenue for November shows substantial increases in the taxable food and beverage, genpercent over the $296.1 mil- eral merchandise, furniture and apparel categories."

For the month of Novem ber, 1992, the taxable food and beverage category produced $31.1 million, a 10.2 percent increase over November, 1991; the general merchandise category yielded $24.8 million, a growth of 13.8 percent; the furniture category produced $15.9 million, up 12.8 per-cent; and the apparel cat-egory produced $8.5 million, an 8.7 percent increase.

"The building and contractors category, which reflects construction activity, produced $17.7 million in November, 1992, an increase of eight-tenths of one percent," Goldstein said. In its December 10, 1992 and continued high vacancy rates. The board also said that the outlook for consumer spending after the holiday season will be af-fected by high personal debt burdens, lower than normal growth in wages and concerns about job losses due to economic restructing. Personal income in Maryland is expected to grow by three percent during calendar year 1992, by four percent in calendar year 1993 and by five percent in calendar year 1994.

report, the Board of Revthat consumer confidence enue Estimates noted that appears to have begun to the outlook for construction build in advance of the holiis weak due to excessive day season, we will be monicommercial construction toring the situation closely to see if the trend continues after the holiday season is over," Goldstein said. "We will also be closely watching the income tax refund situation because higher than expected refunds contributed to the state's fiscal year 1992 shortfall."

Rangers Warn About Improper

Disposal Of Ashes Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Foresters are warning Marylanders to take special precautions when disposing of hot ashes from wood stoves and fireplaces this winter According to forestry officials, one of the leading causes of brush fires in Southern Maryland has been hot ashes discarded on flammable natural cover such as leaves or cured

DNR Forest Ranger John Fishersaid, "Hot ashes in an exposed pile can smolder for two or three days before igniting brush." Fisher, who was recently selected as Southern Mary-land's Forest Ranger of the Year, said that these brush fires ignite and spread quickly.

To prevent winter wildfire, wood stove and fireplace users should take the following precautions:

1. Place ashes in a safe container, like a metal bucket, soak with water, and cover the container

2. Let ashes sit for at least two days until all hot embers are completely extinguished.

3. Dispose of cold ashes in a cleared area, 10 feet or more in width, free of all flammable materials.

4. Avoid leaving containers of ashes on porches, patios or decks, or in garages. sheds or any other structures.

Proper precautions can reduce the risk of wildfire damaging your land or prop-erty," Fisher said.

In was incorrectly reported in the December 17 edition of The Republican in Garrett County District Court news that Melissa D DiSimone, 20, Oakland, was given a 90-day jail term after being found guilty of DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol). Actually, the jail term was suspended and she was fined $500 and placed on 18 months of supervised DWI monitoring

The Ladies Aid Christmas get-together was held Tues-day, December 15, in the Community building with a carry-in dinner and gift exchange. Table grave was by Pastor David Kisamore. In the afternoon Pastor Kisamore read the scripture, with comments and discussion afterwards. Then the group sang Christmas carols and other hymns. Attending were Arlena Dilley, Bessie Canan, Afle Sisler, Hazel Upole, Naomi Ford, Carolyn Foster, Mildred Peterson, Elaine Beckman, John Foster, David Kisamore, and Bud Zimmerman.

The annual Christmas program at the U.B. Church in Underwood was held on Sunday evening, Dec. 20.

Glenn and Polly Canan of Owasso, Okla., arrived to spend a week with the families during the holidays. This is the first time Glenn has been able to be home for Christmas since 1963. They were accompanied here by a nephew, Rick Martin

On Sunday evening, December 20, the families of Bessie and the late Harry Canan arrived for the get-together of the family in the home of Mrs. Canan. Attending were Milton and Dawn Canan, Clarissa, Autumn, David, Scott, Jarrod and Krytle Canan, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Paugh and Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Dodge. On Wednesday evening a large group of Christmas carolers from the Amish community came to the home of Bessie Canan for carol singing. There were more than 40 singers in the group and had visited other homes in the community.

Health Insurance, Government Regs Major Concerns

The cost of health insurance premiums and state governmental regulations are the top headaches facing Maryland's small-business owners, according to a new survey by the state chapter of the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB).

When asked to name the top state issue affecting their business, more than half (54.6 percent) cited the coat of health insurance pre-miums, while one-third (33.3 percent) pointed to state governmental regula-

P. Goeden, state director of the NFIB chapter.

Other top issues included state business taxes (3rd), unemployment insur-ance taxes (4th), workers' compensation (5th), liabil-ity insurance (6th), state personal taxes and poorly qualified workers.

Nationally, the smallbusiness owners said workers' compensation was the top state problem, followed by health insurance premiums, governmental regulations, liability insurance premiums, state business taxes, unemployment insurance taxes, state personal taxes and poorly qualified workers.

And when asked what level of government affects their business the most, the Maryland NFIB members said state government impacts them the most, followed by federal government actions and then local government acts. The small-business community took a hard hit last year when the General Assembly raised taxes to balance the budget, as well as a surtax on unemployment insurance taxes," said Goeden. "Needless to say, the business community is nervously eyeing the opening of the legislative session next month." With more than 7,300

members, NFIB is Maryland's largest small-business advocacy organization. Legal Aid Bureau

Announces January Outreach Schedule

Staff members of the Legal Aid Bureau, Inc. will be available to discuss legal problems with persons during the month of January 1993 in Oakland on January 5 and January 19 at the Community Action Center, 360 West Liberty Street.

The Bureau representative will be available from 10 a.m. until noon on the above-mentioned dates.

The Bureau provides legal assistance in civil matters to eligible persons. Services are available at no cost to those whose income and property holdings are below certain federally man dated levels

The Western Maryland office of the Legal Aid Bu-reau is located at 110 Greene Street in Cumberland. The office can be reached in Garrett County by calling 334-8832.

Whenever possible, persons needing assistance should call in advance to schedule an appointment for the Outreach location or for an appointment at the

Cumberland office. Persons should always call the Cumberland office at 334-8832 by 10 a.m. on scheduled Outreach days to confirm whether the representative will be available in Oakland, depending upon weather conditions.

Miners May Be Susceptible To Silicosis

According to the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH), workers involved in rock drilling and mining may be at risk for developing silicosis, a chronic, irreversible, and sometimes fatal, respiratory disease which is completely pre-ventable. Those at risk include drillers employed in surface coal mining, caisson construction, metal mining, slate and rock quarries, tunnel construction, and highway and dam construction. Silicosis first received widespread attention in 1936 when over 1,500 men died near the town of Gauley Bridge, W. Va., as a result of breathing in silica dust. The disease is caused by breathing in fine particles of crystalline silica which is a primary component of sandstone. Once the silica particles enter the lungs, they become trapped and swelling occurs around the particles forming nodules which eventually obstruct air flow and impair breathing. Eventually the worker may die of respiratory fail-

The symptoms of silicosis are much like that of bronchitis, emphysema, and tuberculosis. Therefore, it is often misdiagnosed and proceeds untreated. The symptoms include shortness of breath, cough, difficulty in breathing with physical exertion, bluish skin color, fever, and fungal or mycobacterial infection of the lungs. With no cure available, and little hope of recovery, the only viable treatment in the advanced stages of silicosis is a lung transplant. Anyone with any of these symptoms should consult a physician immediately.
NIOSH offers these guidelines for at-risk workers to follow:

Practice good personal hygiene to avoid unnecessary exposure to silica dust.

Wear washable or disposable protective clothes at the worksite, and shower and change into clean clothes before leaving the worksite to prevent contamination of cars, homes, and other work areas.

Use respiratory protection when source controls cannot keep silica exposure below the NIOSH recommended exposure

* Have periodic medical examinations.

More information on silicosis and other lung related diseases may be obtained by contacting the American Lung Association of Maryland at (301) 777-7317 or 1-800-222-9974 (toll free in Maryland).

Labor Department notes that such local area consumer price indexes (CPI) are "by products" of the national CPI program. They further note that while the local area indexes show "greater volatility than the national index," "the long term trends are similar

The current CPI uses 1982-1984 average prices as the base period The CPI then compares current pr with prices during the 1982 1964 period

Food Costs Increase As of May 1992, the Labor Department reports that since 1982-1984 the price of all tems purchased by Baltimors consumers ncreased 40 percent Over the same period, Baltimore consumers experienced a 42 percent increase in food costs The cost of dairy products was up 37 percent

These figures compare with US average prices for May 1992, relative to 1982-1964, as follows: all items plus 40 percent; food, plus 37 percent, and dairy products plus 27 percent

These figures demonstrate that the real cost of milk and dairy products to Maryland consumers has decreased over the last decade. Maryland consumers have benefitted from continuing productivity improvements on Maryland dairy farms and by Mary-

The average price re-ceived by Maryland milk producers in 1991 was $13.00 per one hundred pounds (cwt.). This price decreased $1.90 per cwt, or 13 percent, from the 1990 average price received by Maryland producers

Farm Numbers Decline Since 1986, Maryland dairy farm numbers have decreased 24 percent (from 2100 to 1600 farms), Maryland dairy cow numbers are down 15 percent (from 122,000 to 104,000) and Maryland milk production has declined 13 percent (from 16 to 14 billion pounds). These declines are the result of "sell-outs" by Maryland dairy farmers The cost/price squeeze on Maryland dairy farmers has intensified with movement toward a "market oriented" Federal dairy policy. In less than 10 years, the U.S. support price for milk used to produce manufactured dairy products has le-creased 23 percent, from $13 10 to $10.10 per cwt. Because of the state's relatively high population density, Maryland dairy farmers also face considerable 'urban pressure" on land devoted to dairy farming

An August 1991 study y Drs. Robert Yonkers and Blair Smith, at the Pennsylvania State University, concluded that "during the period January 1989 through June 1991, Pennsylvania farm milk prices were higher, and Pennsylvania retail milk prices lower, than those in the U.S. as a whole. The marketing margin, or the difference between what the farmer got and what the consumer paid, was lower in Pennsylvania than in the U.S. by an average of 13.5 cents per half-gallon of whole milk." the establishment of a Maryland Milk Commission will benefit the state's consumers The proposed Milk Commission law will provide authority to establish minimum producer prices for Maryland dairy farmer milk The law will also provide for the licensing of entities distributing packaged fluid dairy products in Maryland. The proposal further contains permissive authority for requiring that wholesale fluid milk not be

The proposed Commismon has no authority to limit the ability of Marvland proceasing plants to freely procure milk irrespective of geographic source Maryland processing plants will also continue to have every incentive to adopt productivity increasing/cost reducing technology. The Commission will have no authority to in any way inhibit such activity

The Commission will have no authority to limit the production of milk by dairy farmers. Nor will the Commission have the ability to obstruct competition through restrictive licensing practices.

In addition, producer prices established by the Commission as is currently the case in Virginia and Pennsylvania will need to be closely aligned with competitive market prices given that raw and packaged milk move freely in interstate commerce.

The structure and operation of the Commission will also provide that: 1. the prices established by the Commission must be based on the record of public hearings;

2. a majority of the Commission's members (including the administrator) will be consumers who are prohibited from having "any connection financially or otherwise with the produc-

5. the Commission's authority will remain subject to legislative repeal or amendment, including Sunset Review," by the Maryland legislature.

The Task Force believes urgent action is needed to arrest the rapid decline of Maryland dairy farm numbers and milk production. Maryland dairy farmers, of necessity, form the base of the state's dairy industry. They are ably providing for the needs of the state's residents. Without a healthy milk producer sector, the Larry Sterling, a 1966 graduate of WVU College of Agriculture, will serve as the stockyard manager. The auctioneer will be Swanton resident Leonard Custer.

After opening in 1938, the stockyard offered stability in area agriculture until the early 1970s. Over the last 17 years, there have been seven major management changes, according to McConnell. "That's not stable," McConnell said. "We hope to be aggressive and business-like and provide that agricultural leadership. Most importantly, we want to do what's best for the farmer in the most respectful way -- the way that they deserve.

"We're going to show respect for the farmers, and that's a very important concept," McConnell continued. "Farmers will be shown that someone is going to work as hard to sell it as they did to grow it. I think that's an important concept. Market support will be an important issue at the stockyard."

The sale of livestock will begin every Friday, sharply at 2 p.m. Hay, fenceposts and firewood will be auctioned beginning at 12:30 p.m. Areas that the new ownership will concentrate on improving first include yearling cattle and lamb marketing McConnell says there is wide opportunity in the area for yearling cattle marketing and it will be "pushed harder." He adds that for lamb marketing they will use "yield & grade" and may try consignments. In both cases, he says, they will work on marketing. The new owners intend to begin horse sales on a regular (perhaps monthly) schedule and plan to hold one or two equipment sales a year. Vegetable marketing is another area they will explore. Preston County is famous for its potatoes. and state-funded farmers' markets have encouraged a wide variety of vegetable production. McConnell says now that counties must contend with severe state budget cuts, the future doesn't look promising for Extension agents and the leadership they have historically provided. "We intend to put the stockyard in a position to provide this leadership,' McConnell said.

The agent stated that the sale had grown under former owner Emory Crites, and the new owners intend to take it from there and help it to continue growing. At the beginning of the first sale, McConnell will turn the operation over to manager Larry Sterling and go back to concentrating on his full-time job as county Extension agent.

McConnell concluded by saying that the future of the stockyard was always unsure. "This move is to present the yard with a secure future and to provide the management and leadership to make that hap-

"Country Cousins" Tell How Life

Really Is On Farm Reprinted with permission from USDA's "Ag in the Classroom Notes."

Until recently, millions of third graders' first introduction to agriculture might have come from a social studies textbook:

"Nathan shivers as his feet touch the cold floor. He hurries to dress but he can still feel the wind blowing through the cracks around his upstairs window. From there he can see his father going into the old cow barn. Beyond the barn, as far as he can see, are brown plowed fields, small puddles of water, bare trees, and wooden fences. He goes downstairs, puts on his boots and an old iacket.

Now, thanks to six farm families and an employee of Kansas State Board of Agriculture, a more recent social studies textbook will feature a contemporary, accurate, and detailed look at Kansas agriculture.

mix theiring - a thick, white During the summer of 1989, Judith Williams, a projects editor with the publishing company of Silver Burdett & Ginn contacted Loreen McMillan, marketing specialist with the Kansas Board of Agriculture. Williams asked for assistance in preparing a chapter that would help students across the country -- most of whom might have little personal connection with agriculture -- understand more about what happens on a

For example, one Kansas child described fall and winter on the farm this way:

I go with my dad a lot after school to check on the cattle, mend fences, and do the chores. We have to make sure that none of the cattle are sick, and if they are, we doctor them.

"When it gets colder and the snow comes, we take the cattle away from the wheat. The wheat is resting now and would be hurt if the cattle continued graz-

McMillan says that she had originally not intended for the letters to be published. But she believes the first-person writing conveyed an immediacy that will help convey two important messages. First, children learn that farming is a year-round activity with never a moment when there isn't something to do. Even on the most wintry day,

paired. Second, students learn that farming is a hands-on experience shared by the entire family.

The new textbook, "Comparing Communities, is now in use in thousands

McMillan says the Kansas experience is "a first in influencing textbook publishers to include more accurate information about agriculture."

Are You Ready?

Midnight . . . New Year's Eve. Confetti flies! Laughter resounds! This is the long awaited moment. It is a new beginning.

Everyone is confident. Resolutions have been made for weeks. This year will be different! Are you ready?

This year can be different with God's help. We can keep those resolutions with the strength which God provides, long after New Year's Day has come and gone.

Life is unpredictable, and reality may attempt to weaken our resolve. Without His help we are as helpless as babes, yet when we trust in God, we are promised that "Old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new" (2 Corinthians 5:17).

Listen! Hear the church bells ring throughout the city, a most important signal of this new start. Hearken to those bells each Sabbath of the coming year. Walk with God. You will aluays be ready.

and it is particularly used in the New Testament to denote the spiritual gifts which God gives to his people. Although, according to Paul, the gifts of the Holy Spirit are diverse (1 Cor.12), he implies that all true Christians experience God's Holy Spirit and are gifted by him. So, to be a sincere follower of Jesus Christ is to be gifted by God in one or more ways--in other words charismatic GLOSSOLALIA 1 m aware, however, that in our time the word "charismatic" often is given a much narrower definition and in the minds of many refers solely to those Christians who seek and find those spiritual gifts given in a state of ecstatic fervor-most often, glossolalia or "speaking in tongues," an experience that Paul termed the least of gifts and which in ancient and contemporary times has divided the churches. In 1 Corinthians 14-18, 19 Paul says:

nevertheless, in church I would rather speak five words with my mind, in order to instruct others, than ten thousand words in a tongue

I have no problem with those Christians who "speak in tongues," but neither am I willing to grant that their experience is normative for charis matic Christianity The ecutation experience is not for all Chris tians and the particular experi ence of the glossolalia people is not broad enough to cover ail of the work of the Holy Spirit

Actually, the Pentecost ex perience of Acts 2 is a broadening, rather than narrowing ex perience. For one thing, the Holy Spirit came upon all-not just the more devout or doctri nally correct -who "were all together in one place" (2:1). We don't know whether those gathered together were 12 or 120 in number, but the writer of Acta tells us, "And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit" (2:4) This was an inclusive, not an

GOOD NEWS. NOT BARRLING

This experience is also quite different from what Paul speaks of in his letters to the church at Corinth There they snoke in unintelligible sounds, like the glossolalia of today. But the writer of Acts tells us that all the disciples "began to speak in other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance" (2:4). These were not unintelligible sounds but foreign languages, for there were lots of foreigners in Jerusalem from "every nation under heaven" and "each one heard them speaking in his own language" (2:6). This was not inco herent babbling, but the good news of Jesus Christ in a variety of foreign languages-the writer of Acts suggests at least

So, instead of dividing this great throng, the gifts of the Holy Spirit actually united these people. As Theodore P. Ferris says, "They were a group of people who probably had nothing else in common save this one thing: they loved Jesus." When people love Jesus, no matter how diverse they may be or varied the means in which they express their love of Jesus, the gifts of God's Holy Spirit unites them and reaches out to unite the world as well. In that, we are all charismatics and pentecostal broke all the rules the last 16 years," says Jane Seymour "No one notices, but I've been doing miniseries and movies of the week and never managed to do a series."

new CBS series, "Dr Quinn, Medicine Woman" (airing Saturdays), centers around a Bostonian woman who moves to the frontier town of Colorado Springs in the late 1860s after the death of her father, with whom she had practiced

"I related so much to the idea of being a doctor's daugh ter, which I am." savs Sevmour "I went on rounds with my father, and I saw major surgery by the time I was 10 Then the whole concept of being a fish out of water - in my case being English and learning and adopting the American ways. I am Michaela Quinn I came out West, and here I am I'm now doing what the Americans presumably do best making Westerns The series takes few liberties with historical facts There were a handful of women physicians in the late 1860s; most of them practiced in areas that were either extremely

"Everything is accurate, even down to the instruments I use," says Seymour. "Any time I see any of the writers, their heads are buried in research."

CBS is counting heavily on "Dr Quinn," which scored astonishingly well when it was tested with sample audiences, to turn around its ratings on Saturday nights

"Everyone says it's a hit, but I hate to think that way, because we could be damned," says Seymour. "And we're being put in the worst slot known to television. I'm just hoping that the audience out there that's been complaining forev-er about the fact that there s nothing on television that's meaningful, that doesn't have to do with mindless violence or mindless sex. that represents men and women - especially women in a positive light. and that is something that you can watch with your children but isn't necessarily just for well, here it is.

She's also hoping that her following from such miniseries as "Captains and the Kings." "East of Eden" and "War and Remembrance" will give "Dr. Quinn" a boost

'I hope that anyone who ever liked my work will realize that I've been as choosy as I was ever able to be." says. "Economics sometimes came into play, but more often than not I kept to fairly classy things, and I think this is as classy a series as I've ever read. I've got a ton of other stuff ready to do, so if it doesn't work out it's not the end of the world for me. But I hope at least it's given a

Jane Seymour and Joe Lando star in "Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman." The Western, which revolves around a female physician in 1860s Colorado, airs Saturdays on CBS

n the Company of Darkness" (CBS, Jan. 5) feeds our onng sordid appetite for serial-killing atrocities. Inspired by real events - which often means that the killer is a composite of a number of different real-life murderers - the drama concerns the undercover work by police officer Gina Pulasky (Helen Hunt) to lure a multiple murderer (Steven

Dean may hold more screen time, but it's Dus tin Hoffman who steals the show as the thuggish Schultz. ineptly trying to show a little class, yet never hesitating to commit murder when business necessitates it

While the movie excels at historic re-creations, it runs aground when it strays too far from reality such as asking viewers to believe an adolescent would fool around with the moll (Nicole Kidman) of a vicious gangster. But the greatest break with realism comes in the person of Bruce Willis, who, in a small role as a rival hood, fails to come across as anyone but Bruce

SOAP SCOOP

John McCook gets Eric Forrester out of woods

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

ohn McCook, who has played Eric, the stuffy head of both the Forrester the premiere of The Bold and the Beautiful" in 1987, completely understands the art of soap opera - plus, he's remarkably candid

McCook has long successfulworked for the family of Bill Bell, the executive pro-

John McCool

ducer and head writer of "B&B," who holds the same po-sition on "The Young and the Restless." on which McCook played Lance Prentiss from 1976-80. But McCook was not above sweating when "B&B" supervising producer Bradley Bell (Bill's son) called him in for a little chat recently

'A meeting is unusual," McCook says. "He called me in and said. I don't want to see you play dad anymore. I don't want to see you play the head of the company anymore When we want that, we'll put you in a suit. You re a contemporary of Ridge's we want to play that characterization.

Ridge (played by Ronn Moss) is Eric's son and usually the show's romantic leading man The transfer last May of

Sheila Carter (played by Kimberlin Brown) from "Y&R" to "B&B" gave McCook's Eric a chance to be romantic, too Lately, however, due to the birth of a baby of dubious fa-therhood to Brooke (played by Katherine Kelly Lang), the ro-mance has been played down "Bradley told me that lately

I've been kind of distant, not emotionally connecting with anyone." McCook says. "I guess I was being very adminthe business "And I was so glad." McCook continues. "I had been frustrated for a long time I had gotten down, playing the dad and the boss. But now my role is evolving McCook says the beauty and, sometimes, the pain of doing a half-hour soap is that characters must be many things at once. "You can't just be the leading man. You have to fill several other slots, too. I can have my mature relationship with (ex-wife) Stephanie (played by Susan Flannery). I can be that guy who is having the midlife crisis But in addi tion. I have to be a viable romantic leading man for Brooke and Sheila If I were or an hour show, there would be three other guys playing my role. I mean. I'm doing Quinn Redeker (who plays patriar-chal Rex Sterling on 'Y&R'), a little Peter Barton (who plays befuddled husband Scot Grainger on 'Y&R') and a little ornery Jack Abbott on 'Y&R')

In Martin Scorsese's "Cape

Nick Nolte (pictured) plays a lawyer whose former client (Robert De Niro) has just been released from prison and is determined to exact revenge for his lawyer's lessthan-total commitment to his defense. And he considers every one of the lawyer's friends and family members pawns in the revenge. The result is a thoroughly nasty and gripping drama It pre mieres Friday, Jan. 1, on Showtime

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW ****

Local Service Man In Somalia

Construction Mechanic First Class Raymond E. Cooper Jr., assigned to Naval Mobile Construction, Battalion 40, departed on December 13 for Mogandishu, Somalia.

Assigned to H Co. S2 Intelligence, his primary duties are to monitor enemy activities and capabilities. NMCB 40 (Seabees) 640 man battalion has the task of repairing and building airfields, repairing over 2,000 miles of roads, drilling wells to supply clean drinking water, constructing ammunition supply points, fuel depots, and camp facilities to support the Marine Expeditioning

CM1 Cooper is a former resident of Deer Park. He is the son of Raymond and Edith Cooper (deceased) and a 1974 graduate of Southern High School. His wife, Kathy, and daughters, Darice and Brittany, are currently living Camarillo, Calif.

Donald Eugene Keeney Jr. recently enlisted in the United States Navy for guaranteed training at the Navy's Nuclear Power School.

Keeney, a resident of Aurora, is a senior at Preston High School. Enlisting under the Delayed Entry Program, Keeney will, upon graduation, report to Recruit Training Center, Orlando, Fla., in September 1993 to begin basic training.

Following basic training, Keeney will begin approximately two years of schooling at Orlando in the nuclear power field. The Navy's Nuclear Power Program offers extensive training as nuclear specialists to those with aptitudes in mathematics and science. The standards for selection for enlistment in the Navy's nuclear field are high. Anyone applying for nuclear power training must be seriously interested in pursuing the challenges this highly technical field offers.

Upon completion of all his schooling (approximately two years classroom study and hands-on training.) Keeney can expect an assignment to a modern nuclear-powered surface ship or may volunteer for submarine service.

U.S. Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Todd J. Beahm, son of Rev. A. Ray and Rebecca A. Beahm, Crellin, recently arrived off the coast of Somalia aboard the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk, homeported in San Diego, Calif., in support of the relief effort, Operation Restore Hope.

Forward deployed to the Western Pacific and Indian Ocean since early November, the USS Kitty Hawk (CV 63) battle group relieved the USS Ranger (CV 61) battle group off Somalia. This is the Kitty Hawk's first deployment since completing a four-year overhaul in December 1991, extending its service life by 15

sea. During this deployment. Beahm has visited Hong Kong and Singapore.

The 1987 graduate of Southern Garrett High School joined the Navy in July 1987.

U.S. Marine Lance Cpl. Edward J. Delilo, son of Patsy J. Bolyard, Route 1, Swanton, recently returned with 26th Marine Expeditionary Unit, Camp Lejeune, N.C., from a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean as part of Mediterranean Amphibious

Ready Group 2-92. The nearly 2,000 Marines and sailors of the MEU participated in several joint NATO exercises in Spain, Tunisia, Italy, France and Turkey, including Display Determination-92, the largest combined NATO exercise in over four years. Elements of the unit also participated in Operation Provide Promise, the United Nations' humanitarian relief effort in former Yugoslavia.

Their deployment exemplified the Navy's new strategy entitled "... From the Sea," which shifts the sea services' focus from a global threat to regional challenges and concentrates on near land wartare and maneuver from the sea.

The Navy and Marine Corps "sea-air land" team is capable of a full range of action -- from port visits and humanitarian relief to major offensive operations.

Delilo visited ports in Spain, Greece, Israel, Italy, France and Morocco.

The 1991 graduate of Westmar High School, Lonaconing, joined the Marine Corps in June 1991.

Real Estate Facts

by Robert Huebner, Broker Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty

How Much is Enough?

My word is my bond! That expression held great meaning to land buyers and sellers in the "olden" days. Most real estate sales were made with a handshake, and a verbal promise to complete the transaction at some future

Later, as a show of their good intentions, buyers would give sellers a sum known as 'earnest money'' to be held until the sale was consummated. Usually a small amount, this deposit had more ceremonial significance than monetary assurance of a completed sale.

Today, earnest money deposits are a part of most every real estate transaction. The amount used as a deposit is negotiable between buyers and sellers, with no minimum or maximum required by law.

There may, however, be a strong message attached to the amount of money tendered by home purchasers. As the saying goes "money talks!" Thus, if sellers are presented with two identical offers on their home, one with a $10,000 deposit, and the other with $500, which do you think they are most likely to accept?

Remember, a contract to purchase and sell a home is only the first step toward reaching a successful conclusion of the transaction. For sellers, it is important to know that the buyers, with whom they have entered into an agreement to sell, fully intend to complete the purchase.

The more money buyers offer as earnest money, the louder their good intentions speak to the sellers. The alternative raises a flag of caution. As sellers, how would you like to obligate your valuable home to purchasers who have only $100 of their money at stake?

Having said that, please understand that earnest money is just one factor to be considered when buying or selling a home. The amount of the deposit is relative, and will depend on the unique nature of each property. Detailed information about earnest money deposits is available from the real estate agent you choose group of close friends or family, a warm and well ording home, lively conversation and deficious food -- the keys to a terrific dinner party sound surprisingly simple. Yet many people today ste quite intiinidated at the thought of entertaining in their own home

The ruth is that throwing a dinner party can be amazingly easy and inexpensive. The secret is being organized and keeping it simple by using easy-to-prepare and delicious ingredients including canned foods. According to the Canned Food Information Council, there are more than 1,500 foods available in cans. including out of-season items and foods from around the world. With so much variety available, you can create delicious and creative appetizers, side dishes, entrees and desserts in no time.

Whether you choose fruits, juices, vegetables, meats, seatoods or specialty items, canned foods can help cut down cooking time. Entertaining is easier because canned foods are already prepared and cooked during the canning process. There is no peeling, chopping, cleaning or even cooking required -- heat processing has already sterilized and preserved the food. And hosts can feel great about the good taste and nutrition they're serving hecause studies show that canned foods are equal in nutrition to their tresh and frozen counterparts when prepared for the table

What kinds of canned foods are good for entertaining? nv - and all - of them clams, water chestnuts, artichoke hearts and bottoms mushrooms, tomato products and various fruits are great for eye-appealing hors d'oeuvres. By using seafoods, meats and specialty items in cans, you can create a variety of salad and entree options. Try mixing mayonnaise with canned crab or salmon, capers, dill and chopped red pepper. Garnish with artichoke hearts, asparagus spears and more red peppers and you've got a feast fit for entertaining

Organization Is the Key Ingredient

Entertaining is mostly about organization so the first step in throwing a dazzling dinner party is to make a list of everything you will need including ingredients (don't forget gamishes), pots and pans, serving pieces, plates and silverware

The next step is to select your menu, and the key here is to choose recipes that are simple and delicious and with which you are the most comfortable. The Canned Food Information Council suggests these recipes for a great tasting, simple and unusual dinner party. All of the recipes are delicious and everappealing, and, most importantly, easy to prepare but your guests will probably think you spent hours in the kitchen.

Once you've made your list and have selected your menu get to work! Try to get as much done in advance as possible. Keep the following in mind and you're sure to

- Shop early and prepare as much as possible ahead of time Choose side dishes, appetizers and desserts that are quick to make and don't require elaborate or difficult-to-find ingredients. Most soups can be prepared several days in advance or even frozen the
- I imit your guest list to eight for easier meal preparation and serving
- Set a special table several days before the party Remember that flowers can transform any room
- Make a schedule of all the things that need to be done the day of the party. Note the time each dish will be made, put in the oven, removed, taken out of the refrigerator and warmed up. Also note what garnishes
- Make your guests feel special remember a favorite dish, brand of scotch or type of tea-
- You may want to have copies of your recipes on hand should any of your guests inquire
- Keep your perspective this is, after all, only a meal. Relax' It, despite all your planning, something should go wrong, do the best you can to correct it and forget it.

Middle Eastern Meat and Vegetable Kabobs

- pounds lean boneless lamb, pork or beef. cut into 1-inch cubes
- 2 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil 2 tablespoons lime juice 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 teaspoon ground turmeric 2 teaspoon ground
- teaspoon ground cumin
- 4 teaspoon salt 2 cans (16 ounces each) whole potatoes, drained
- I can (4 ounces) hutton mushrooms, drained medium green peppers.
- cut into 1-inch pieces 2 medium onions, cut into wedges 16 cherry tomatoes
- 4 teaspoon gartic powder 4 teaspoon ground allspice 14 teaspoon black pepper

Arrange meat in shallow glass baking dish. Combine oil, lime juice, garlic, turmenc, cardamom, cumin, allspice and salt; drizzle over meat and mix to coat all sides. Refrigerate, covered, 2 to 4 hours.

Cut potatoes into halves or quarters, making pieces about the same size. Sprinkle potatoes, mushrooms, peppers, onions and tomatoes with garlic powder and pepper. Alternate meat and vegetables on 8 large or 16 medium skewers. Grill over hot coals or broil 6 inches from heat source to desired degree of doneness. turning kabobs occasionally, 10 to 15 minutes. State Board To Consider Overhaul Of Teacher Prep.

The State Board of Education has received a plan that could fundamentally hange the way teachers are trained and licensed to enter the state's classrooms Board members questioned taff about the plan and said they are not yet prepared to endorse it.

In presenting the draft plan, State School Superintendent Nancy Grasmick called it a "conceptual framework" that was drawn in "in accordance with a Maryland Higher Education Commission proposal to reform teacher preparation." Earlier this month, after a two-year study, a task force appointed jointly by Secretary of Higher Education Shaila Aery and Dr. Grasmick presented a proposal for reforming teacher preparation to the commisof Education plan contains concepts and mechanisms to carry out the Department's role in supporting the higher education commission proposal. The Department is responsible for approving teacher education programs and for certifying teachers.

The plan would: Require prospective teachers to complete a fouryear undergraduate degree program in the arts and sciences to ensure that they have a substantial foundation in general education and content knowledge.

Require prospective teachers to take a fifth "professional development year" in education leading to licensure by the State Department of Education. The teacher candidate would engage in school-based clinical experience, possibly serving as a teaching in-tern under a supervising teacher or mentor.

Tie the reform of teacher education to school reform. Similar to the Maryland School Performance Program, the concentration on outcomes in assessing teacher training programs would give the program considerable flexibility to reach the outcomes by innovative programs designed by program faculty.

The State Department of Education plan outlines the knowledge and skills necessary for effective teaching in a separate docu-ment, "Essential Dimensions of Teaching." document emphasizes that learning to teach is a continuous cycle of learning, analyzing, acting, and re-

The State Department of Education plan also calls for a total overhaul of teacher licensing regulations. The proposed new regulations would expand options for entering the teaching profession, allow more flexibility in course requirements, and restrict the number of teachers teaching out of their field of

Brown Announces New Community Recognition Effort

Secretary of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Torrey C. Brown, M.D., has announced the kickoff of a joint effort between DNR's Forestry Programs and the Maryland Community Forest Council to recognize communities across Maryland that are actively involved in community tree planting and care.

This novel idea is the linch pin to the successful efforts in many areas of resource conservation," Dr. Brown said. "Maryland PLANT Community is an admirable way for communities to work together for farmore than their own com-
